Controllership Tangle Ties Up City Employes' Pay

EVANS SNARL TIES UP CITY PAYROLL

Pittsburgh Minus Controller After Resignation Is Accepted by Councilmen

City employes face two moneyless pay days before Christmas because the city has no controller to approve warrants for cash from banks.

Employes of the school board, including teachers, face the same embarrassment as the city controller performs a similar function for the Board of Public Education.

Merchants and contractors, with payments due from the city, will have to wait probably a month for their money.

At a special meeting of Council yesterday, attended by a throng of spectators and marked by spirited discussion, Council voted 5 to 4 to accept former Controller Henry O. Evans' resignation, submitted last Wednesday.

Shortly before Council met, Evans discharged Deputy Controller John Schilpp, Jr.

Councilman Daniel Winters, elected by the people last November 5 to succeed Evans, indicated he may not assume the controllership until January 6, fearing legal complications.

HOW THEY VOTED

Voting to accept Evans' resignation were President Malone, Alderdice, Anderson, Garland and McArdle. Opposed, English, Herron, Little and Winters.

If Winters were to assume the controllership immediately he would first have to resign from Council.

His vacated seat would be filled by members of Council who opposed Mayor Kline at the last election as they constitute a majority. P. J. McArdle, defeated for re-election, probably would be chosen.

If Winters delays his resignation until January 6, the new Council would be organized and Mayor Kline would have a majority with his own vote and those of English, Herron and the new members, Clifford B. Connelly and M. J. Muldowney.

After Council adjourned yesterday, Mayor Kline invited English, Herron, Little and Winters to a closed conference. They were joined in the Mayor's office by Dr. F. H. Frederick, who managed Mayor Kline's campaign for re-

BYRD'S ROUTE TO POLE

BYRD CROSSES SOUTH POLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Commander Richard E. Byrd today was hailed by the world as the first man ever to have flown across both the North and South Poles.

Last night, the New York Times, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and newspapers affiliated with them in publishing reports from Commander Byrd's Antarctic Expedition announced that the commander had safely returned to his base, Little America, after a successful flight across the South Pole in which he surveyed much adjacent territory.

The flight from Bryd's base in Antarctica and return, a distance

NOTRE DAME AND ARMY CLASH

Crowd of 70,000 Expected To See Great Football Fight at Yankee Stadium

By JESS CARVER

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—An undefeated and untied band of Irish footballers will test with armor plate chins the kick of the 1929 Army mule here today. The test will come when Notre Dame and Army clash in their fifteenth annual football game.

This contest, to be fought out in the Yankee Stadium, before a certain capacity crowd of 70,000, has taken New York in a way it has seldom been attracted in the past, football men here say.

Judging from the sort of dough the smart boys on Forty-second street are asking for a pair of ducats, this must be true. What seats are not locked up in safety deposit vaults are being handled by curb and legitimate ticket brokers for 100 smackers a pair. The printed price is four bucks.

LAST TILT FOR JONES

There are so many colorful angles to today's contest that it would take the Congressional Record to hold 'em all. The game is the last one between Notre Dame and Army in which Capt. L. McCall (Biff) Jones will coach the Cadets. It will also mark the final appearance of stars of the caliber of Chris Cagle and Murrell, of Army, and of John Law, captain of the Irish.

The entire Cadet Corps will be on hand, lending added color to an already sparkling picture. The soldiers will indulge in some sprightly military maneuvers in the stadium prior to the game.

MIX UNDERGOES OPERATION

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Tom Mix, screen cowboy, occupied a bed in Mercy Hospital today after he underwent a serious operation on his shoulder late last night.

The operation was necessitated by the recurrence of pains in the shoulder that had been fractured when Mix was thrown from a horse during a circus performance at Dallas, Tex., September 9.

Dr. Charles Fox, prominent San Diego surgeon, who performed the operation, declared that, although the screen star was resting well, it would be at least three weeks before Mix would be out of the hospital.

The operation consisted of wiring the shoulder blade into place and then of sewing several torn ligaments.

Mix had been spending a few days at Tia Juana and Agua Caliente, having left here for the Mexican resorts last Tuesday. The pain in his shoulder became so severe two days ago that he visited Dr. Fox, who immediately ordered him to the hospital.

The patient's wife, Mrs. Victoria Mix, as soon as she heard of her husband's plight in Hollywood, declared her intention of going to San Diego.

ZERO WAVE HERE TAKES 5 LIVES

Two Boys Burned to Death In Duquesne Heights Fire; Man Walks in Train's Path

An unprecedented November cold wave that caused zero and below-zero temperatures throughout this district, took a toll of five lives.

1—A student of Carnegie Institute of Technology died early today, apparently of poisoning, after being found unconscious and suffering from exposure, on the steps of Welsh Hall, Tech dormitory, 5122 Woodlawn avenue.

2—Two children were burned to death when their home at 611 Sweetbriar street was destroyed by fire starting from an overheated cookstove.

3—Confused by the wind and cold, Peter Istvan, 45, of Munhall, wandered onto railroad tracks and was killed by a passenger train.

4—David Hickey, 56, was found frozen to death in a hallway at 1201 Webster avenue.

Two children were burned to death when fire from an overheated cookstove destroyed their home at 611 Sweetbriar street at 3 a. m. today.

They were Edward Williams, 12, and his brother, Frederick, 10, sons of George Williams, 33, an elevator operator in the Fitzsimmons Building, Fourth avenue near Smithfield street.

Williams is in a serious condition in South Side Hospital from burns suffered when he rescued two other children and was trapped on a burning stairway in an attempt to reach the others.

OTHERS OVERCOME

Mrs. Williams and the rescued children, Margaret, 7, and Marian, 4, were partly overcome by smoke. After treatment by Dr. E. F. Waller, of 55 Wyoming street, Margaret was sent to the Mercy Hospital. Her condition was not regarded as serious.

Two hours after the fire started one of the bodies was found in the ruins by Battalion Chief William H. Kuhlman, of the South Side district, and Capt. Albert W. Ott and Hoseman Andrew McCullough of Engine Company No. 17. Hours later firemen and police were still digging in the Setting a new low record not only for November 30, but for the whole month of November, the mercury fell to 1 degree in the official thermometer in the Pittsburgh office of the Weather Bureau at 8 o'clock this morning. Slight relief tonight or tomorrow is predicted.

Sub-zero temperatures were reported from suburban points. In Findlay Township, 4 below was reported.

FORMER LOW RECORD

The previous low record for November 30 was 8 degrees, recorded in 1875. The low for the entire month of November was 4 degrees, recorded November 22, 1880.

During the last decade there were five successive years in which the mercury never fell to a lower point than it reached this forenoon.

PAJAMA CLAD BOY FOUND ON STEPS

Fellow Students and Doctor Fail in Two-Hour Fight For Life After Exposure Found unconscious on the steps of Welsh Hall dormitory in the zero weather early today, Paul Ott, 19, a Carnegie Institute of Technology student, of Baltimore, died while a physician and fellow students worked over him for nearly two hours.

A post-mortem examination by Dr. J. W. McMeans revealed that death was probably due to gastro enteritis. The condition of the stomach indicated poisoning, Dr. McMeans said.

POISON TRACED

Immediately after the autopsy, Dr. McMeans went into conference with Coroner W. J. McGregor and Chief Clerk James L. Davidson, and it was decided to make a chemical analysis of the stomach contents.

The coroner instructed his deputies to make a searching investigation.

City detectives were ordered to search the dormitory for poison.

Clad only in pajamas, the Baltimore youth was found on the cement steps, where he had evidently fallen from the doorway.

STUDENTS FACE QUIZ

He was found by Matthew G. Fairchild, of Monterey, Mexico, who was visiting a friend living in the hall. Several fellow students were questioned by city detectives.

Fairchild stumbled over the prostrate form as he made his way to the room of Fred Latham, with whom he was visiting. He tried to rouse Ott and failing, he went to Latham's room for help. Latham and Fairchilde carried Ott into the dormitory and summoned Dr. Andrew B. Fuller, who directed students in an attempt to revive the unconscious youth.

TWO-HOUR FIGHT FAILS

Using artificial means of respiration, the doctor and students worked over him for nearly two hours before Dr. Fuller finally pronounced him dead. Aiding

Girl Takes Poison In Room at Hotel

Peggy Murphy, a roomer at the Alpha Hotel, 322 Penn avenue, was taken to Allegheny General Hospital early today after she told a friend, Ruth Easterling, of 400 Penn avenue, that she had taken poison. The Easterling girl called Danny Wallace and Walter Orluske, guests at the hotel, who summoned a taxicab and took the girl to the hospital. She gave no reason for her act.

Science Ship, Carnegie, Burns, Captain Killed

TUTUILA, Samoa, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Twenty years of scientific wayfaring of the nonmagnetic yacht, Carnegie, were ended today, with the curious experimental vessel, the only one of its kind, a charred wreck in Apia Harbor, and Capt. J. P. Ault, the ship's master, dead in the line of duty.

Capt. Ault

Capt. Ault was killed in a blast that preceded burning of the vessel yesterday, several members of the expedition were injured and Tony Kolars, a cabin boy, was missing.

Explosion of a gasoline tank hurled Capt. Ault overboard and was followed by a fire that spread to five other craft moored in the vicinity, detroying all of them. Advices here listed those injured as Eric Stenstrom, said to be seriously burned, and Karl Albin Sturk, Otto Ericsen and John Lindstrom, less seriously hurt.

The Carnegie, built in 1909 for the Carnegie Institution, was on a three-year cruise that started from Washington a year ago last spring. It carried a party of 17 scientists studying magnetism and atmospheric electricity. No iron or steel was used in constructing the ship. All metals in its makeup or carried aboard the Carnegie were nonmagnetic to prevent deviation of delicate apparatus.

Among the scientific staff aboard the ship on the present cruise were W. C. Parkinson, F. H. Paul, F. M. Soule, L. A. Jones, W. E. Scott, H. R. Stiwell and O. W. Torreson.

$1,478 Pay Stolen

Two armed bandits held up T. E. Pickering, paymaster of the White Linen Supply Company, 4928 Cypress street, at the door of the company's plant today, robbed him of $1,478 and escaped in an automobile driven by a confederate.

Jailing of Bridegroom Fails to Halt Wedding

The jail bars of Central Police Station are not powerful enough to keep Joseph Frederick, 22, of 3028 Jane street, from strolling up the aisle with Margaret Doring, 17, of 2826 Mary street. Arrested last night on his mother's complaint, Joe was freed today to be married.

The night he spent in jail makes no difference to Margaret. She still wants to marry him, she said. And her parents are satisfied, they added.

Joe's brother, Steve, testified in Morals Court today that when Joe came home to get his clothes preparatory to the wedding he and his mother argued and Joe bit his mother's finger.

Joe was lazy, too, and seldom worked, Steve added.

These charges made little impression on Margaret, who stood by her prospective husband.

"Yes," she answered Magistrate A. D. Brandon, "I still want to marry him." Her parents, nearby, offered their blessing.

He was discharged.

3 Die, 4 Hurt in Boston Lodging House Fire

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Three persons were burned to death and four others were badly injured today when fire swept through a five-story lodging house.

The dead:

Fire Captain Florence Sullivan, of Engine 32, Charlestown, found on the second floor of the building clasping in his arms the body of a girl whom he was apparently trying to save when smoke overcame him.

Mrs. Nellie Woodworth, 45, and her 13-year-old daughter, who was in the arms of Capt. Sullivan.

A short time before a four-alarm fire had destroyed the Eliot Congregational Church in Roxbury, with severe injury to Fireman Curran.

Across the Charles River in Cambridge, fire swept the Inman Theater, causing a general alarm and driving a score of families to the street carrying their belongings in zero temperature.

As fast as the dying and injured were taken from the lodging house they received first aid treatment from doctors and were then rushed to the City Hospital in ambulances.

From the position and dress of Mrs. Woodworth and her daughter, firemen believed they stopped after receiving the alarm to flee to don their clothing. Capt. Sullivan was believed to have found them trapped by the flames. Some of the rescued were carried down ladders, but a majority were led by firemen through the hallways.

The firemen in fighting the blaze were obliged to don gas masks. The majority of those in the lodging house sought safety in the freezing temperature in their night clothing.

SPEEDY ACTION ON VITAL ISSUES PLANNED IN SENATE

QUICK RULING ON VARE SLATED

Leaders Aim to Enact Tax Cut and Pass Tariff Bill Before Christmas Holidays

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
International News Service

BULLETIN.

WASHINTON, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Another postponement of the Vare case in the Senate was proposed today by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, in mapping out the program for the regular session beginning Monday.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Prompt enactment of a tax reduction bill, a quick decision in the case of Senator-elect William S. Vare (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, and passage of the new tariff bill through the Senate by Christmas, was the legislative program adopted today by administration leaders for the regular session of Congress, starting Monday.

The Republican Senate leaders were hopeful of reaching a decision within a few days in the case involving the right of Vare to a senatorial seat. Prompt action may come by postponing the decision until next year, pending completion of a recount asked by Vare, or by an immediate vote on a resolution ousting him because of an $800,000 primary expenditure. In either event, Republican leaders were urging prompt action to clear the way for the tariff bill.

WILL PUSH TARIFF

The tariff measure, already before the Senate for more than six months, will be held before it until passed. Its initial passage will by no means insure its prompt final enactment, since the measure must go to conference, after passing the Senate, where all differences between the House and Senate must be compromised. This final goal may not be reached before April 1, although administration leaders hope to see the bill on the statute books by March 1.

This program has the approval of Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican floor leader in the Senate, who returned from a vacation in Florida to pacify rebelling factions in the [illegible] ranks of the Senate. [illegible]es of conferences with [illegible]ublican leaders. Watson [illegible]ed to have worked out [illegible]m tending to restore peace in the Republican ranks on all issues save the pending tariff bill.

The peace negotiations were understood to include various appointments to vacancies on the Senate's important committees and the pending shakeup in committee chairmanships. Some of the independents will be appeased by the naming of Senator Jones, of Washington, to the chairmanship of the Appropriations Committee and the appointment of Senator Johnson, of California, as chairman of the Commerce Committee.

HARMONY CLOSER

Watson already has indorsed Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, an insurgent, for a Republican vacancy on the Finance Committee. Unless some senator, senior to LaFollette, steps out at the last moment and claims this post, it will go to LaFollette. This will tend to pacify the insurgent element, as will the naming of Senator Schall, of Minnesota, as chairman of the Interoceanic Canals Committee.

The "young Turk" movement, which died for the present when congress adjourned, will be mollified by other assignments. The naming of Senator McNary, of Oregon, as assistant Republican leader to succeed Jones, will have a further mitigating effect.

With Watson back on the job, peace seemed to have been restored on all battle fronts, excepting the tariff wars. There, the Democratic - Insurgent coalition will continue to dominate the Senate and to write its own wishes into the new tariff bill.

ice covered debris in search for the other.

The house, a two-story frame, was owned by Frederick Williams, 60, who lived on the first floor with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Bottles. Williams, his son, occupied the second floor.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Bottles, who aroused her husband, who in turn called the Williams family upstairs.

RESCUE CHILDREN

Williams and his wife each grasped a child and fought their way through smoke and fire down an outside stairway, Mrs. Williams in the lead. Going back for the others Williams was trapped on the stairway and forced back, his nightclothing aflame.

The house, which set on a hillside overlooking Shalerville, was a mass of flames when firemen from Engine Company No 17 arrived. Difficulty was experienced in getting engines through a mass of brush to the fire, more than 1,000 feet of hose being required to reach it from the nearest plug.

Capt. Ott, trying to fight his way up the stairway, was burned on the neck by a flaming board which dropped from a cornice, an unidentified woman seeing him stagger back, ran to him, tore off a piece of her skirt and bound up the wound. Ott continued on duty, refusing medical aid from a doctor who tried to drag him away from the fire.

ATTEMPT RESCUE

Mt. Washington police, under Lieut. McDonnough, had difficulty in keeping order in the crowd which gathered about the burning house. Several attempted to force their way up the burning stairway when the shrieks of the trapped children reached them.

Mrs. Williams, hysterical and almost frozen, was taken to the home of Sam Tavormina, 546 Sweetbriar street, where she was placed under the care of a physician.

Firemen who battled the fire more than two hours were served hot coffee by Mrs. Tavormina, who carried it to them in small buckets.

TRAIN KILLS MAN

Confused by the cold and blinded by the wind, Peter Istvan, 45, of Munhall, walked in front of a passenger train at Sixth avenue and Amity street, Homestead, at midnight, and was fatally injured. He was dead when taken to Homestead Hospital.

The man who was found frozen to death on the steps of a house at 1204 Webster avenue early today was identified several hours later as David Hickey, 56, of 3206 Huxley street. The identification was made by his brother, James P. Hickey, a city fireman.

Firemen from Bridgeville, Glendale, Bower Hill and Kirwin, hampered by lack of water, last night lost a fight against a fire which destroyed the home of Rudolph Kovacic at Presto. Loss was estimated at $3,000. It was necessary to chop holes in the ice of a creek nearby in order to obtain water to fight the fire. Five members of the Kovacic family were cared for by neighbors.

SICK BUY RESCUED

Edward Stewart, 12, a Negro, ill of diphtheria in his home on the second floor of a three-story frame house at 308 Renfrew street, was carried to safety early today when the house was destroyed by fire, which started when his mother, Mrs. Charles Stewart, was thawing a frozen water pipe in the kitchen. Two other children and Floyd Miles, his wife and two children, occupying the first floor, were driven out by the flames. Loss was placed at $2,000.

Pray for Water On Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The entire Pacific Coast, ordinarily so proud of its climate, looked with envy today at the rest of the country, although much of it went about its business in sub-freezing temperatures.

Prayers of Catholic priests and ministers of almost every other denomination from all parts of the Pacific Coast were offered, seeking divine intercession for the parched districts.

The Coast came to an end today of the driest November in 40 years.

the physicians in addition to Fairchild and Latham were two other students, L. Byron Burney and W. H. Adams, who had been aroused by Latham.

Fairchild revealed under questioning by detectives that Ott's body was still warm when he found him. Bruises on the youth's head evidently were caused by falling against the cement steps.

Ott had roomed with Arthur Shai, another student, who is visiting in New York over the holiday. He spent the night alone, after visiting another room for a few moments, about midnight, to chat with John C. French, a classmate.

IN ILL HEALTH

He left about midnight, French reported, saying he was going to his own room and make a cup of coffee before retiring. That was the last seen of Ott before he was found lying on the steps, according to detectives.

French told the detectives Ott had not been feeling well lately and had consulted a physician about two weeks ago.

"He complained of dizziness in the morning," French said.

COURT HOLDS CARREN IN THEFT

Westinghouse Payroll Clerk Tells of Taking $15,000: Relatives Released on Bail

Following his alleged confession to the theft of $15,000 in payroll funds from the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Milton L. Carren, was held for court late yesterday by Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan.

Prior to Carren's arraignment, Samuel Weiss, his brother-in-law; Pauline Weiss, his sister-in-law, of Hamilton avenue, Rankin, and Henry Joseph, of Wick street, were held as accessories after the fact and for receiving stolen goods.

DETECTIVES FIND LOOT

Detectives testified to finding $5,0 of the stolen money in Joseph's shoe. About $4,200 was found hidden in the Weiss home and in the woodshed behind the house, detectives said. Carren testified to leaving more than $4,000 with Mrs. Weiss to be sent to his wife.

Alderman Flanigan released Mrs. Weiss under $6,000 bail; Samuel Weiss, under $4,000 bail, and Joseph under $1,500 bail. Carren's bond will be set by District Attorney Samuel Gardner.

Both in his testimony against the Weiss couple and Joseph, and in his statement during his own hearing, Carren admitted taking the money.

GRABS 3 BUNDLES

"I grabbed three bundles," he said. "I judged them to contain about $15,000. I left the plant and went to Braddock where I bought a hat and an overcoat, which I paid for with a $50 bill I took from one of the packages.

"Then I went to the Weiss home, and waited around for Mrs. Weiss. I gave her the package from which I had taken the $50, and told her to give it to my wife. I also gave her another package, which I told her to mail to Abe Lang in Chicago.

"From Rankin, I went in a cab to Pittsburgh, and then to Cleveland. Later I took a bus and went to Chicago."

Carren said that he gave Mrs. Weiss the money after wrapping it in paper. Detectives testified that when they found it, the money was scattered under linoleum in the bed room, and in the woodshed.

NAVAL LEGATES LEAVE TOKIO

TOKIO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The Japanese delegation to the naval conference to be held in London in January was given an enthusiastic farewell by the Tokio populace today, thousands cheering as the party left the railroad station for Yokohama.

It will take a boat for America at Yokohama late today. Destroyers, submarines, seaplanes and other naval craft will participate in the parting ceremonies there, and all warships will fire a salute.

The leading native newspapers commenting editorially on the coming conference stressed the necessity of Japan's having a 70 per cent ratio of large cruisers as compared to America's, opposition to abolition of submarines, and insistence on reduction of armaments and not mere limitation.

Former Premier Wakatsuki and Admiral Takarabe, who is minister of navy, were the two actual Japanese delegates with the party. The third delegate, Ambassador Matsudaira, will meet the party in London.

of 1,600 miles, was made in 18 hours 59 minutes.

Three years and seven months before, in May, 1926, the intrepid pioneer of air exploration started the world by flying across the North Pole with the late Floyd Bennett at the controls of his plane.

FOUR ON SHIP

The commander and three companions, Pilot Bernt Balchen, Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, aerial surveyor, and Harold I. June, who manned the radio, left their base at 3:29 p. m., Thursday (10:19 P. M., N. Y. time) according to the New York Times, on the 1,600 mile flight to the South Pole and return in a tri-motored Ford plane.

In returning to their base without mishap they accomplished one of the most hazardous flights in history, braving the unknown perils of the Antarctic wastelands to the goal which only two other expeditions had ever succeeded in attaining.

WENT BY SLED

The first man actually to reach the South Pole was Roald Amundsen, the dauntless Norwegian, who lost his life in June, 1928, when he set out in a plane in the hope of rescuing members of the ill-fated Italia expedition in the Arctic.

Amundsen reached the South Pole on December 14, 1911, using the ordinary dog sled method of Arctic and Antarctic exploration. He lived to fly over the North Pole until Byrd's latest feat was the only man to have seen both poles.

The second expedition to reach the South Pole was that led by the Englishman, Capt. Robert F. Scott, who reached his goal on January 18, 1912, but lost his life in attempting to return to civilization.

Commander Byrd's flight to the South Pole climaxes the efforts of the most pretentious expedition ever undertaken.

The following icy road warnings were broadcast by the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh:

Lincoln Highway, U. S. 30; East of Pittsburgh, clear to Ligonier; East of Ligonier, road open but quite icy, with 12 to 18 inches of snow; West of Pittsburgh, icy to Canton, O.

William Penn Highway, U. S. 22, East, clear to Blairsville, from Blairsville east road open but icy, with heavy snow.

TEN DEAD IN WEST

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Deaths of 10 persons and intense suffering from below zero temperatures today, accompanied the lowest November temperatures in the history of Chicago and the Middle West.

Early today the mercury in the Chicago area dipped to 6 degrees below zero.

Five persons in Chicago succumbed to the effects of the cold wave, and five more are reported to have died from the sub-zero blast in surrounding territory.

With the arrival of an open plane from Dayton, O., Pilot Ralph Van Doarle was found frozen to the controls of his airplane. He had to be lifted from the cockpit. His face and hands were frozen. His passengers, A. L. Driggs and A. E. Hubbard, were badly frost-bitten.

COLD IN EAST

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The entire East, for the first time this season, was in the grip of sub-freezing temperatures today.

In New York City the thermometer dropped to 20 degrees above zero last night, the coldest of the season. A 38-mile biting northwest wind added to the discomfort and lodging houses patronized by the unemployed were jammed to capacity.

SNOW IN SOUTH

election; State Senator James J. Coyne, potent factor in that campaign, and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

Leaving the conference, English said: "We were talking about a new City Hall for the North Side."

WINTERS UNDECIDED

Winters, replying to questions, said he did not know when he would assume the controllership, but believed he would reach a decision in about a week.

He said a recent interpretation in a Cambria County court of a state law seemed to indicate that he could not legally fill the controller's office until next January 6.

While Little voted yesterday with those opposed to McArdle for Winters' place in Council, his choice of Winters' successor is a subject for conjecture. Little repeatedly extolled McArdle in speeches when they were running mates on a ticket opposed to Mayor Kline for re-election.

Yesterday's meeting was begun with a motion by Garland, seconded by Anderson, to accept Evans' resignation and to so notify the Mayor and the department heads.

English objected, suggesting a recess until Evans could be summoned. Garland insisted that Evans had the inalienable right to resign.

ENGLISH OBJECTS

English declared Evans was guilty of questionable practices and was "going to cheat the people of Pittsburgh. He has discharged the deputy controller so that the city can't function and I would like to ask him about that, as I believe he had an ulterior motive.

Going into the legal time for Winters to assume the controller's office, Waldschmidt referred to an opinion handed down in a Cambria County court in a similar case which was to the effect that candidates elected in odd numbered years could not assume office until the first Monday in the following January. The city solicitor recommended that Winters should not assume the controllership before that time, excepting upon an election by Council for the interim.

Winters urged delay on Evans' resignation until the former controller could be summoned and questioned, particularly as to why he had discharged Schilpp.

Winters was asked after the meeting if he intended reinstating Schilpp, but he declined a direct reply. He admitted, however, that Schilpp was reported to him as being an excellent character and a valuable employe.

English announced he would present to Council next Monday a resolution authorizing the employment of Schilpp for the preparation of the budget.

GIRL, BOY, MAN AUTO VICTIMS

A newsboy was struck by an automobile and injured fatally last night as he was about to enter his home. The victim was Preston McCort, Jr., of Perrysville.

He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital by a passing motorist, but died soon after being admitted. The driver of the machine which struck him was ordered to report to the coroner.

The McCort boy, known as "Buddy," was a pupil of Perrysville School and was becoming widely known as a juvenile entertainer.

Earl McDermott, 49, of 76 Valeview drive, Kenmore Manor, near Duquesne, died during the night in St. Joseph's Hospital, as a result of injuries suffered yesterday in Carson street. McDermott's machine collided with a parked machine owned by by H. R. Brown, of 29 Hill street, Hays.

Mary Bowler, 19, of 7117 Lexington street, East Pittsburgh, died in the Citizens General Hospital today from injuries suffered October 5, when she was thrown from the sidecar of a motorcycle by an automobile in the Renton road, near Parnassus. The motorcycle was being driven by William Wolf, of East Pittsburgh, and the automobile by William Jones, of Parnassus, according to the coroner's report.

Tragedy Ends Old Romance As Man, 91, Dies in Well

WILMINGTON, Kent, England, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—William Sales, 91, apparently has realized his wish to die on the homestead he and his wife, 82, inhabited through so many decades. Police today were sure he was dead and show no hope of rescuing him from the well in his front yard into which he fell yesterday when a stone slab at its mouth gave way.

Digging had to be suspended over night because of lack of artificial light in the little Kent village, and as it was resumed today it was feared from two to three days would be needed to remove the debris which covers his body. A ton or more earth from the crumbling sides of the well caved in when Sales fell.

Throughout last night Mrs. Sales and their son, Jim Sales, 62, watched at the well. Shaking with sobs the little old woman recalled how they had lived in the little ivy-clad cottage since their marriage, and how every year at his birthday she had made herself a new bonnet which she wore during the succeeding year.

Homesteaders File Claims On 4,612,722 Acres

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The day of the pioneering homesteader still is here. Citizens of the United States, seeking more room or urged on by the adventure of wrestling with new land, filed patents on 4,612,722 acres of public domain during 1929.

The General Land office revealed in its annual report that over 30,000 persons filed claims on land during the year and in addition the organization collected over $6,000,000 accruing to the government from public land activities.

Total receipts under the mineral leasing act, which included oil lands, aggregated $3,994,878. The low price of oil during the year cut this income somewhat, but receipts from other sources were increased.

Among the other outstanding accomplishments of the General Land office during the year was the cancellation of 8,906 permits to prospect for oil under the Hoover oil conservation program. Leases resulting from discovery of oil or coal on the public domain were granted to 145 persons.

Surveyors for the service surveyed over 3,500,000 acres during the year and made field examinations in 15,948 cases to determine whether the leasing and homesteading laws were being observed.

FORNEY CASE WITNESSES HUNTED BY COUNTY AUTHORITIES

PROSECUTOR PREPARES FOR TRIAL

Sleuths Hunt Men to Testify; Gardner Gets Ready to Press Gambling Charges

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner announced today that he had begun preparation of the case against Alfred W. Forney, the fugitive who surrendered yesterday after being classed as missing for nine months.

Gardner said there existed a dozen witnesses against Forney, reputed to have made a fortune in the slot-machine racket. Today, so Gardner said, county detectives are trying to find those witnesses, the same who testified against Forney before the grand jury.

PROSECUTOR NOT NAMED

Gardner was asked whether he personally would prosecute Forney or assign the case to one of his assistants. He answered that he hadn't decided.

There are 16 counts in the two charges against Forney, indicted 12 months ago as a common gambler and with maintaining gambling devices.

One charge names 15 places at which he is reputed to have maintained gambling devices. Most of these addresses are on the North Side.

FORNEY CLAIMS 4 MORE

Forney contends that there were four more witnesses before the grand jury—Martin Simon, Frank Krieger, Martin Siefert and Forney himself. When he asked the courts to drop the charge Forney claimed that these four testified before the jury, but were not listed on the indictment.

Forney's visit to the courthouse to post $6,000 bond yesterday was a genuine surprise to the majority. The district attorney himself said that he was "certainly surprised" by the visit. Criticized by Judge James B. Drew for immediately releasing Forney on bail, Gardner defended that he had no other course. Forney "jumped" the last bail posted for him.

BOND MANDATORY

"Even a bail-jumper's bond must be accepted if it is good bail," said Judge Harry H. Rowand, presiding in Criminal Court when asked concerning the action of District Attorney Gardner in releasing Forney under bond.

Forney is abed in his Perrysville avenue mansion today, worn by the strain of his troubles, according to his wife. It is believed, however, that he will have recovered sufficiently to stand trial on December 10, the date immediately set by Gardner.

FOIL THOMPSON HOME THEFT

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 30.—Culminating a series of robberies in which 40 or more homes and places of business have been entered in the last month, thieves, it was learned today, attempted to loot the palatial home of Andrew A. Thompson, son of J. V. Thompson, on the National pike, west of here. The suspects have been arrested and are being held for questioning by state police.

The robbers were surprised while attempting to force their way into the house by the son of the caretaker, Tony Lazzo, Jr. There were about 6 or 8 men at work on the outside of the home, according to Lazzo, and they fled at his approach in two automobiles.

A report current after news of the attempted robbery said that an attempt was made to enter a vault in the basement, but state police discredited this, saying that the robbers had not gained access to the place when frightened away. Nothing was taken, they said.

Falls Down Steps City Asked to Pay

Damages of $40,000 was asked of the City of Pittsburgh for injuries to Irene Newman, 12, of the North Side, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court on her behalf by her parents, Charles and May Newman. While walking down wooden steps on Howard street, North Side, May 20 last, the child stepped on a broken step and fell down the steps, sustaining injuries to her back which require a brace and will deform her, the suit alleged.

Pomerene on Coast For Doheny Oil Trial

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, special counsel for the government in its oil lease suits, arrived in Los Angeles for the opening of a $15,000,000 lease cancellation trial against Edward L. Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum Company next Tuesday. Frank J. Hogan, Washington, D. C., attorney, was expected here to defend the case.

WIDOW QUIZZED ON ROTHSTEIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Marian T. Putnam, attractive widow of Asheville, N. C., was steeling herself today, no doubt, for the ordeal she must undergo Monday when she resumes the stand for further cross examination in Broadway's famous murder case—the trial of George McManus, charged with killing Arnold Rothstein.

So far it's been rather embarrassing for Mrs. Putnam, what with the attorney for the defense, James D. C. Murray, subjecting her to a ruthless attack on her own private life and forcing her to make annoying admissions.

But it was Mrs. Putnam's tough luck to have been the occupant of room 320 of the Park Central on the night of November 4, 1928, when Rothstein was shot—allegedly in room 349, which was McManus' room.

She testified that she left her room, intending to take the elevator to the main floor to buy some magazines. As she neared the elevator she heard a "crash." It sounded "like a bottle smashing against a wall." She heard an oath, and the sound of men's voices. They were talking loudly—three or four of them, anyway.

And then, coming toward her she saw a man, very pale, with his hands pressed to his abdomen. She became frightened and returned to her room. The state alleges this man was the wounded Rothstein. The defense has been trying to prove the "big shot" gambler was not shot in room 349. He was found, dying, three floors below.

GRANADY CASE LEADER QUITS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Discouraged, apparently, by the collapse of his recent Granady murder case against five detectives and four hoodlums, Frank J. Loesch, 76-year-old prosecutor, has resigned as special prosecutor on the staff of State's Attorney John A. Swanson.

Recognized as a leader in Chicago's civic reform forces, Loesch announced he would give his time to the broader work of President Hoover's Crime Commission, of which he is a member.

"A criminal trial in Cook County is impossible without full co-operation," he said, in turning in his resignation.

"I have done all I possibly could. In spite of the collapse of the Granady case, I believe we have accomplished much in the way of exposing rotten conditions in Cook County, but I feel now that the job is for new and younger leaders."

Students in Madrid Stage Protest Riots

MADRID, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Protest against "the government's attitude toward students" with a demonstration of sympathy for former Premier Jose Sanchez Guerra, who is charged with complicity in a rebellion, was staged at the University of Madrid by students.

Some minor fighting occurred between student bodies. The university authorities restored order and turned over to the police a girl student, who was charged with attempting to destroy a statue of the King.

CHINA-RUSSIAN MUDDLE NOT SETTLED

Conflicting Views on Pact Action Leave Situation Far From Peaceful Climax

International News Service.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Attempts at unraveling the tangled situation in Manchuria brought no definite solution of the controversy between Soviet Russia and China today.

There was no indication in any of the capitals of the countries approached on the Manchurian imbroglio by the United States that any decision on concerted diplomatic action in behalf of peace had been reached.

In at least two of these capitals, Tokio and Paris, it was indicated that officials felt there was no longer need for outside diplomatic action, that the apparent truce reached by the Soviet and Mukden governments promised to bear fruit.

CONFLICTING REPORTS

Far-eastern dispatches which poured in here today continued to give conflicting views of the situation. While some maintained that the Nanking government refused recognizance of the negotiations now in progress between the Soviet and Mukden governments, others expressed the view that the Nanking government was supporting the Mukden government's overtures to Russia although reluctant to admit that such was its stand.

According to some dispatches from Mukden, the preliminary conversations between representatives of the Soviet and Manchurian governments have been brought to deadlock by the Chinese refusal to retore the Soviet manager and assistant manager of the Chinese Eastern Railroad to their positions as demanded in the Soviet answer to the Mukden overtures for peace.

The restoration of the manager and his assistant was the second of the three demands made by Moscow upon Mukden, the first being the restoration of status quo and the third the release of Soviet prisoners.

Moscow made it clear that the second demand had to be immediately complied with before the negotiations would go any further. Mukden government officials, however, were reported to be awaiting advices regarding the action of the Nanking government before proceeding.

REPORT ACCEPTANCE

Meanwhile, reports from Moscow stated that acting Soviet Foreign Secretary Litvinoff had dispatched a note to the Nanking government through the German ambassador, declaring that Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang, governor of Manchuria, had already accepted Soviet terms for peace.

With all eyes now turned to the Manchurian situation, reports from Southern China indicate that the reported settlement of differences between the Kuomin-chun rebels and the Nationalist government had been premature.

According to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Hong Kong, Kwangsi troops were still advancing toward Canton and had reached Lupko, 15 miles from Shuihing, with defending Cantonese troops evacuating that city.

Man Burned Fatally In Explosion of Gas

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Nov. 30.—James Jones, 40, a mill worker, died in the Sewickley Hospital from burns suffered in a gas explosion here. Jones, police say, attempted to light a cigaret in a room filled with gas leaking from a connection of a stove. When residents of the house broke into his room they found his clothing in flames. The blast wrecked the interior of the home and started a fire.

PITTSBURGHERS IN RUM NET

CLEVELAND, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Larry Davidson, dubbed by federal agents as the cleverest rum runner on the Great Lakes, was arrested at a downtown hotel here yesterday on a charge of conspiracy to violate the liquor laws from March 15 to June 7 of this year at Harbor View, near Sandusky.

Three other men were arrested in Davidson's suite as a squad of federal prohibition agents and police broke up what they said appeared to be a rendezvous for business reasons. The others were James Courtney and D. F. Coughlin, of Pittsburgh, both charged with violating the smuggling laws, and an unidentified man charged with carrying concealed weapons. A score of others came to visit Davidson while the raid was in progress, but none of them was held.

Davidson has become almost a mythical figure because of the activities attributed to him by federal agents. At one time he was a special prohibition agent, working out of Washington, and shortly after he left the service he was reported to be worth $2,000,000. He owned a Lake Erie island in Canadian waters, where his friends congregated on "mysterious business," agents said. Last year his business took him to Florida and back and forth to the Bermudas. A few years ago he was a conspicuous figure in Cleveland yachting circles.

He admitted he was a former federal agent and that at one time he was a millionaire, but said his funds have now fallen and that the present case "is the weakest time I ever looked at."

$200,000 Damage In Harrisburg Fire

HARRISBURG, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Damage estimated by property owners at about $200,000 was done by fire which broke out last midnight and destroyed the buildings occupied by the Franklin-Trostle Motor Sales Company and H. M. Stees meat market on Market street, near the center of the city.

The intense cold, which made the sidewalks and ladders icy as the firemen worked to check the blaze, resulted in one fireman being injured and a second, Chief Millard Tawney, being knocked unconscious when he slipped and fell.

Bomb in Mail Hurts Recipient, 3 Others

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—A bomb mailed from Los Angeles, Cal., by an unidentified person who signed a vain warning "Dementia," exploded and seriously injured its recipient, Clark Scott, 26, railway mechanic, as he opened it at his boarding house in Townsend, Tenn., near here. Three other persons were injured slightly. Scott, who is a bachelor, and insisted he had no enemies, said he worked in the Southern Pacific shops at Los Angeles for two years.

3 Held in $15,000 Bank Holdup Confess

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Police here announced that three men had confessed to the robbery of $15,000 from the Algiers Branch of the Canal Bank and Trust Company last Wednesday. They asserted they had secured full statements of guilt from John Arnold, 33, of Belle Chasse, La., Louis Gentry, 18, and Earl Friloux, 24.

Theft of Trolley Cars Gets Man Jail Term

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—When Robert Sloan, 21, took one street car from the car barns, it wasn't so serious, but when he returned for his second car he plainly showed intent to do wrong, a police magistrate decided.

It seems Sloan took one car and parked it on a siding a short distance from the car barns. Then, deciding a train would be more interesting than a single car, Sloan returned for a second and was apprehended by a watchman.

Sloan has 11 more days to go on his 12-day sentence. He told the judge he was unaware he could operate a street car, and furthermore he did not recall stealing the car.

Wife No. 1 Accuses Husband of Bigamy

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 30.—When John Adams, of Latrobe, was arraigned in court here on a charge of deserting his wife, Mrs. Mable H. Adams, of Pittsburgh, the latter informed the court that her husband had married again without divorcing her. Adams admitted the second marriage, but said he believed his first wife had deserted him.

His second wife will appear against him. He was ordered to pay wife No. 1, $5 a week support.

WOMAN'S WILL AIDS CHARITIES

Charitable institutions are among the beneficiaries of the $10,000 estate of Miss Margaret L. O'Connell, of 214 South Evaline street, whose will was filed for probate today.

To her brother, the Rev. Lawrence A. O'Connell, pastor of Epiphany Roman Catholic Church, Miss O'Connell leaves her real estate; to a sister, Nora, her stocks and bonds. These bequests are made to charity: St. Joseph's Seminary, of Baltimore, Md., $1,000; "the poor parishes of Pittsburgh," $500; Little Sisters of the Poor, St. Paul's Orphanage and De Paul Institute for the Blind, $250 each.

The residue Miss O'Connell leaves to two sisters, Nora and Catherine, for life, after which it is to go to the Catholic missions in China. Father O'Connell and Miss Nora are named executors.

COUPLE HELD IN SLAYING OF MATES

Mother of 3 and Father of 8 Charged With Oklahoma Killings; Body Exhumed

DURANT, Okla., Nov. 30.—Authorities today held an alleged confession made by Mrs. Era Hughes, mother of three children, admitting a love conspiracy in which she and the father of eight children are said to have murdered their mates.

Hughes was lured to a barn on his farm Tuesday night, where A. J. Eastep, 38, named as her accomplice in the plot, beat her husband to death with an automobile spring according to her admissions.

PLANNED TO ELOPE

Both Eastep and Mrs. Hughes have been charged with murder, and the former was taken to the state penitentiary for safe keeping.

Exhumation of the body of Eastep's wife has been ordered by authorities following a statement made by Mrs. Hughes, according to police, in which she said that Eastep had told her of his plans to poison his wife so the two could run off together.

Eastep's wife died in October, records show. The widower is said to have collected $1,000 insurance which he held on his wife's life. Police declare that Hughes carried a life insurance policy for $1,500.

TWO PLEAD NOT GUILTY

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—With formal pleas of not guilty entered by Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien and Samuel Howard Dorr, principal figures in the alleged love conspiracy that resulted in the slaying of the woman's husband, attorneys for the widow today were to start their fight to have her released on bail.

Yesterday the pair who confessed an illicit love that ended when William O'Brien was shot down in his wife's bedroom, stood before Chief Justice Dennis Normoyle in Criminal Court.

"Not guilty," said Mrs. O'Brien.

"Not guilty," echoed Dorr.

Trial of the couple then was assigned. Neither appeared to notice the presence of the other, although they stood side by side.

Prosecution attorneys announced that every effort will be made to send the woman to the electric chair.

It is charged that the pair plotted the death of O'Brien that they might get the insurance money on policies sold him by Dorr.

O'Brien was shot and killed when he surprised the two together in his wife's room.

2 SHOT IN DUEL IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Charles Barron, 27, and James Walsh, 28, are near death today following a spectacular revolver duel the two fought in the busy "Loop" district last midnight, which sent theater crowds scattering for shelter.

Barron, a former prize fighter, became embroiled in an argument at the Chicago Stadium boxing bouts last night and engaged in a fist fight with Walsh, a reputed beer racketeer.

Barron, according to police, procured a gun and sought out Walsh at a downtown restaurant. Walsh opened fire and Barron answered with a fusillade, police said. More than 25 shots sent the crowds scattering. Several windows were shattered.

The battle ended when the two lay on the sidewalk, seriously wounded. After the battle police found four revolvers lying near the two men.

Murphy Freed, Girl Quiet on Wedding

Charged with being suspicious persons, Ralph Bateman, 30, of 2318 Sidney street, and John Murphy, 24, of 2220 Sarah street, were discharged this morning when given hearings before Magistrate John J. Sweeney in South Side Police Court. They were arrested Wednesday as they fled from under the Pennsylvania Railroad Company trestle at Twenty-second and Mary streets, where Kazimeras Zupka, 39, of 1824 Fox street, was found unconscious. Police believed that the man had been robbed, but no evidence was produced at the hearing to substantiate the charge.

Isabella Krush, 18, of Quarry street, said Wednesday after Murphy's arrest that they were to be married that afternoon. After the hearing this morning, when asked if she still intended to get married she refused to answer.

North Side Man Held After Raid on Still

William Wallace, 26, of 1532 Brighton road, was held for the grand jury on a charge of violating the Snyder Act by Magistrate E. M. Hough in North Side Police Court today.

Lieut. Charles Sullens testified that he raided Wallace's home yesterday after Patrolman Patrick Carroll noticed steam coming from second-floor windows, and confiscated a 400-gallon still, 37 barrels of mash and a small quantity of moonshine.

COME TO CHURCH

The Church Is the Meeting Place of God and His People

SERMONETTE

"Church Attendance in the Present Day"

By W. W. T. DUNCAN, D. D., LL. D., Emory M. E. Church

The ancient Psalmist said, "I was glad when they said unto to me, 'Let us go unto the House of the Lord.'" Today there are multitudes, even of Christian people, who are not particularly pleased with such an invitation. This is not because religion has declined, nor because the world is growing worse, but because church attendance meets greater obstacles than in any previous age. There are two kinds of religious assemblies which are largely attended, those which are made up of small groups collected from a very wide area and those which are vigorously promoted. The regular church service of the normal type does not belong to either class. It is neither a delegated body from a wide area nor an extensively promoted gathering. It is a service to which people are expected to go without any advertising or without even a pressing invitation. We live in an age when people do not go anywhere as they did in the past. The world is brought to their door. The buying public is solicited in the home by attractive advertising of newspaper and magazine. The radio pours into the ears of the easy-chair occupant entertainment, news, songs and sermons for which formerly he had to arouse himself and go out. While the radio has been of great use to the church in giving its message a wider hearing, yet it is one of the many modern phenomena through which people have been taught to become easy-going recipients rather than strenuous promoters.

Rev. W. Wofford T. Duncan, D. D., LL. D.

The church is better attended today than any other institution which deals with serious subjects, and which depends on personal initiative rather than promotion. People go to see motion pictures not simply because they like them, but because one hundred million dollars have been spent to advertise them. This is probably more money than the church has spent to advertise its services in a thousand years. One theater in Pittsburgh spends $78,000 a year just in advertising, yet a great church with large congregations nearby spends just $600.00 a year for that purpose. This shows the tremendous hold religion has on men. If other institutions did as little promoting they would close their doors.

Christian people, however, should beware. They themselves easily become the victims of a promotional age. They attend church too often only when pressure is brought to bear. The days come when there is no pressure and no invitation and they disappear among the non-church goers.

We need a new emphasis on individual initiative in church-going; on the formation of church-going habits; on the loss which comes to the individual life from failure to mingle with a congregation of worshipers; on the duty of church attendance, since without it institutional religion dies, and, supremely, on the joy of conscious fellowship with God, which is so greatly increased by attendance at His House. Thus may all eventually be glad when it is said unto them, "Let us go unto the house of the Lord."

is the treatment of the Silver room, transformed into a miniature garden, with a fountain playing in the center.

Tea is being served in the ballroom at small tables. And at the far end of the ballroom is the tea table, covered in gold and black cloth, and centered with bronze chrysanthemums. Hothouse fruits also are used in decorating.

Asked to assist the debutantes are Nancy Anderson, Caroline Crittenden, Harriet Fiske, Frances Forsch, Frances Reed, Lydia
Irish, Rebecca Doyle, Katherine
Collin, Laura Evans, Frances
Johnston, Mary Elizabeth Floyd,
Virginia Wright and Rosamond
Fitch. And a group of Joan's married friends and their husbands she asked to assist her, too, including the Clarence Stanleys,
Mr. and Mrs. Alan Humphreys, the Reginald Quailes, the George Loves, the Edwin Hodges, Helen Leovy, Mary Shiras and Josephine
Nicola were also aids.

And after Joan's debut the J.
Frederic Byerses will give a buffet supper in the Allegheny Country Club in honor of three debs: Virginia Wright, Emily Frew, Pete
Milligan and Mary Franklin Robinson.

A CHARMING debutante of yesterday afternoon was Elizabeth Thomas, who made her bow at a luncheon her mother, Mrs.
Isaac Biddle Thomas, of St.
James street, gave in the Pittsburgh Golf Club. Covers were laid for [illegible] guests at small tables grouped in the dining room of the clubhouse and decorated with hothouse fruits. The debutante received with her mother on the enclosed sun porch of the club adjoining the ballroom, where her gift bouquets were arranged. And she was distinctive indeed in her one gown of silver and bay green metallic cloth, made very long and high-waisted. She wore a small black velvet hat and silver orchids. Her mother in black satin with a black hat was assisted by her cousin, Mrs. D. F.
Royer, of Haverford, Pa., also in black.

AND during the [illegible] events of yesterday to a close was the dance [illegible] Charles Oliver gave for Ann Hayes Rebecca Doyle, debutante daughter of the Charles Layng Doyles, of Sewickley, and Sara Ross, of Madison, N. J. The event took place in the Pittsburgh Club with over 150 places arranged at small tables in the ballroom.

Rebecca was charming in pale blue moire and Sara in cloth of net. Another house guest of the Doyles, Dorothy Dodson, daughter of the Allen Dodsons, of Bethlehem, Pa., was at the dinner-dance last night.

Popular Teacher Quest Gets Under Way

Today marks the start of the campaign to find the 15 most popular teachers in East Liberty.

The details of the campaign, which is being conducted by the merchants of East Liberty, have been announced by Patrick Flood, of the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce.

Authorized merchants of East Liberty will give one ballot with each 10-cent purchase made in their stores. The stores of the authorized merchants will be designated by window posters and signs.

Christmas gifts of Deluxe Photographs are to be given to each of the 15 most popular teachers. Each set is valued at $224.50, according to Mr. Flood, bringing the total value of the gifts to be distributed above $3,300.

The campaign opens today and will continue until Christmas Eve. The Christmas gifts will be distributed from the stage of an East Liberty theater to the 15 winners. They will be given out the day after Christmas, Flood says.

A large number of East Liberty stores have become authorized East Liberty merchants.

College Club Issues New Bulletin

THE College Club has issued its December and January bulletins in one. It is a varied and interesting two months' program which the members are offered, beginning Friday with John Ihlder's talk on "New Houses for Old." Following that will come a piano recital by Elizabeth L. Webster, daughter of the late Beveridge Webster. There will be no meeting on the Friday preceding Christmas, but on Saturday of that week, the twenty-first, the annual children's party will be held, and the Friday after Christmas will be an open house day with a musical program.

Alice N. Parker's talk on "New Conceptions in Child Training," Dr. Roswell H. Johnston's "Eugenic Aspects of Southern Russia" a talk on the experiences of some American children in French schools by Mrs. Ross E. Skinner, and a discussion on "Is the Woman's Club Dying?" are on the calendar for January.

Yesterday's program at the club was a bit different from the regular lecture program. It consisted of readings, done in her usual delightful fashion, by Mrs. Walter E. Close, and two groups of artistically executed soprano numbers by Mrs. Anna Laura Cree, with Mrs. James H. Greene at the piano. Mrs. Close did a humorous monologue descriptive of a visit to the art exhibit, following this with a pleasing little play, "The Baggage," by Bertha Moore. Mrs. Cree included in her varied numbers Allison's "Song of Thanksgiving." The customary tea concluded the afternoon's meeting.

THE meeting of the board of directors previously announced by the Turtle Creek Woman's Club for Friday has been cancelled. The club will have its general meeting that afternoon in the home of Mrs. A. J. Martin, Maple avenue.

ELSIE BREESE MITCHELL, chairman of music at the Congress of Clubs, assisted by Frank Kennedy, pianist, will present a recital before the Woman's Club of Beaver, in the home of Mrs. W. D. Craig, Friday afternoon, December 13. Mrs. Mitchell will sing an aria from "La Perle du Bresil" by Felician David, a group of songs by Pittsburgh composers, including Harvey Gaul and Gertrude Martin Rohrer, a group of old English songs and will conclude the program with Christmas carols from different nations. Mr. Kennedy will play numbers by Granados, Wagner and Liszt.

THE annual autruistic meeting of the Sheraden Monday Club will be held Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Ross I. Davis. Assisting Mrs. Davis will be her sister, Miss Janet Sibray.

The evening will be given over entirely to making dolls and scrap books for distribution by the Congress of Clubs to children in the various hospitals at Christmas.

A PANCAKE and sausage supper and bazar will be held Tuesday evening by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Sheraden Community Presbyterian Church. Mrs. J. Harper Adams is supper chairman, and Mrs. Roy Uncapher heads the bazar committee.

THE next meeting of the play-reading group of the Drama League is set for December 18 at Mrs. Sarah C. Pettit's home, Forbes street. As space is limited in the "little theater" which Mrs. Pettit has fitted up in her home, it is asked that reservations be made with the hostess.

THE Brookline Women's Civic Club will be addressed Tuesday evening by Rollo McBride, of the Parting of the Ways Home.

RESERVATIONS for the Pitt Women's Association bridge luncheon Monday in the Faculty Club are to be made by noon today. Mrs. J. Hammond Smith is chairman and is being assisted by Mrs. L. W. McIntyre, Mrs. L. C. McCandless and Mrs. Morris Knowles.

COURT DUQUESNE, No. 659, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold its fall initiation Sunday afternoon, December 8, in the William Penn Hotel. At a banquet following the ritualistic services, Miss Margaret Reardon, organizer of the court, will act as toastmistress. The address of welcome will be given by Mrs. B. J. Hannegan, grand regent, and talks will also be made by Joseph N. Mackrell, register of wills; Judge Frank P. Patterson, Mrs. Mary Horan, president of the Pittsburgh Council of Catholic Women; the Rev. James Cox, of Old St. Patrick's Church; the Rev. Jerome Hannan, court chaplain; Miss Nora B. King, state vice regent, and Miss Catherine Monahan, district deputy. Piano solo by Miss Veronice Burke and a vocal solo by Mrs. L. P. Shea will complete the program.

THE Forum will have its monthly card party Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Lucretia Carroll, Edgerton avenue, Wilkinsburg. Assisting the chairman, Mrs. Hardena Smith, will be Mrs. P. P. Trump, Mrs. S. Wiley, Mrs. Lewis Kinley and Mrs. Walter Haas.

THE Woman's Club of Aspinwall is giving a special Saturday evening party tonight in the clubhouse, with all the young people of the borough and the senior high school as guests.

THE drama department of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Sylvester Ulmar, Hazel drive, Monday. Two papers will be read, one on "The Drama in Spain," by Mrs. J. L. Moyanhan, and the other, "The Drama in France," by Mrs. A. M. Ramsey. Mrs. C. C. Kochenderfer, of Lebanon avenue, the club president, will be hostess to the literary department on Friday. "Present Conditions of Egypt" will be told by Mrs. S. Y. Free. The second study book, "On Mediterranean Shores," by Emil Ludwig, will be started at this meeting. Mrs. I. G. Amsler will be the leader of the current events topics. Also on Friday the American home department will hold a benefit bridge luncheon at the home of Mrs. J. S. Huey, Vernon drive, the proceeds to be used to defray the expenses for the Christmas program by this group.

DR. FRANCO BRUNO AVERARDI, of the Royal University of Florence, now visiting professor of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace in the Western Reserve University of Cleveland, will address the students of Pennsylvania College for Women at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning on "Italy in English and American Poetry."

Dr. Averardi received his doctorate at the University of Florence, and later, entering the diplomatic service, took part in the League of Nations Conference in Geneva, in the Genoa Conference and in the naval conference in Washington. Leaving the diplomatic service he lectured on Italian literature in the University of Heidelberg in Germany, and is now professor of German in Florence. In addition, he is noted for translations of English classics into Italian.

Thursday night will be parents' night at the college. The guests will include the parents of freshmen and advanced standing students who entered this fall.

MRS. JOHN SLAGEL will be hostess to the Eighth Ward League of Women voters on Monday afternoon in her home, Roup street. Mrs. Elizabeth B. Motz, organizer of the Allegheny County League, will speak on "Jury Service in Allegheny County."

The Thirteenth Ward League will meet in the home of Mrs. Ida Cook, Tacoma street, Monday evening to hear Mrs. Motz give a resume of the state convention held recently in Pittsburgh.

AT the benefit theater party which the Quota Club will have at the Pitt the night of December 12, Miss Elvira Bleadinghiser, president of the club, will entertain the presidents of various visiting Quota Clubs at a box party.

A MEMORIAL service will be held tomorrow at Central Branch Young Women's Christian Association for Mrs. Samuel Black McCormick, for years a prominent and active member of the "Y's" official family.

OF chief importance at Wednesday afternoon's meeting of the Pittsburgh Hadassah, will be the reports of delegates to the National Hadassah convention which was held early this month in Atlantic City.

Business Conference Goes on Air Dec. 5

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The National Broadcasting Company has announced that the proceedings of the first meeting of the permanent business conference, organized at the direction of President Hoover, will be broadcast over a nation-wide network on December 5.

The broadcast which will go on the air at 10 a. m., Eastern Standard time, has been offered to all stations in the NBC system. All conflicting programs will be cancelled to make way for the conference broadcast, the announcement said.

Salvation Army Sunday Services

"God's Best Man" will be the sermon topic of Adjutant George Brooks at the 11 o'clock service of the Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue, tomorrow morning. At 8 o'clock p. m. the same speaker will take on "Straight Going" and a mixed chorus will sing.

The second of the winter afternoon praise services will be held at 3 o'clock, "Elijah and the Siege of Samaria" is the Sunday School Topic at 1:30, and "Revolution" is the subject of the Young Peoples Legion at 6 o'clock.

Bellefield Church To Present Cantata

The Rev. Dr. Robert MacGowan, pastor of the Bellefield Presbyterian Church, Bellefield avenue, will preach at the morning service tomorrow on "The Gospel According to Jesus." At the evening service a chorus choir of 25 voices and the church quartet will present A. R. Gaul's cantata "Ruth."

Pittsburgh Schools Instruct 163,222

A total of more than 142,056 boys and girls are enrolled in the public and parochial elementary and high schools of Pittsburgh, according to a statistical and historical bulletin released by the statisticians of the Chamber of Commerce. In addition, the eight local institutions of higher learning have 21,166 students enrolled.

Injured in Fall Sues for $5,000

Henry Stern, merchant tailor of McKeesport, asked $5,000 damages of the City of McKeesport in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. He alleged he suffered serious injuries September 2 last, when he stepped into a hole in a sidewalk in a dangerous condition on Versailles avenue, McKeesport, and was thrown violently.

West View Goal of Sunday Hikers

The Pittsburgh Hiking Club will walk Sunday from Allison Park to West View. The club members will meet at Duquesne way station at 2:15 p. m. and board a Butler Short Line car for Allison Park. The hikers will be led by C. Heisel.

Desertion Charged In Divorce Suit

Mrs. Elizabeth B. Fox, of 1206 South Negley avenue, asked a divorce from Leonard N. Fox, of 2415 Duffield street, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court, on the ground of desertion. They were married April 14, 1920, and the alleged desertion occurred January 27, 1927.

HOPE FOR LOST FLIERS DASHED

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Hope for the safety of two Alaskan aviators lost since November 9 on the frigid coast of Siberia was dashed today by report of Engineer Deersdoff of the ice-bound ship Nanuk that he had scouted 90 miles of the coast without finding a trace of the missing men.

Deersdoff, searching for Carl Ben Eielson, pilot, and Earl Borland, mechanic of a plane which was lost while seeking to rescue passengers of the Nanuk, explored the coast and inland foothills with a dog team.

He talked with the Russian trapper who heard the motor of Eielson's plane on November 9.

The trapper said the pilot was flying slightly offshore, instead of inland as previously reported. He could not see the plane because of heavy fog.

The region of the North Cape, Siberia, where the Nanuk and a Soviet ship, Stavropol, are locked in the ice, crackled today under a ground temperature of 30 degrees below zero. Alaskan planes ready to join the search for Eielson and Borland are unable to leave the ground for at a height of 2,000 feet the mercury drops to nearly 40 degrees below zero, and a bitter wind has prevailed for days.

The two missing fliers carried a gasoline stove in their emergency equipment and plenty of food, but it now is feared their plane may have been lost in Bering Sea. It did not have pontoons.

Telephone Service For Sea Travelers

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—When the steamship Leviathan sails from here on December 7, passengers for the first time in the history of trans-Atlantic navigation, will be enabled to keep in touch with their homes or offices by telephone.

Encouraged by the success of trans-Atlantic communication the American Telegraph and Telephone Company has installed apparatus on the big liner and the first demonstration will be made December 7. Rates are expected to be lower than for a New York to London call.

Two Boys Injured As Sled, Auto Crash

Albert G. Sighman, 10, and Lester Flicker, 13, both of Apollo, were in Citizens General Hospital, New Kensington, today suffering from injuries suffered as their sled was hit by an automobile on a steep grade near Vandergrift.

The Dale-Lehlback bill now pending in Congress, which provides optional retirement for United States Civil Service employes after 30-year service, when the age of 63 years is reached, has been given the indorsement of an additional group of local fraternal and labor groups. The bill provides annuities increased to a maximum of $1,200 per year with 3½% salary deduction to help maintain the annuity.

The latest indorsements come from Division No. 15, Ancient Orders of Hibernians; Pittsburgh Central Labor Union; Asbestos Workers Local No. 3; Local No. 14, U. N. A. P. O. C.; Hiberman Building and Loan Association, Order of Patriotic Sons of America; Local No. 81, U. F. P. C. C., Salle Tile and Asbestos Roofers Local No. 3; Branch No. 84, N. A. L. C., and Ladies of the Golden Eagle No. 280.

A meeting in the interest of retirement and Saturday half holiday legislation will be held tonight in the Federal Building by the Joint Association of Postal Employes of Western Pennsylvania.

BLACK AND WHITE STILL GAINING IN POPULARITY

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Cut your coat according to your broadcloth this season, for that material in either brown or black has emerged as the favorite fabric for the ubiquitous cloth coat. Such coats trimmed with flat curly furs are certainly enjoying a great popularity just now, for one sees them everywhere, worn by the little country mouse in town to do a trifling amount of modest shopping, as well as by her smart urban sister. Rarely has a mode met with such universal favor and appreciation. These coats are ever so much smarter than the garments embellished with the light long haired furs, and are certainly more distinguished in their smart simplicity.

WHITE for evening wear in both georgette and satin continues to enchant, for there is certainly a hint of magic in the queenly air with which it invests even the most ordinary and commonplace person. And the woman who is gifted with superb carriage and distinguished demeanor is at her best in a white satin gown beautifully cut, and simply, that is apparently simply, made. For there is a deal of intricate cut and detail in the fluid graceful silhouette that is now prevalent. And for those who are sunburned, we can recommend off-white in its many variations from pearl to oyster as a pleasing alternative.

WE HAD sketched in the local showrooms of Paquin, the attractive coat shown herewith. Paquin shows the model in both black and tan broadcloth, but the brown cloth shows the clever trimming to greater advantage. The huge crushed collar has two amusing crossed tabs in black and the sleeves are trimmed with triple bands, cut circular, of astrakan, these bands being repeated on the three tiered skirt. The coat is belted at the natural waistline. The little felt hat completes a delightful ensemble.

THE Worth gown shown here has just been ordered by Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the newly appointed Ambassador from the United States to Italy. It is an ideal gown for wear at diplomatic dinners and similar functions as it combines dignity and beauty with the salient points of the present mode. It is of satin of a heavy quality and in pure white. Important points are the cape and flat appliqued sash of diamante embroidery, that lends added lustre to the frock. The unevenly hanging skirt is laid in flat pleats about the hips and falls in graceful godets about the ankles and heels.

Weather Conditions.

The high pressure area that produced the cold weather over the country the past three days is now centered over the lower Mississippi Valley states. It caused a further drop in temperature over the entire East, breaking all previous records for so early in the season over the Ohio Valley states, the lower lakes, Virginia, Eastern Tennessee and North Carolina. Freezing temperatures occurred as far south as the Gulf coast and over Northern Florida. The skies are clear, generally, from the central plains eastward but cloudy over northern and western plains as a result of a low pressure area centered over Saskatchewan and extending southward over Montana and Wyoming. The temperatures are rising over the Northwest.

River Conditions.

The Allegheny River is falling. The Monongahela and the Ohio are rising slowly. Stage at Franklin is 3.0; Lock No. 7, 13.8; Pittsburgh, 12.2; Dam No. 2, 8.8; Dam No. 3, 9.3; Dam No. 9, 9.6, and Dam No. 12, 6.8. The dams are up. The upper Allegheny is full of slush ice.

LUTHER LEAGUE TO BANQUET

Election of officers and a banquet tonight were the principal events listed today for 500 delegates attending a four-day convention of the General Luther League closing tomorrow at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Madison and Lockhardt streets, North Side.

The convention marks the last annual sessions of the young people's organizations of the joint synods of Ohio and other states before the merger of the Ohio and Iowa synods. The merger is the culmination of efforts by the league since its first meeting in 1923, at Columbus.

The delegates are the guests of the Central Luther League, comprising members in the Pittsburgh district. One of the principal speakers before members was the Rev. Theo. Fritschel, president of the Iowa synod league who outlined the future possibilities when the synods are merged.

Today's sessions were being addressed by the Rev. C. J. Loehr, of Pittsburgh; Edward Heyde, of Wooster, O.; the Rev. L. O. Burry, Carnegie; Cecil Propst, Columbus. The principal speaker at tonight's banquet in the Fort Pitt Hatel will be the Rev. A. J. Traver, of Philadelphia. The Rev. S. C. Michelfelder will be toastmaster.

The convention, which opened Thanksgiving Day, closes tomorrow morning with devotional services.

Reserve Gas Supply Sent to Pittsburgh

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 30.—Practically the entire reserve gas supply in Greene County was turned into lines leading to Pittsburgh last night by gas companies in their effort to cope with the increased demand for the fuel due to the cold wave. All large Pittsburgh companies operating in this district have turned several wells into mains leading to the Pittsburgh district, as well as tapping vast sources of gas in Northern West Virginia, which will be transferred to Pittsburgh through Greene County.

Railroad Bond Issue Authorized by I. C. C.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad to issue $3,464,000 of gold refunding bonds.

$25,000 ASKED IN AUTO HURT

Mary Rohrer, beauty shop proprietor, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Charles Gessner, asking $25,000 damages for personal injuries. She alleged that while she was a passenger in the automobile of Gessner June 29 last he drove so recklessly that the car ran off the road at Duncan avenue and Babcock boulevard.

Her upper and lower teeth were torn loose, requiring extraction, both jaws were fractured, necessitating removal of part of the jawbone and a chin injury left a scar, the suit alleged.

Contractor Found Slain in New Building

Anthony Colosimo, 50, of 346 Broadway, West Park, Stowe Township, a contractor, was found dead with three bullet wounds in his head, in the hallway of a new building he was erecting at 813 Broadway, West Park, last night. According to Patrolman John McNad, he noticed the door of the building open. Investigating, he found the body. Residents told county detectives that they heard three shots, but saw no one leave the building.

Braddock Hospital Starts Fund Drive

The Braddock General Hospital's campaign for $215,000 was launched at a meeting in the Braddock Methodist Episcopal Church last night. Of the amount raised $190,000 will be used to pay off mortgages. Plans for the drive, which will end December 12, were outlined by Malcolm Goldsmith, Thomas G. McCleary, superintendent of Braddock schools, and Isadore Sobel, campaign director.

Vets Here to Honor Archangel Victims

Members of Allegheny County Council, Veterans of Foreign Wars, led by the council drum and bugle corps, will meet the special train bearing bodies of 86 American soldiers who died in Russia, when it stops 20 minutes at Pennsylvania Station tonight. The train is due in Pittsburgh at 9:05 p. m. A wreath will be laid on one of the caskets by P. D. Seybold, chairman of the council.

Falls on Sidewalk Sues For $25,000

Hyman Staman, of Pittsburgh, filed suit against Marshall Brothers Company, elevator builders, in Common Pleas Court, asking $25,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been sustained in a fall when he stepped into a sidewalk opening on Twenty-first street, between Penn avenue and Pike street, June 7 last.

Western Penna. Rallies To Tax Cut Drive

Opposition to the present system of levying tax on earned incomes as well as to the administration's proposed method of a flat reduction on the tax on unearned incomes along with that on professional men and women, salaried persons and wage earners is manifested by the people of Western Pennsylvania.

Signatures to petitions in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, which are being received in large numbers, show unmistakably that the citizens of this district will make their strength felt when Congress convenes and takes up the question of revenues.

Objects sought in the schedule of taxes urged by the Hearst newspapers are set forth in the petition given below. Readers are invited to fill in the forms, obtain the signatures of their neighbors and friends and send them at once to the Income Tax Department of the Sun-Telegraph. Names of petitioners will not be published. The resolution follows.

To His Excellency, the President of the United States of America:

To His Excellency, the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States of America:

To the Honorable, the Congress of the United States of America:

Whereas, the earned income of an individual is derived from his labor and creative faculties, which are subject to rigid limitations, fluctuations and serious depreciation, while the income from property is a permanent and stable income, it seems inequitable to tax earned incomes on the same basis as incomes from property and invested capital without taking depreciation into consideration; and

Whereas, an earned income is the measure of value of services rendered by the worker to the community and an unearned income is the measure of value of the protection and other benefits received by an individual of the community; and

Whereas, to tax earned incomes heavily is to penalize thrift and industry and is a direct tax on labor and tends to retard enterprise and achievement, therefore

Be it resolved that we, the undersigned, call these facts to the attention of the President, the Secretary of the Treasury and Congress, in order to secure a reduction of 50 per cent in the tax rate on earned incomes below the tax rate on unearned incomes.

SLEUTHS SEEK STORE BANDITS

County detectives today were broadening their search for two Negroes who last night robbed an A. & P. store in Cecil, and later disarmed a constable who met them unexpectedly in the Oakdale Station of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The men, both armed, police said, backed the clerks and several customers of the store against the wall and robbed the cash register of $22.50. They were said to have bought tickets for Pittsburgh in the Oakdale Station.

COUNTY PLANS TAX BOOST

Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board of County Commissioners, said late yesterday that an increase of one mill will be made in the county tax rate.

This boost will have nothing to do with the purchase of voting machines authorized in the last election, he said.

The weekly meeting of the commissioners was to be held today, and the first budget meeting early next week.

ANOTHER REDUCTION in OUT OF TOWN TELEPHONE RATES

EFFECTIVE January 1, 1930, various rates for out of town telephone service will be reduced. This is the fourth reduction in out of town telephone rates within little more than three years.

The present reduction affects principally station-to-station day rates on calls to points 60 to 300 miles distant.

This will make calls to out of town points more economical than ever. On the present volume of calls, it will mean a saving of more than $5,000,000 a year to telephone users of the United States. It is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the Bell System, which is to provide the best possible telephone service at a cost as low as is consistent with financial safety.

Announcements giving more detailed information will appear shortly

Miss Pat by Elenore Meherin

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, young and beautiful, is in love with Guy Elliott, handsome aviator. Guy is perfecting a plane which old William Bryce is to manufacture. Pat meets Bryce's widowed daughter-in-law and wonders if Guy is intrigued by Barbara's beauty. Bryce sends Tom Burns, a workman, to jail for attempted robbery. Pat has gay times with Lee Templeton, young college student. Pat's father is stricken with pneumonia and dies. The family considers giving up the big house because of the heavy expenses. Guy, hoping to help the Dawns, tries to urge Bryce to manufacture his plane. He learns the old man has lost a fortune. Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest. Guy, fearing Bryce may use the money to cover his own losses, tries to recover it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI.

BEHIND Bryce's friendly manner Guy felt the man's extraordinary tension; felt his smoking resentment. "Now, look here, Guy, you put her mind at rest. She's a real capable woman. She knows her husband was enthusiastic about the stock. There's a big merger under way. She'll be rich by the spring."

"Perhaps. But she's not in a mood to look at the matter calmly. Her husband's death was a terrific blow. She has her son and daughter to think about. She's just not equal to the gamble."

"No gamble about it."

"Well, she can't feel such confidence. She'd rather have her 20 thousand and security than half a million with uncertainty. She's sick with worry right now. Nothing I could say, even if I thought Crystal Power worth $10 a share and I don't, would have any weight."

Bryce leaned forward, his eyes narrowed. "Oh—so."

Guy ignored it. He went on, persuasively: "With her attitude, a stock venture is plain torture. It wouldn't be right to abet her. After all, the money is hers. She doesn't want to risk it. And of course, it makes no difference to you. She's deeply grateful for your interest. But she's changed her mind about investing. So I guess that ends it."

"It's not quite that simple. She came here of her own free will and literally begged me to act for her. I went ahead in sheer good faith. I can't turn around now and dump 2,200 shares on the market without taking a serious loss. The demand is unreasonable."

"What! Have you bought already?"

"Certainly."

"When?"

"Yesterday afternoon."

"Who were the brokers?"

A dull red crept over Bryce's cheeks. "Aren't you carrying your friendly interest a bit far, Guy? Aren't you just a bit insolent?"

"How? Mrs. Dawn entrusted the matter to me. It's crucial to her. Surely she has a right to know when and how the transaction was arranged. How can it be insolent to ask the brokers?"

"Bonner and Bart!" It came out like a shot; like a fury.

"You bought 2,200 shares of Crystal Power yesterday from Bonner and Bart?"

"That's what I said!"

"Well, it's not the truth! Bonner and Bart haven't handled any Crystal Power for a month; or has any broker in San Francisco—"

Bryce jumped to his feet: "Are you calling me a liar? Gum-shoeing into my business! Careful, young man!"

"Not altogether your affair, Mr. Bryce. The party whose money is involved has some rights."

"That is none of your damn business!"

"That is my business since Mrs. Dawn has made it so. She didn't think you would act immediately. She asked me to inquire about Crystal Power. I did! Not to gum-shoe on you. But to assure her. There have been no sales of Crystal Power in San Francisco in the past 10 days. You didn't buy from Bonner and Bart!"

The air between them bristled. Suddenly the interview leaped beyond all bounds. Bryce leaned on his desk, his hand clenched menacingly. His face, a peculiar gray.

"Realize what you're saying, young man! Realize the accusation you've made!"

But Guy knew—knew beyond all possible doubt that Bryce was going to use Laura Dawn's money. If he came out on top, fine; if he crashed, she crashed with him. Guy saw this—this only. Bryce would drag Pat Dickie, Laura with him to ruin.

He met the cold arrogance of Bryce's challenge: "I realize what I've said. You've not bought any stock for Laura Dawn. You're holding her money to meet that note of yours for $40,000 coming due tomorrow."

"I warn you! I warn you! Elliott, your whole future risked on the hysteria of a fool woman."

"Who wants her money, has a right to it and is going to get it!" Guy suddenly pushed a hand over his hair and stood before the older man, young, brown, trembling. "Mr. Bryce, do we need to insult each other? You haven't bought Crystal Power. Give me the bonds, I'll return them. No word need be said—of this."

For a moment Bryce regarded the tall lean youth. A relief came into his eyes that a moment before were like smoky fires. He seemed measuring every word. "Mrs. Dawn came to this office, asked me to use my own judgment. I told her that in eight weeks her $22,000 would be $30,000. And in eight weeks it will be! You've seen enough of my operations to know this is not a boast. In eight weeks she will receive $8,000 more than she has at the present. Can she afford to wait for such earnings? Now, you go and tell her this. Let her mind be at peace. She never did a luckier thing in her life."

"If all goes well with you," said Guy. "Yes, I believe you. You would pay well. But if you don't recover——"

"Don't be an utter fool——"

"Mrs. Dawn has to look on this side of it. They'll be hungry if they lose this. They can't afford to finance you, even on the chance of earning $8,000 in as many weeks."

"You tell Mrs. Dawn to come in here and see me. Let her decide for herself."

"You want me to be your accomplice! You want me to help hoodwink the widow of a friend. I'll ask her if she wants to let you use her $22,000 on the chance that she may never recover a cent of it. Good God, Bryce, do you want me to ask her this?"

Bryce moved toward him, his whole powerful body plunged in a belligerent attitude. He looked murderous. "What do you know of my business? I've my home. It's worth $30,000 above its present mortgage. I've my residence park. I've oil and copper stocks. I've millions."

"Then you don't need the pittance of a woman who has these few dollars and NOTHING else!"

Again the man hesitated. Again he took a decisive move. "Yes, I need cash for a day—for one day. The richest men in the world have passed through emergencies when they needed a few thousands. Guy—even if I did crash—and I won't—she's safe. Let me use this. I'll give you a note. . . ."

"Mr. Bryce, I CAN'T give you another person's money. I can't be so sure—I can't be at ALL sure that she's safe. . . . I'm sorry. But Mrs. Dawn has suffered plenty. Why should she be asked to go down with you?"

"I'm not going down!"

"Why should she chance it? Stark tragedy for three people risked to save you. Mr. Bryce, is there any reason why Laura Dawn should do this? Pauperize herself and her two children? No! And if you asked her, she'd be aghast; she would regard you as a cold thief."

"You'll regret that, Elliott!"

"I regret it now. But I'm forced to ask you to surrender Mrs. Dawn's money."

"She came in here and entrusted it to me."

"And she sent me to tell you that she's altered her plans. She didn't dream you'd care. Didn't dream the use you were intending to make of her funds."

"What if I've used them already?"

Guy shoved the blotter on the desk impatiently: "You don't want any noise about this, Mr. Bryce. You don't want Mrs. Dawn to get excited and take the matter to the authorities. You've bought no stock. You have no receipt. How in hell can you explain your reluctance to return the woman's money? Unless you want to shout to the world that you're in a jam. Fellows in a pinch have used other people's money before. The law calls them 'embezzlers.' Do you want to brand yourself a crook?"

Bryce turned cold. His face was a cold gray. Without a word he walked over to his safe, opened it and took out Laura Dawn's bonds. He snapped them on the desk with a brusque: "You're finished, Elliott! I'll wipe the gutters with you."

Cookery Hint

Bacon fat may be used either entirely or partially in place of other fats for shortening or seasoning such dishes as meat loaves, griddle cakes, muffins and spice cake.

New Stockings

In washing new stockings rinse them first in water to which a teaspoonful of vinegar has been added and they will not fade so readily.

THE PREMATURE GUEST

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

SAID he, coming up the walk, having invited himself to tea . . . all too soon . . . said he, humming it low to himself, that Incorrigible, whose own mother, Venus, even told the whole world that he was not to be trusted, said he, humming Dryden's blithe couplet:

"May widows wed as often as they can,
And ever for the better change their man!"

Delicately this unchanging changeling balances his cup of tea, casts up his eyes and ponders. This is he whose best language is a sigh, in spite of his light-mindedness. This is he whom it is fatal to embrace. For once knowing him, capricious, gay, sorrowful, the tender lovely heart cannot do without his company.

He says little, only sighs—and smiles. And STAYS ON. And gently hums Springtime-like lines under his breath, such as "Who loves again in haste pays sincerest tribute to the happiness of love that's past!" And such as, "A mighty pain to love it is . . . and 'tis a pain that pain to MISS!"

The pretty lady in black touches the dew in her blue eyes, and looks at her guest with suspicion.

"You should not have COME!" says she. Yet he is a marvelous comrade, and it is nice to see his engaging person beside her fire again.

"A mighty pain to love it is,
But 'tis a pain that pain to MISS!"

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith Arrives and Is Given 'Errand Girl' Job

DICKY looked up frowningly from his unpacking as I came into our suite with Mary's honey-colored evening gown hanging over my arm.

"I thought you had all your things unpacked," he said crossly.

"Oh, no," I returned. "This is a gown of Mary's I'm going to hang in my closet. They are pretty crowded in there."

"I should think they would be." His irritation found a new vent. "It's a crime to have those two girls cramped up like that, especially when you consider what Olina's been used to. But then, of course, Georges has to have a room down here. He can't spend all his time in that tiger trap upstairs, so I suppose it can't be helped. It's a good thing old Veritzen is going to have his son in his own suite downstairs. That lessens the crowd by one."

"Yes, it is fortunate," I replied perfunctorily, then added with more energy:

"I wish you'd finish your unpacking in your own room, Edith may be here any minute, and you've made the place fearfully untidy."

I expected an irritated retort, but instead he suddenly grinned, his annoyance vanished.

"That's the cuckoo's last cry," he said "worrying about what old Ede will think about my truck being thrown around. Heavens, woman, she's my business partner, remember. This is mild compared to the pile of my belongings she has to wade through in order to find a place to sit down."

"Glad you're on the mourner's bench, lad." Edith's voice came from behind us, and we turned to see her standing with Lillian just inside the door, which I inadvertently had left ajar. With amusement wrinkling her eyelids, Lillian explained.

"They announced her over our telephone, so I told them to send her up, and personally conducted her over here just in time to hear Dicky's confession of error. That ought to do your heart good, Ede."

"It does." Edith said, flashing a glance at Dicky, which I interpreted — perhaps wrongly —as both provocative and coquettish. But I put down the resentment which flamed at her look and Dicky's smiling response to it, and walked toward her with my hand held out in greeting.

"At last we've corralled you," I said clasping her outstretched hand warmly. I was thankful that she did not attempt to kiss me, for it would have been an almost impossible ordeal for me to return the caress. "Dicky take this bundle of mail and I'll get Ede's things off and make her comfortable in this chair over here by the window. You must see our view, Ede. It's our chief asset."

Dicky took the bundle of mail with a side glance at me, which was most gratifying. I knew he was puzzled as to my reaction toward this visit of Edith's, and my spirits rose with the knowledge.

"Now, Dicky-bird, we'll excuse you," Lillian said sweetly. "Flap your wings into your room or up to the tiger trap—it's all one to us. We have many things to go over with Ede. I don't know when I've seen you, Ede. It seems like a million years."

I paid mental tribute to Lillian's histronism. I knew her aversion to Edith. But her mendacity was most convincing.

"And you probably won't say one lucid thing among you for the next hour," Dicky grumbled, but took his prompt departure, nevertheless, while Edith Fairfax looked at us with puzzled eyes.

"Tiger trap!" she repeated.

"That's what we are going to tell you about," Lillian answered, stretching herself out on the couch with her hands behind her head. "Get comfortable, Ede. I warn you, it's a long and exciting story."

She launched into the history of our royal guests and the dangers surrounding them which had led us to bring them to the hotel. Edith listened with apparent intentness, even excitement, but I, watching her furtively, decided that very little in the story was new to her. Dicky must have confided the whole thing to her.

I guessed that Lillian shared my intuition, for she hurried over the last of the tale, finishing with a wave of the hand to me.

"So now, you see, we're entering the final phase, of which the announcement dinner tomorrow night will be the prelude. Madge mustn't leave here, and she has all sorts of flowers and truck to select. That's where you come in."

"Oh! That's scrumptious!" she said. "I adore planning decorations."

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Fiance and Fiancee

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Help! We girls in our office are having a terrible discussion about the pronunciation of fiance and fiancee. If you don't come to the rescue we won't be responsible for what will happen. And if I should tell you the number of pronunciations that have been offered it would fill your entire column! Six girls out of the eight maintain that the word fiance has two syllables, and that fiancee has three. Can this be correct? Well, anyway, it will give you an indication of how much we need your help.. SYLVIA.

HERE I come—running to your aid. And I shall try to indicate the pronunciation of these difficult words as clearly as possible.

Fiance is the man who is engaged to be married, and fiancee is the woman who is engaged to be married. The words are pronounced alike. Each has three syllables: fi-an-ce(e).

The first syllable is pronounced as if the i were a long e: fee. The second syllable is pronounced as if it were spelled ahn pronounced nasally (through the nose). The third syllable is pronounced as if it were spelled say: Fee-ahn-say.

There is a slight accent on the last syllable—but don't make this accent too heavy. One more warning: don't pronounce the second syllable like on—try to give it the nasal sound of ahn. And remember that both have three syllables!

Let me know if I can help in any more arguments!

The Visitor Calls

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A girl from the city comes to call on relatives who live in a small village. She has girl friends about her own age in the village. Should the visitor call on her friends, or should they call on her at the relative's house? F. T.

SHE should call on her friends at their homes.

Horoscopes

Sunday, December 1

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of unusual events, with abrupt change or journey. While there are some unforeseen complications, generally the trend of affairs is pleasant and profitable.

Those whose birthday it is may be confronted by a year of sudden and radical changes—affecting the employment and environment, and while there may be times of perplexing situations, yet unlooked for and pleasant conditions are in store.

A child born on this day may have an unusual and eventful career, with much change and many complications.

Monday, December 2

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for very negative conditions, and possibly some thwarting or anxious developments in purely personal contacts. While these may not assume eagerly desired situations, yet they are not unfriendly.

Those whose birthday it is may find that personal affairs may engage their attention largely during the year, other things moving in lagging or routine grooves.

A child born on this day may be best qualified for the quieter and more domestic avenues of endeavor, not being disposed to strenuous effort in life.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Matrimonial Reciprocity

MOST people spend half the courtship in telling each other how perfectly wonderful they are—and the other half in planning to remodel each other after the wedding.

This is practically paving the way to Reno, before you have taken the trip to the altar. Because love may be a game in which you play against each other; but marriage is a game in which you play as partners, with and FOR each other.

Marriage is a Burbanked product of the crossing of two individualities, the merging of two personalities. But, even Burbank himself couldn't have crossed an egotist and an individualist.

The trouble is that most moderns don't want to WORK at marriage. The day after the honeymoon, each wants to run out and play his or her own little game. Nobody wants to "give in" any more—and that's why so many marriages give out. They start right off with a Declaration of Independence, instead of with a peace pact.

Preserving your individuality is one thing, and embalming your prejudices is another. Some men hang onto their personal opinions and their self-indulgent little habits, after marriage, like a pet dog to an old shoe. And some women cling to their whims and moods and complexes like a cat to a mouse.

The passion for freedom and individuality is no doubt a grand and glorious thing but you can't run it through a wedding ring and it won't fit into a kitchenette apartment.

"Being yourself" in a life partnership is mostly being a road-hog on the path of matrimony.

If you want to "live your own life," live it, by all means. But don't drag in some innocent bystander and try to roll him or her out flat and trim him or her down to fit your own life-design.

You can't "be yourself" and be "nobody's wife" or "somebody's husband" at the same time.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Health Is Founded on Daily Exercise

OF one type or another, the muscles have most to do with the makeup of the body. The heart is a muscle, or a mass of muscles. Almost all of the substance of the alimentary tract consists of muscles. These contract in waves, pushing the food through the canal. The organs that are not muscle are surrounded by muscle.

DR COPELAND

If the muscles are weak and flabby and relaxed, they cannot do the required work of digestion. They must be hard, tense and strong, in order that we may have good health.

The only way to keep these muscles strong is to use them, to exercise them. Vigorous exercise every day for everyone must be the rule if the muscular "tone" is to be maintained. Walking, running, jumping, dancing, games in which the body has full play, are the ideal exercises which everybody should practice.

Proper food must be the rule. We need certain roughage in the food, bulky foods, the great part of which travel through the colon and encourage the muscular action of the bowels. This effect is known as "peristalsis," that wave-like action of the muscles of the abdomen. These bulky foods are necessary in the proportion of three to one, to stimulate the muscles of the bowels to proper action.

Let us consider this peristaltic movement in the intestines. Like other muscles, unless they are given work to do, the intestinal muscles become flabby and weak.

The muscles making up the outer layers of the intestines run lengthwise, while those on the inside are ring-shaped. Both sets work together in a wonderful way, producing wave-like motions which carry the food along through the intestines.

Fruits and vegetables, with their skins, aid greatly in stimulating this action. Also the unrefined wheat and oats are helpful in preventing constipation. The acids of fruits are stimulating to the intestinal tract, besides having great value in their mineral and vitamin content. All fruits except bananas, which otherwise are valuable, are beneficial in exciting peristalsis, and figs and prunes are especially good.

There are some foods, such as honey, molasses, cauliflower, spinach and onions, that cause a slight gas formation in the intestines. There is nothing about this to worry over. Indeed, it is a helpful condition in cases of constipation.

Chronic constipation leads to or accompanies some serious diseases. Cancer, chronic appendicitis, displaced organs and deformities are certainly not benefited by obstinate constipation. There are plenty of authorities to charge constipation with having a real part in their production.

The ordinary case of constipation can be prevented and cured by persistent effort and will power. If the patient will observe the ordinary rules laid down by his physician, or the knowledge which he may have for the asking, good health will be his reward for well-doing. The first step is to develop the general muscular tone.

Answers to Health Queries

M. M. Q.—How can I reduce?

A.—Eat very sparingly of starches, sugars and fats. Get regular, systematic exercise. A gradual reduction in the amount of food consumed, with the regular exercise, will work wonders in most cases.

MRS. B. L. K. Q.—Is it desirable to give bananas to a 5-year-... child?

2—... can freckles be bleached?

3—Wh... ses a baby to suck its ... ue? My 5-year-old son still does it.

A.—Yes, if they are ripe. Bananas are nutritious and healthful and may be included in a child's diet with benefit.

2—Try using equal parts of peroxide and lemon juice as a bleach. Apply a good cold cream after using the preparation, which may prove drying to the skin.

3—May be due to habit. See a doctor if you are anxious.

MRS. J. L. C. Q.—What causes white leg and what treatment is helpful? It pains when I walk on it and is also swollen and inflamed around the ankle.

A.—Usually due to infection in the deep vein. Rest and keeping the leg elevated will usually bring about relief. The trouble is usually slow and tedious in clearing up.

GEORGE FAWCETT IS WRITING MEMOIRS, HOLLYWOOD RUMORS SAY

By DOROTHY HERZOG

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 30.

IT IS BEING waited around town that George Fawcett is writing his memoirs. He motors to a desert ranch beaucoup frequently, carrying a bulgy brief-case along. And writes. Thousands of words. The ranch where all this is going on is owned by Dr. Boynton, a cousin of William Allen White, W. K. editor and scribe.

George Fawcett.

Anita (Gentlemen Prefer Blondes) Loos hies herself to Flickburg next week. Purpose: probably business and to visit her parents, who live at the Hollywood Hotel. From here, Miss Loos goes on to Florida for the winter balm.

It's tough. Marion Bryon is a foot high to a grasshopper. A nicknaming soul washed the moniker of "Peanuts" on her. It's gotten so now that Miss Bryon is even "Peanuts" to her fans. Which is downright tough on any kid. . .

English Actor Gets New Role

Ruth Chatterton is making an outfound yclept "Sarah and Son." Dorothy Arzner is directing and John Langan is the dialogue director.

John is a young chap who came West at the contractural request of Paramount. He's a well-known stage director on New York's Broadway.

Ruth Chatterton.

It so chanced that one part in "Sarah and Son" called for a subtle actor who was neither lead nor obviously character.

Mr. Langan went to see Pauline Frederick's stage effort, "The Queen is in the Parlor." One of her leads in the play is a British actor, William Stack. Stack gives a charming performance, second only to Miss Frederick's.

Langan trailed backstage after the show to see a friend and during his visit asked to meet Mr. Stack. He did. The upshot was Stack received a call from the Famous lot. He took a test for the aforementioned role in "Sarah and Son." And got it.

This is his first picture in the U. S. A. He has appeared in silent British offerings. But his first, it is intimated, will result in a contract for more. And, incidentally, bring a sterling actor to the screen. As the screen certainly needs illustrations for sterling, credit, 'twould seem, goes to John Langan in this inst.

Mr. Schildkraut Ill In Hospital

RUDOLPH SCHILDKRAUT is recuperating from a severe attack of asthma—an attack that nearly cost him his life. Over to see him at the Hollywood Hospital tripped (get the picture) his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Joseph Schildkraut, and Ruth Taylor. The three of them indulged in a heavy game of rummy, with the invalid losing 10 bucks to the innocent eyed visitors. There's no justice. Incidentally, Mr. Schildkraut's illness will not result in his losing his featured role in Herbert Brenon's production of "Sergeant Grisha." Brenon dropped by the hospital to see Schildkraut, Sr., and told him if necessary he would hold the picture for him.

R. Schildkraut

Mervyn Leroy tells this one: Two cross-country runners started cross-country running. They jogged along until they hit Cleveland. A mob of people lined the streets to give them a hand. One of the runners looked over his shoulder and espied a little Irish boy jogging behind them.

"Who's that guy?" he panted to his co-runner.

"I don't know. Probably wants some of our glory."

The cross country runners jogged out of Cleveland, hit along to Chicago. People lined the curb, but seemed to pay more attention to some one behind them.

The runners investigated and saw the same Irish kid keeping pace with them.

"Say, who the so-and-so are you?" growled one of 'em.

"Sh-h-h-h-h, don't say nuthing," beseeched the boy, "I'm a stow-away!"

Obituary

Michael P. Ryan.

Real Estate

A four-family apartment in Park boulevard, Dormont, has been sold through the Dougherty McKee Company for James N. Thompson to E. E. Couch. The same brokers sold for Elijah Lee to Thomas Orr a lot in West Liberty avenue on which is being constructed a two-story office and warehouse. They also sold for the Dangelico Development Company 50-foot lots in Ridgfield avenue, Oak Ridge Manor, to Albert J. Smith and Charles Shepard.

A brick dwelling on 20x43 feet on the north side of Forbes street, near Hooper street, First Ward, has been sold by James W. Jackson to E. U. Snaman for $15,000.

A brick residence on 80x156 feet at 5647 Bartlett street, Squirrel Hill, has been sold by Nora O. Sunstein to Alexander C. Speyer.

A brick dwelling in Connecticut avenue, Dormont, has been sold by Ellis H. Schaffer to Joseph Melore. The lot is 32x110 feet.

Applications for real estate brokers' license are now available at the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board headquarters, 335 Second avenue. Robert W. Semenow, director of the license law, was at the board rooms yesterday and this morning to explain the procedure necessary in the application. Many brokers have already secured application blanks.

In McKeesport, Sarah A. Evans has sold to Dr. S. H. Holland a frame dwelling and cement garage at the southeast corner of Fifth and Fawcett avenues for $10,000. The lot is 32x106 feet.

In Mt. Lebanon, Christian I. Shannon has sold to William A. Dean 45x147 feet, vacant, in Mohawk drive.

A house in Hamilton avenue, Thirteenth Ward, has been sold by Alva C. Wise to Simon Pillow for $9,500. The lot is 41x112 feet.

In Beverly Heights plan, Mt. Lebanon, Speakman, Inc., have conveyed to John A. Sharp 50x125 feet, vacant, in Inglewood drive.

A property in Sloan avenue, Wilkinsburg, lot 70x156 feet, has been sold by H. E. Shirk to M. Y. Reynolds.

MANY PHASES OF LOVE IN STANLEY

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Love, under the box office title "The Sacred Flame," is getting some dramatic treatment on the Stanley screen as one of the features of the new bill which opened yesterday in that theater. And it is a love that is depicted in many phases.

Pauline Frederick is there with a somewhat new slant on the mother love theme. She is seen as a woman who understands and defends her daughter-in-law, as a woman who gave her life and who, when the times comes—which it does at the climax—takes it away.

Man's love for a woman and vice versa also get a lot of attention, with Conrad Nagel championing the former and Lila Lee taking care of the vice versa. Mr. Nagel is seen as a young aviator, crippled for life in a crash that comes shortly after his marriage ceremony. And Miss Lee is seen as the bride who finds herself tied by wedding vows to an invalid.

Two other love phases enter. A brother angle is introduced by Walter Byron, who, in the role of such a relative to the invalid, finds himself torn between brotherly affection and love for the young wife. She, in turn, comes to care for him—which makes it all very difficult. Then there is Dale Fuller, who, as a nurse—starched and white—brings in the suppressed love idea. Pity for the young husband, her patient, suddenly breaks into that "sacred flame."

MIXED-UP AFFECTIONS

With such mixups in human affections and with so many different characters involved the dramatic situations come frequently. Some of these are done with keen understanding. But several impress as being quite shallow. For example, the angle involving the nurse doesn't convince. Perhaps it is the fault of Miss Fuller's emoting. But whatever or whoever the fault, you can't get sympathetic—though you know you should—with this nurse and her futile love. And when she discloses her secret affections to the world, or rather to the characters assembled in an aristocratic English home instead of being sorry for her you think, "how silly!" Maybe you'll even be moved to laugh out loud. Some did yesterday.

Miss Frederick walks away with the emoting honors, with Mr. Nagel sitting close at her heels. And "sitting" is the word, for he is confined to a wheel chair for most of the film footage. Miss Lee does pretty well as the wife and Mr. Byron looks "Don Juany" enough as the brother. Alex Francis, a doctor who signs a natural death certificate for a death that isn't natural, and William Courtenay, an English major who was the major "sacred flame" in the youthful days of the mother, offer portrayals that have de luxe finishes.

FOR MATURE MINDS

The picture, which is an all-talk version of the W. Somerset Maugham stage play, is mature entertainment. It opens with a wedding and ends with two lonely women walking arm and arm down a garden path. And lo, a specter shadow appears between them—a shadow that you recognize as Mr. Nagel who died somewhat earlier in the film action. And he is walking again. Such is the miracle of death in the movies!

On the stage Dick Powell presents "Frills and Fancies." And it is both frilly and fanciful. Mr. Powell introduces his loose-leaf note-book, which was popular out in the Enright, and presents his version of "The Village Blacksmith." It is funny enough, with the stage band putting in musical punctuation. Mr. Powell also pours that pleasant voice of his through the megaphone and gets a big echo in the form of applause. Featured entertainers include a couple of comedy chatterers, five Negro youths who do some hot stepping and two feminine dancers. The Rockets are featured in several numbers.

A David Broudy overture and a Bernie Armstrong organlogue are on the bill.

Gets Raise

Nancy Carroll is the newest redheaded star in pictures. Because of her past work in the talkies she has been elevated to stardom in "Flesh of Eve," a forthcoming picture.

POWER FAMINE PERIL GROWS

SEATTLE, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Unsettled weather conditions along the Alaska coast, following one of the worst gales and tidal waves witnessed there for several years, brought little hope to residents of the Pacific Northwest, who face almost a complete failure of hydro-electric power unless rain falls soon.

The three cities of Vancouver, B. C., Tacoma, and Seattle, are in the most serious situation.

SHAW DRAMA NEW GUILD OFFERING

"Pygmalion," the fourth production of the second Theatre Guild subscription season in Pittsburgh, to be presented at the Nixon next week, is a delightful comedy, and one that will be found in the Shaw group. Frederick Burton and Irene Gosnell play the leading roles. The play is directed by Elliot Cabot. Jane Wheatley, Phyllis Connard and others.

"Pleasure Bound," Sherman Brown's all-musical revue, will be the attraction at the Shubert-Alvin, terminating its engagement at that playhouse this evening.

Two Pittsburgh dramatists, George Seibel, whose play "The Leper" will be presented at the Pitt next week and Edward Locke, author of "The Case of Becky," were old neighbors. As they put it, they used to sit up till past midnight telling each other how great their unproduced plays were and how terrible all the successful plays they had written.

A Spanish mantilla worn by her grandmother when she was married in Madrid is part of the costume Bebe Daniels wears in Zoe Akins' play, "The Reno Divorce," now showing at the R. K. O. Sheridan Square.

SHAKESPEARE IN FILM

Sam Taylor, who directed the screen version of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew," which comes to the Penn Monday, as the first co-starring production for Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, broke into the movies as a scenarist. He spent six years in this division of motion picture work before being offered a directorial position.

"The Sacred Flame," a tale of the love of two brothers for the same girl, is the talking film in the Stanley.

Rex Bell's idea of a good time is a day at the beach dressed in old trousers and a sweater. Nothing could induce him to don evening clothes. He is a garage mechanic

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: What is the proper age at which to marry?

P. R. ZACHARY, Sixth avenue, assistant manager: "The age doesn't make a whole lot of difference. A man or woman should marry when he or she has reached that time in life when they are willing to 'settle down' and forget the rest, if any, for each other. On that basis marriages can be happy. If they are unable to that basis they shouldn't marry at all."

P. R. Zachary

CONCETTA CICERELLA, East Liberty, secretary: "In my opinion 25 is about the proper time to marry. By that time most persons have reached a degree of reasoning that permits them to know whether or not they are sufficiently qualified for the married state. Twenty-five goes for the girls. I should say a man ought to be at least 28 or 29 years old before he marries. A lot of people feel that way about it."

C. Cicerella

HORTENSE SMITH, downtown secretary: "Personally, I don't believe in marriage at all. The only person that I'd contemplate marrying would be an actual fact millionaire. That's the way I feel about it. At the present time I'm too happy in the single state to think anything seriously about a state of wedded bliss. There's no reason for me thinking anything different."

Hortense Smith

T. BALLINGER, William Penn Hotel, secretary: "I don't know just when men should marry but I think girls should not marry until they are 25 years at least. By that time they have usually become sensible enough to realize what the true vows of the marriage rite mean. Most people are willing to settle down around that time and make a success of their marriage venture. Of course, there are many exceptions to the rule but exceptions prove the rule."

T. Ballinger

MRS. PEARL TUCH, Squirrel Hill, housewife: "I believe in an early marriage for both parties. During their younger years they are able to understand each other better and their ways are not as set as they are in later life. You hear a lot about the marriages that fail but nothing about the millions of others that are successful. Compared to my married life, my single years were as a nothingness."

Mrs. P. Tuch

MEREDITH L. BORN, Aspinwall, telegraph clerk: "Men and women should marry young because they have that much more time to enjoy each other's company in life as the years pass by. Mates should be chosen with an idea to compatibility and sameness of tastes. If this is done, the marriage, regardless of the age of the contracting parties, ought to prove successful. Of course, one shouldn't get married too young."

M. L. Born

Gilmorisms

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 30.

Mr. Hoover has had all the financiers of the country gathered and made 'em sign a pledge to spend some money for the general prosperity of the country, so next week he is really going into big business.

He is calling the coaches of the various football teams together and get them to promise to build bigger grandstands, make longer trips and pay more for promising high school talent. That's what's the matter with this country, it's not Wall street, it's not the Senate, it's just that a lot of cheap colleges won't go out and spend the dough.

Bigger grandstands! Look at Chicago with Soldiers' Field. With Dempsey and Tunney, Army and Navy and California and Notre Dame, why, that's brought 'em more publicity than Al Capone, and machine guns combined.

Yours, WILL.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY
'Public Improvements Promote Progress'
Convinced that public improvements exert an important influence upon the progress of any community, the Board of County Commissioners of Allegheny County on January 1, 1929, initiated a program of major public works, many of which are already effectively serving the citizens, while others of vital importance are being rapidly brought to completion.
WARRENDALE-BAYNE ROAD EXTENSION—Located in Marshall Township, extends 3.68 miles from present improved Warrendale-Bayne Road at unimproved Stoneville Road to improved Big Sewickley Creek Road. Constructed of re-inforced concrete, 18 ft. wide. Contract price $253,936.00. Contract date of completion, December 28, 1929. This new road closes the gap making complete improved highway along the Northern part of the county from Tarentum on the Allegheny River to Ambridge on the Ohio River.

RETAILERS GET SEASONAL ORDERS

R. G. Dun Reports Dull Period Gives Place to Active Holiday Buying

While there was some slackening in business activity earlie in the month, a change for the better is noted in department store sales, which are beginning to feel the effects of holiday buying and also of the colder weather, according to R. G. Dun & Co.

Smaller retailers complain that business has been rather quiet but prospects appear to be showing some improvement. Jobbers of drygoods, wearing apparel and shoes report sales comparatively quiet, with orders generally rather small and for filling in purposes. The jewelry trade is reported somewhat lower than a year ago, with buying largely in the cheaper grades.

There has been a fair volume of business in hardware, although the movement of builders' hardware has been below normal. While sales of automobiles are less active, there has been a better distribution of automobile accessories than last year. Grocery sales are fairly close to normal and provisions are fairly active with poultry in plentiful supply at close to pre-war prices.

OPERATIONS OFF

There has been a moderate reduction in the rate of operation of industrial plants, with steel plants averaging about 70 per cent of capacity. The production of plate glass has been well maintained with the October output about 25 per cent higher than a year ago. At the present time orders from the automobile industry are light, but material improvement is anticipated in a few weeks. Production of window glass continues at a very low rate and orders are generally for immediate needs only.

There is a continued good demand for electrical equipment and a fair activity in radio equipment, although competition in that line is very keen. Radiator and heating equipment is moving quite well, but sanitary equipment is less active than a year ago. Production of crude oil is slightly higher for the week.

COAL UNCHANGED

The production of bituminous coal shows comparatively little change, with a slightly stronger demand, particularly for the better grades. Western Pennsylvania grades of run-of-mine coal are quoted per net ton, at mines: Steam coal, $1.25 to $1.75; coking coal, $1.50 to $1.75; gas coal, $1.65 to $1.75; steam slack, 80 cents to 90 cents, and gas slack, $1 to $1.10.

Although collections have shown a slight improvement, they still continue to average rather slow.

New Glass Factory Starts Operations

Fire has been lighted in the tank of the Scohy Sheet Glass Company at Sistersville, W. Va. The six Fourcault machines installed on the tank will be placed in operation at an early date.

Satisfactory progress is being made by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company in the erection of its new window glass plant at Henryetta, Okla. One tank on which will be operated four machines that draw vertically from the tank is likely to be completed in time to place it in operation in the latter part of next month. There are to be two tanks of the same size operated in this factory.

Department Store Sales Show Gains

Department store sales, as reported to the Federal Reserve Board from 229 cities, averaged 3 per cent larger in October than for the same month of 1928, and this volume of business also represented a 3 per cent increase for the first nine months of the year.

Stewart-Warner Gains in New Business

That manufacturing experience in one industry lends itself to success in another is shown in the case of the Stewart-Warner Corporation of Chicago in connection with the expansion of its radio division.

Pioneers in its line since the early days of the automobile, the Stewart-Warner Corporation is first in the manufacturing field of automotive accessories and equipment. It is now also a leader in the radio industry.

Those who have followed the fortunes of the corporation point out that its success in radio production can be traced to diversified manufacturing experience through the years. Many of the departments turning out refinements for automobiles are also being used to advantage in the production of radio receivers.

Enjoying a reputation built up in the manufacture of precision-made products over a quarter of a century, the corporation has been equally efficient in turning out accurately-made radio parts which, with the assembly experience gained through years of operation, is responsible in a large measure for its outstanding achievement in the radio line.

Business Machine Sales Show Gain

In contradiction of bad business predictions due to the uncertain condition of the stock market, the Monroe Calculating Machine Company, Inc., reports an increase of 27 per cent in sales for October over the preceding month. Total business for October, 1929, shows an increase of 35 per cent over the same month of last year.

For the first 10 months of 1929 foreign orders have advanced 29 per cent over the corresponding period of last year.

BUYING CENTER IN HOTEL

Established originally for the convenience of out-of-town guests, the colony of smart shops in the Hotel William Penn is rapidly becoming a center for discriminating Pittsburgh buyers. Primarily, the idea of the mart was to give hotel guests the privilege of choice selections of high class merchandise without the inconvenience of traveling over the city to find them. In order that this shopping service would be of the same high type which characterizes all William Penn service, the management has been most careful in the selection of representative concerns.

How successfully this has been done is evident from the popularity which this colony of establishments has gained with Pittsburgh people. Located under one roof, in most attractive settings, are to be found 18 individualized enterprises of a character to be met with only on the most exclusive boulevards visited by the most discriminating patronage.

One of the unique and pleasing features of this smart colony is the unusual interior arrangement which has taken away much of the sordid commercialism of the ordinary retail establishment. There is nothing tiresome about shopping at the William Penn. Not a single detail has been overlooked in making buying in this mart a real delight and not a drudgery. There are tone, character and prestige about the entire environment which add so much of charm to the purchase.

VARIETY OF SHOPS

From the main lobby five of these shops are available—Taft & Taft, the Parry Portrait Studio, the William Penn Flower Shop and the J. H. Holmes Company.

One floor above, and with entries both from the lobby and Grant street, will be found Brentano's book and stationery shop, the David shop, where exclusive sport and daytime apparel for women are on display, and the splendid Shapero drug store.

On the club and shop floor of the hotel are Martin & Martain, women's and men's shoes; the H. B. Yardum & Company, importers of Oriental rugs; Maude Ingersoll's entertainment bureau, and the William Penn Beauty Salon.

One floor above are Young's health institute for men; the Charles Bily Company, merchant tailor, and DeNino & Hlawati, Inc., makers of fine clothes.

Besides these exclusive shops there are the usual hotel rentals for the convenience of guests, such as a barber shop, cigar stand, news-stand and various information and transportation desks.

In order that the shop renting space in the William Penn Hotel might carry on with the idea of the management in making this shopping mart effectively distinctive, rentals have been kept at a figure which is comparable to rentals asked in other good locations so that prices are always commensurate with the quality of merchandise and the reliability of the concern.

McKeesport Tin Plate Shows Increase

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

McKEESPORT TIN PLATE COMPANY is expected to establish a new high record in earnings this year and it is also considered quite probable that the company will pass a share of the increased profit on to stockholders within a short time. Since 1923 gains in profits have been reported each year.

The company is expected to earn about $2,200,000 after all charges this year. This will be equivalent to $7.33 a share on the 300,000 shares of common stock which are on a $4 annual dividend basis.

The steel business has frequently been referred to as the "Prince and Pauper" industry. This has not been true of tin plate during the past few years. A steadily expanding demand for the product and the fact that comparatively few companies are in the business have made an exceptional degree of stability possible. In the past six years only one change has been made in the published price of tin plate. This was in 1927 when the quotation was cut from $5.50 to $5.25 a base box of 100 pounds.

Gain in Nine Months

THE company earned more in the first nine months of this year than in all of 1928. Net profit was $1,763,400 or $5.88 a share. This compares with $1,587,918 or $5.29 a share in the full 12 months of last year.

A persistent increase has been shown in operating efficiency. Sales have shown little change since 1923, but each consecutive year has been marked by a gain in net profit. The following table shows net sales, net profit after all charges and earnings per share on the present capitalization:

	Net Sales.	Net Profit.	Net a Share.
1928	$15,707,954	$1,587,918	$5.29
1927	15,271,639	1,205,920	4.01
1926	14,471,065	999,741	3.33
1925	15,833,933	536,074	1.78
1924	14,695,865	434,109	1.44
1923	15,605,906	376,449	1.25

Concentrated Production

THE McKeesport Tin Plate Company has the unique advantage of having all of its production concentrated at a single point. It has the largest single tin plate plant in the United States. It is distinctly a Pittsburgh district industry. In recent years the plants have been thoroughly modernized so that low production costs are enjoyed.

The company paid its first cash dividend in 1905 and has never failed to pay dividends in any year since then. The common stock represents the only claim on earnings. The company has no bonds or preferred stock. An issue of $6,000,000 of first mortgage 6s was retired on March 1, 1928, following the sale of 104,116 additional shares of new stock. Early in 1928 the 97,942 shares of old stock were split two-for-one.

Production at High Rate

TIN plate was in exceptional demand in 1928 and 1927. Production during most of those years was between 80 per cent and 95 per cent of capacity. Operations at this rate were maintained during most of the first nine months of this year.

The continuous high rate of sales is due to the fact that large packs of both fruits and vegetables have been made during the last three seasons. The increasing public demand for canned goods has also stimulated sales. New products are constantly being added to the already extensive list of canned foods. Within the past few years such items as sauer kraut and grapefruit have been among the foods which the public is buying in cans in increased quantities.

Curtailing Blast Furnace Activities

Steel producers are curtailing production of pig iron. Several blast furnaces have been shut down during the past two weeks. At the end of last month there were 203 furnaces active, out of 318, or 63.8 per cent of the country's capacity.

Indications are the percentage of furnaces active as of the end of this month will fall below 60 per cent.

Berlin Gets Loan From Dillon, Read

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The Berlin municipality has accepted the $5,000,000 loan of Dillon, Read & Co., New York bankers, subject to approval by the Federal Loan Commission. The loan is made for one year at 7½ per cent.

ROUND TABLE OF BUSINESS

STEEL OUTPUT CONTINUES SLUMP

Production Recedes To Less Than 70 Per Cent Of Maximum Capacity

By B. E. V. LUTY

President Hoover's conferences with leaders in business have a double influence. Executives comparing notes with each other are moved to retain programs of expenditures previously formulated and perhaps to increase them in some cases, while announcements of the large amount of work in contemplation have a reassuring effect upon the general public.

No authority has hope that unfavorable influences from recent stock market happenings can be wholly obliterated, but there is one favorable influence as the better bond market is expected to stimulate expenditures by states, counties and municipalities.

The influence of the Washington activities upon the steel trade will be indirect rather than direct. The classes of work being preserved or stimulated do not run particularly to steel. To illustrate, two outstanding cases of especially heavy steel consumption since the middle of last year are automobile production and the laying of oil and gas pipe lines, chiefly the latter, and it would hardly be feasible or desirable to attempt to stimulate these lines by concerted effort. Results upon steel will be chiefly indirect, by maintaining as far as possible the general level of trade activity and labor employment.

OPERATIONS LOWER

The rate of steel production has decreased farther in the past week and is probably about half way between 65 and 70 per cent, against an 85 per cent average rate in October as officially reported. A substantial part of the decrease is merely seasonal but after allowance for such decrease there is still much left. In view of recent declines and the present rate, a forecast of 65 per cent as the December average would be high, but that would represent a 35 per cent decrease from the peak, which fell in May with practically 100 per cent production.

In the last six years the average decrease from the peak month to December has been 17 per cent, or just half of this. The decreases ranged from 28 per cent in 1923 and 27 per cent in 1927, down to 6 per cent in 1925 and 7 per cent in 1928. The decrease in excess of seasonal may be assigned to three items, to the peak rate having been exceptionally high, to a wearing out of the special bulge in steel demand that began about the middle of last year, and to the recent break in the stock market.

Divergences in operating rates of mills in the same district and of one district compared with another, referred to a fortnight ago in this report, are still more pronounced. In the Pittsburgh district the two largest interests are at about 70 per cent while some of the other mills, with specialized products, are at much lower rates, the district as a whole being at above 65 per cent. The Youngtown district is at about 50 per cent, through the chance that it does not make rails or heavy structural shapes, which are the two most active lines at the present time. The Chicago district has dropped to 70 per cent or less despite heavy production of rails.

Open-hearth production in the Buffalo district is estimated at 50 to 55 per cent.

RAILS ACTIVE

As to operations in different finishing branches, structural mills are at substntially as high rates as at any time, rail mills are running better than usual for this time of year and at not far from their maximum rate, plate mills are doing fairly well, bar mills are at low rates despite the fact that they have been replenishing stocks in some cases, sheet mills are at about 60 per cent and strip mills are estimated at only 20 to 30 per cent. Tin plate mills have been at around 60 per cent, but are about to increase operations as there is a fair accumulation of specifications for January shipment.

Fabricated structural steel lettings reported in the trade in the last four weeks have averaged only two-thirds the previous average, since the first of the year and such decrease cannot be identified as seasonal since in the last six years November lettings as officially reported averaged only 4 per cent under the annual averages. The matter is of no consequence for the time being, as the structural shops have been particularly well filled with orders, for from four to six months. Their October bookings were close to the record high and their October shipments were at a record high.

CAR ORDERS

Frisco orders reported in the week for 3,800 freight cars bring the total of freight car buying since October 1 to over 26,000 cars. On October 1 Class I roads had 29,317 freight cars on order. Production since last April has been at about 10,000 cars a month, well above the rate for previous years, and thus it appears that the car shops are now booked for about four months at their recent rate of operation, while there is considerable inquiry out and much more is predicted.

Statistics for 1926, just issued by the National Bureau of Economic Research, show 44,673,550 incomes, of which 99 per cent were under $8,700. Assigning many cars to the higher incomes it is clear that at the present time 15,000,000 to 17,000,000 cars are owned by receivers of incomes under $8,700. Certainly they were not very active in the stock market. Automobile buying in the future will depend upon general employment and upon the extent to which replacements in the past year have run ahead of the usual pace, whereby the average age of all cars in service will be considerably lower January 1, 1930, than a year previous.

Finished steel prices are holding quite well and perhaps better than was expected. Sellers exhibit no uneasiness and buyers as a rule do not want to see the market decline.

Month's Output Of Glass Small

Production of window glass has been low during November, accoroding to the National Glass Budget. There are at this time in operation 11 tanks on which are operated 79 machines that draw the glass vertically in sheet form.

The Libbey-Owens Glass Company has a number of machines in operation drawing sheet glass. It is not known, however, just how many are making single and double strength glass.

There is but one tank working in this country to which cylinder machines are attached. It is located in the Southwest and the equipment consists of four machines.

An unofficial estimate places the production of window glass during the month just closing at approximately 500,000 boxes, each containing 50 square feet.

NEW ROAD OPENED

FOX CHAPEL ROAD AFTER RECONSTRUCTION

DISTRICT GETS HIGHWAYS

The Fox Chapel district, located in the hills above Aspinwall overlooking the Allegheny River, which has developed into a superior country residential section, has been benefited by a number of public improvements by the Board of County Commissioners during the past six years.

The district is now conveniently served by public roads, several additions and improvements having been made which permit ideal circulation of traffic.

The Freeport road, bordering the southern portion of the district along the river, was widened and reconstructed through the joint efforts of the state, the county and the borough, making available to the residents a modern artery without the disadvantage of having the traffic penetrate the district itself.

NEW BRIDGE

In connection with the Freeport road improvement, a new bridge over Guyasuta Hollow and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks was constructed. Its completion was made possible by the satisfactory conclusion of intricate legal negotiations which had withheld its construction for a number of years, although everyone concerned recognized that the old structure was unsafe and inadequate.

Tapping the Freeport road as fan-like feeders to the district are five county roads, Guys Run road, Squaw Run extension, Squaw Run and Fox Chapel road, Sharpsburg and Kittanning pike and Kittanning pike via Sharps Hill, all of which have either been widened, reconstructed, extended or resurfaced.

CROSS ROADS

Through the northern central section of the district, by building Guys Run extension and Harts Run road, a continuous east and west artery was formed which made a connection between two important state highway routes, the Freeport road and the Butler road. These new road extensions opened up a traffic route paralleling the Freeport road at the southern border of this district.

Little Pine Creek road was widened and resurfaced; also a short new piece of roadway was built connecting the Butler road with the district by means of the Kittanning pike.

GLASS DEALERS TO MEET

The American Glass Review, in its issue of November 30, will say:

With the customary seasonal quiet prevalent in both the production and distribution of flat glass products all interests in the trade are centering their attention on the coming fifteenth annual meeting of the National Glass Distributors' Association, which will convene next Tuesday, December 3, in the William Penn Hotel, Pittsburgh. An exceptionally strong speaking program has been arranged, with the general sessions this year to occupy two days instead of only one as in the past. This lengthening of the program should be of advantage to all factors as it will not only afford more time for the general and committee meetings, but for conferences between manufacturers and jobbers as well.

Always the major gathering of the year for both the distributors and producers of window, plate and rough rolled glass products, the 1929 meeting will present for discussion a number of trade matters of major interest and importance. Reservations made point to one of the largest attendances in the organization's history.

Despite the comparatively light seasonal demand for window glass the past month, the volume of sales and shipments have been about in keeping with production, which was at the lowest figure for November in several years past. While virtually no stimulus in demand is reasonably to be expected before the taking of inventory, with jobbers' stocks now low outlook is for an appreciable improvement from the manufacturer's standpoint early in the new year.

Plate glass is in seasonable movement, with shipments to both the mirror makers and jobbing trade holding up well. Production of this commodity during November, in line with the consistent month-to-month gains shown this year over last, is expected to exceed the November, 1928, output.

Ford Plans Airplane Factory in Denmark

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—Ford Motor Company is negotiating for the establishment of a large airplane factory at Kastrup Airdrome in Copenhagen, Denmark, according to reports here.

MARKETS STEEL BUILDINGS

A type of industrial building construction which has gained great favor, especially during the past decade, is the standard steel building. Some still think of such a building in terms of its forerunner, which was little more than a shed composed of steel sheets nailed to a wooden framework. Today, however, the standard steel building is a permanent, scientifically designed, carefully fabricated, all-teel structure.

The Blaw-Knox Company enjoys a world-wide reputation for the manufacture of galvanized steel buildings constructed from standard parts. The principal features of such buildings are their weatherproof and firesafe character, flexibility, low cost, and the speed of delivery and erection.

STANDARD PARTS

Buildings of this kind, while composed of standard parts, are designed for the specific use for which they are intended. If, in time, the requirements change, the building may be altered in size and shape.

The long experience of the Blaw-Knox Company is reflected in their construction which makes the buildings easy to erect and assures tightly fitted, weatherproof joints, fireproof and rust-resisting steel parts and an insured long-life roof.

In addition to the economy and long life of these standard steel buildings, the rapidity with which they make additional floor space available is frequently of great importance to industrial managers. All parts are carried in stock and complete materials are shipped immediately upon approval of the design. Accurate floor plans are sent first, so that the foundations may be completed by the time the building arrives.

ERECTION EASY

Owing to the simplicity of this unit construction, the owner may easily erect the building with his own labor. The Blaw-Knox Company, however, maintains an erection department and will contract to erect or supervise erection of the building.

Standard unit construction permits a wide range of sizes and shapes in one and two-story buildings. Blaw-Knox standard steel buildings are widely used by the oil, coal and steel industries and by railroads. They are employed as airplane hangars and garages, and are used by all types of industrial concerns for manufacturing, storage and shipping.

St. Paul Railroad 1930 Budget Large

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The 1930 capital expenditure budget of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad will approximate $23,000 in the opinion of H. A. Scandrett, president. The budget this year called for expenditure for capital purposes of $27,000,000.

BROKERS' LOANS SET NEW LOW FOR YEAR

Contraction of $137,000,000 For Week Brings Current Total to $3,450,000,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City decreased $137,000,000 during the week ended November 27, to $3,450,000,000, comparing with $3,587,000,000 in the preceding week and with the high record of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929.

The present total of $3,450,000,000 is a new low for 1929. The greatest recession noted in the report of the Federal Reserve was that of loans for out-of-town banks, which stood at $638,000,000 as against $1,768,236,000 on November 28, 1928. Loans made by New York member banks contracted to $831,000,000 from $1,234,660,000, while loans made for the account of others showed the slightest reduction by dropping to $1,982,000,000 from $2,287,004,000 a year ago.

Member bank borrowings from New York Federal Reserve Bank on November 27 amounted to $33,000,000 against $33,000,000 in preceding week and $224,000,000 in 1928 week.

Insull's Timely Anecdote On Stock Prices

By B. C. FORBES

MARTIN J. INSULL, Chicago utility leader, tells me this one:

A business man from the North, visiting Texas, remarked to a native:

"Isn't it terrible what has been happening to stock prices?"

Yes," agreed the Texan, "there's no money in cattle at these prices."

Wall Street imagines that "stock prices" can mean only one thing. To a large part of the country "stock prices" mean something entirely different—as they did to this Texan. After all, Wall Street isn't the whole of the United States.

A READER also located many miles from Wall Street but apparently interested in what has been happening in the stock market, writes:

"Why don't you ask people to stop and reflect that all this stock market disturbance has not reached one-half of 1 per cent of listed shares? In other words, 99½ 0-0 of the shares still rest in the hands of those who owned them in early October. One wonders what's all the shooting about. Granted, this 99½ 0-0 have huge paper losses caused by the sale of the one-half of 1 per cent of shares, but it is also true that after every previous panic almost all prices have come back higher than ever.

"Take that 16,000,000-share-day. If every share had been General Motors, less than two-fifths of that one company alone would have been turned over. If I remember correctly, October saw 114,000,000 shares sold. Three big companies will reach this total; yet there are 2,000 companies on the big board and curb, which mean that three companies would have changed ownership if the activity had been in these three companies' shares alone, but 1,997 companies would not have been touched.

"But the same stock would be sold several times on the way down, so that the shares per month are misleading. And many of the sales were undoubtedly switches. It's bad enough. But if 99½ per cent of the shares still belong to those who previously owned them, can't we receive comfort and encouragement from that fact?"

Liberal estimate would be 2 to 5 per cent of America's population have directly suffered losses in the stock market's fall.

THE long-famous Whitney family of New York has come to the front during the excitement in Wall Street. It was Richard Whitney, vice president of the New York Stock Exchange, who arrested the stock market demoralization at one critical stage by jumping in and shouting "205 for 25,000 Steel." In the absence of President Simmons—on honeymoon—it was Whitney who presided over the feverish sessions of the exchange governors. They regarded his services so highly that they have taken the extraordinary action of formally passing a resolution praising and thanking him. It is generally accepted that he will be made president next year.

Another Whitney has played an important role in the activities of the Big Six. George Whitney is a Morgan partner. He has been Tom Lamont's right hand man during the hubbub and his work is lauded by those familiar with the inner workings of the Big Six.

Some of the most momentous of the recent Morgan-sponsored "billion dollar" consolidations are understood to have been mainly the handiwork of young Whitney. He is credited with having even more brilliant brains than any of his ancestors.

THIS keynote sentence was dropped out of Lammot du Pont's explanation, recently given in this column, of the relationship between E. I. Du pont De Nemours and General Motors:

"The Du Pont Company owns approximately .97 of a share of General Motors common stock for each share of its own stock outstanding."

A. M. NORD, Tampa, writes: "A survey of Tampa and St. Petersburg streets reveals an increase of at least 25 per cent in foreign automobiles—meaning non-Florida—over this date of any other year, and not over 5 per cent are below the $2,000 class. Some Northerners must have been making money."

A PREDICTION: By next Thanksgiving owners of good shares will have more to be thankful for.

Telephone Concern To Reduce Rates

A schedule of reduced rates on various types of out of town calls will be made by the Bell Telephone Company January 1, F. J. Chesterman, vice president, announced today. This is the fourth time within slightly more than three years that reductions have been made in this service. An important feature of the reductions is that of ten cents on day rate station to station calls between Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Altoona, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit, Erie and Washington.

Mr. Kinnard, president of the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania, is the man who made the announcement that his company in 1930 will begin a $44,000,000 construction program and expects to spend $215,000,000 in expansion in the . . . t five years.

MINE LEADERS TO CONFER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Leaders in the mineral industries from all parts of the country will assemble in Washington from December 4 to 7 take part in the thirty-second annual convention of the American Mining Congress, whose program will embrace a discussion of trends in industry, mineral taxation, the coal industry, mine mechanization, and the relation of government toward business.

In addition to credited mining delegates, the convention will be attended by official representatives of a number of the states on appointment of their governor by officials of government departments in Washington dealing with mining matters, by members of Congress, and by representatives of various organizations. State delegates have been appointed by the Governors of Pennsylvania, Idaho, West Virginia, Nevada, Maryland, Arkansas, Maine, Kentucky, Mississippi, New York, and South Carolina.

Dr. Thomas F. Baker, of Pittsburgh, president of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, will speak on developments in the coal industry through laboratory tests, the future of the coal industry will be discussed by C. J. Ramsberg, of Pittsburgh, vice president of the Koppers Company. Conditions in the anthracite industry will be outlined by Daniel T. Pierce, of New York, vice president of the Anthracite Operators Conference, and Federal Radio Commissioner Ira F. Robinson will discuss the place of the commission in the present form of government. Representative John M. Robsion, of Kentucky, chairman of the House Committee on Mines and Mining, will be the toastmaster at the annual banquet.

GEN'L ASPHALT SIMPLIFIES CAPITAL

Common Stock in First Place: Bonds Redeemed, And Preferred Converted

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Thorough revamping of the capital structure of General Asphalt Company was completed during the week on the payment of stockholder subscriptions to 100,000 additional common shares at $50. The offering has been underwritten at $50 by Drexel & Co.

Completion of this financial program leaves General Asphalt with only one capital liability, 409,000 common shares. The 6 per cent bond issue of $4,205,800 was all retired on October 1 at 105. The issue of 66,082 shares of preferred, convertible one share for one and one-half shares of common, has all been converted into common stock excepting 1,100 shares. Unless this balance is converted by December 23 it will be retired at 110.

TO PAY OFF NOTES

In carrying out its recapitalization, General Asphalt borrowed about $4,000,000 short term money; with this and part of its treasury cash it retired the 6 per cent bonds. Receipts of the $5,000,000 from the new issue of 100,000 shares will be used to the extent necessary to pay off the short term loan.

With this done, General Asphalt will have net current assets of approximately $6,000,000 of which about $2,500,000 will be in cash. It will have no bank loans, bonds or preferred stock.

PAYING DIVIDENDS

Another important development resulting from the recapitalization was the starting of dividends on the common stock at the rate of $1 a share quarterly, or a $4 annual basis. This is the first common dividend since the company started business 25 years ago.

Asphalt probably will complete 1929 with net profits in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, or somewhere between $4.50 and $5 a share on the 409,000 shares of common.

Considerable paving business is expected to develop in both New York and Philadelphia, particularly the latter, where a large amount of paving has been held in abeyance due to extraordinary subway building. Asphalt has received quite a lot of business from new subways, furnishing waterproofing materials.

CREDIT INFLUENCES

But more business can be looked for in street paving if money remains cheap, as it would encourage municipal bond issues to lay new streets. Continued cheap money also would help foreign countries, where Asphalt long has had substantial business, finance road repair and new road development work.

The building line is likely to furnish considerable work for roofing and flooring. Building construction has been one of the main industrial activities on which the Hoover conferences in Washington have centered their attention to stimulate labor employment.

OIL ROYALTIES

There has been a good demand for roofing this year with market conditions more stable than for some time.

Asphalt's income from the oil business, represented largely by its royalty oil from Venezuela properties operated by Royal Dutch-Shell, will be increased after January 1. It is now getting some 6,300 barrels a day from the Mene Grande field royalty and when the pipe line to the Tarra field is finished starting 1930 it should get an additional 2,000 barrels of royalty oil daily.

Exchanges Closed For Special Holiday

Stock exchanges throughout the country are closed again today for a special holiday. Banks and commodity markets will observe the usual Saturday schedules. Securities markets have been closed since Wednesday, marking the longest trading suspension since 1901 with the exception of a several weeks' closing at the beginning of the World War.

The exchanges will resume operations on the regular five-hour daily schedules beginning Monday and will be open for the two-hour session on Saturday. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week the customary five-hour trading schedule was observed, but for the two weeks preceding the exchanges operated on a three-hour schedule during the week days and were closed all day on Saturdays.

Brokerage houses have about caught up with the work which accumulated as a result of the recent collapse in the stock market and it is believed that no further cultailment of trading hours will be necessary.

Trade Activity Gains For Week

Business activity during the week ended November 23, as indicated by check payments, showed a substantial advance, both from the previous week and the corresponding week of last year, according to the weekly statement of the Department of Commerce. Steel plant activity during the latest reported week, on the other hand, declined further and was considerably less than for a year ago. Petroleum production again declined, but was larger than for the corresponding week of 1928. The output of bituminous coal was smaller than for either prior period.

Wholesale prices continued to decline and were substantially lower than for the corresponding week of 1928. Prices of iron and steel and of wheat showed a similar tendency. Cotton prices, on the other hand, were slightly above last week's level, although lower than a year ago. Bank loans and discounts continued to decline, but were greater than a year ago. Interest rates on both time and call money were substantially lower than for either prior period. Bond prices steadied after recent declines, remaining unchanged from the previous week, although they were nearly 5 per cent below last year's level. Business failures were more numerous than during the previous week and almost as great as a year ago.

INTEREST RATE CUT TO REVIVE LOAN TRADE

New York Again to Become Capital Market for World In Quest of Big Money

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The rapid decline in interest rates, which followed the tendency of the stock market to disgorge itself of credit, will tend to reopen New York as a capital market where all the rest of the world will once more turn for funds.

The recent Japanese financing is doubtless a forerunner of other foreign loans, which will be arranged when and if investment bankers thing the financial market has been sufficiently stabilized. For the first time in nearly two years, economic conditions are more favorable to bond financing than to stock financing. Until the bull market collapsed, the public demand for shares seemed insatiable, but bankers and corporations, offering new shares on rights to their stockholders, overexploited the situation, and brought out more stock issues than the market could absorb. This indigestion was one of the major technical causes of the great setback.

Until these new issues have made progress in finding a home, there should be a retardation of new financing of all kinds, but when the voluntary moratorium is over, styles seem destined to switch to bond financing. This new fashion will be especially helpful to foreign governments, as well as to local states and municipalities, and the federal government, for they are able to tap the capital market only through issuing fixed maturity obligations. They can not in the nature of things conform to the vogue for common stocks, finding it impossible to sell to private capitalists ownership shares in sovereign states. Other institutions, including the farm loan system, and the domestic construction industry, which is dependent on mortgage money, will ultimately be helped by the revival of demand for bonds.

For the longer pull, it seems likely that the prudent investors will insist on a balanced investment diet, rather than on all bonds or all stocks. Though the tendency to regard common stocks as suitable media for long term investment was overdone, I do not believe that the intelligent investor will ignore common stocks in the future to the same extent that he did prior to 1922. The old-fashioned security buyer regarded bonds as suitable for investment, and stocks as intended only for speculation. Experience through the varied phases of the economic cycle emphasizes the desirability of a well diversified portfolio of investments, with cash reserves, short and long term bonds, preferred stocks, and common stocks. The scientific investor varies the proportions of the different grades of securities through the changing phases of the cycle of prosperity and recession.

The prospect of a further decline of interest rates after the seasonal demand for currency and credit has relaxed should be helpful to the bond market. Foreign issues should be especially stimulated, because the reopening of the New York capital market is a distinctly favorable omen, which will play a part in economic rehabilitation overseas. Furthermore, France, the second largest repository of gold, which has maintained a capital blockade through continuing obsolete tax laws, is considering thorough-going tax revision, which will be calculated to make Paris a significant exporter of capital. Furthermore, the adoption of the Young plan, with the central bank, is a distinctly favorable economic development, further ridding the old world of the depressing influences surviving from the war.

Another factor to consider in judging the price outlook for sound foreign bonds is the prospect of the sale of new reparation bonds under the terms of the Young plan. If the investment bankers here are planning a major operation of that character, it would be prudent on their part to dress up the market in outstanding foreign bonds, whose market position will set the price for the new reparation financing.

The new International Bank, as trustee under the proposed reparation bond issues, has been asked to inform the creditor governments when it seems feasible to sell reparation bonds.

The possibility of seeking to sell reparation bonds in America is suggested in the subjoined clause in the trust agreement, recently drawn up by the international experts at Baden Baden:

"If one or more of the governments concerned propose an international issue on other markets than their own respective market, the trustee, if it considers after examination that market conditions justify such an operation, shall take measures to proceed with the issue of these bonds and to determine, after making sure that the central banks concerned have no objection, the markets on which such offers may be made."

Thus, the change in the financial situation in the United States plays into the hands of European would be borrowers. No large scale reparation financing in this country would have been feasible while the bull market raged, and time loans to brokers brought 9 per cent interest. In those days, the public shunned bonds. In the new setting, New York is preparing once more to resume its role as world banker.

California Crude Oil Situation Muddled

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—Mounting California crude oil production figures have again focussed the attention of the western oil industry on the California gas conservation law as the most effective means of production curtailment and gas conservation. Although currently production is well under the peak of several weeks ago, intimations that the present voluntary curtailment agreement is not holding appear to be confirmed in the 25,000-barrel daily increase reported for the week ending November 23 as compared to the preceding week. The fact that there are a few holdouts who, through choice or through contract agreements, are not conforming to the plan, has led to the feeling that the present voluntary agreement will probably go the same way as the voluntary agreement that terminated last spring after it was mutually declared to be unworkable by all concerned.

The next step in the adjudication of the gas conservation law will be on December 11, when the Supreme Court of California hears arguments and rules on the jurisdiction of the courts involved in the case.

OCTOBER RAIL PROFITS OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The first 61 railroads to report October earnings had a net operating income totaling $142,105,000, which is a decrease of 7.8 per cent from the $154,314,000 net operating income for October, 1928. Their September net was $119,882,000.

October gross revenues for these same roads totaled $543,216,000, compared with $544,877,000 in October of 1928, and $511,857,000 in September, 1928.

On the basis of reports already received the net operating income for all Class 1 railroads for October will approximate $153,000,000, compared with the actual net of $166,311,162 for October of 1928.

This estimate would make the net for the first 10 months of this year total $1,113,078,699, compared with $986,884,115 for a corresponding period in 1928. The figures for 1929 represent an annual return of 5.38 per cent on the valuation of $25,145,000,000 taken as of January 1, 1929. The 1928 return was 4.92 per cent on a valuation of $24,793,000,000 taken as of January 1, 1928.

AERO INDUSTRY DEVELOPING STEADILY

Department Head Expects All Larger Cities to Be Linked Up by Next Summer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Increased business in the United States as a result of increased development and utilization of air transport is predicted by Major Clarence M. Young, director of the aeronautics branch of Department of Commerce in his annual report.

He pointed out that trade areas now directly served contain about 90,000,000 persons and he expected that by next summer practically all of the larger cities and many intermediate sized ones will be connected directly by air routes.

On June 30 there were 32 air lines in the country carrying express, 47 carrying mail and 61 carrying passengers.

29,227 MILES OF LINES

These lines were operated over 29,227 miles of airway, 10,183 miles of which were lighted for night flying. Scheduled operations, comprising about 15 per cent of all civil flying, have increased to 69,029 miles a day from 27,817 within the fiscal year ended on that date. Miscellaneous operations are estimated at 80,000,000 miles for the year 1928, against 30,000,000 in 1927 and 18,000,000 in 1926.

Combined production of all classes of heavier-than-air craft increased to 4,346 units worth $38,990,509 in 1928 from 1,995 units valued at $14,504,999 in 1927, increase of 117.8 per cent in number and 168.8 per cent in value.

EXPORTS SHOW GAIN

Exports of aeronautical products during the first six months of the current year exceeded those for the full year of 1928 by 41 per cent despite fact that the total that year almost equalled the combined value of exports for the three previous calendar years combined. Exports for the entire year of 1929 are likely to be more than double those of 1928.

"It is generally conceded throughout the industry," the director said, "that the Department of Commerce is contributing materially to the advancement of civil aeronautics, to the creation of a powerful reserve of aerial defense, and to the development of a nation-wide network of air transport lines for use in times of peace.

EMPLOYMENT GROWING

"This advancement, moreover, will provide employment for a constantly increasing percentage of the population, will speed the movement of men, money, mail and merchandise and will decrease the cost of distribution and thereby increase the purchasing power of the consumers' dollar. By facilitating hand-to-mouth buying, by reducing the necessity for keeping huge sums of money tied up in slow moving merchandise by aiding in numerous ways to speed up commerce and industry, the further development of air transportation will lower the cost of transacting business materially throughout the nation."

Ninety-four establishments were reported primarily engaged in making aircraft during 1928. Of these 16 were in New York, 14 in California, nine in Michigan and eight each in Kansas and Indiana. Eighteen other states had one or more producers.

PRODUCTION HIGHER

Airplane production amounted to 4,217 planes valued at $35,847,000 and seaplane production to 129 units worth $3,143,000 as against 1,888 airplanes valued at $12,224,000 and 107 seaplanes valued at $2,280,000 in 1927.

During the year a total of 3,946 engines were constructed with an aggregate value of $19,915,000. Propellers produced totaled 14,358, of which about 9,000 were wood and 4,800 metal.

Licenses issued totaled 42,338, against 14,083 in previous year. These included renewals, transfers and export certificates. Pilots' licenses issued increased over the previous year by 95 per cent; licenses renewed by 480 per cent, student permits by 490 per cent, aircraft licenses 153 per cent and export certificates 90 per cent.

MAIL POUNDAGE GAINS

Lighted airways have increased from 2,041 miles in 1926 to 4,468 miles in 1927 and 6,988 in 1928. Total airway mileage has increased from 8,404 in 1926 and 9,122 in 1927 to 16,667. Mail carried has gained from 810,355 pounds in 1926 and 1,654,000 pounds in 1927 to 4,063,000 pounds in 1928, and passengers carried have increased from 5,782 in 1926 and 8,679 in 1927 to 49,000 in 1928; miles flown have increased from 4,318,087 in 1926 to 5,870,489 in 1927 to 10,673,450 in 1928.

Totals for the calendar year 1929 are estimated as follows: Lighted airways, 12,500 miles; total airways, 35,000 miles; mail carried, 8,000,000 pounds; passengers carried, 85,000; miles flown, 18,000,000.

Royal Dutch Head Thinks Oil Conservation Rests With U. S. Producers.

AMERICAN producers must show the way if the problem of world oil conservation is to be worked out constructively, according to Sir Henri Deterding, who is headed for the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, which is scheduled for Tuesday of next week. The head of the Royal Dutch interests holds "there is no hope for world oil conservation until American producers take the lead and set their house in order. Common sense," he maintained, "should compel American producers to take overproduction definitely in hand," declaring that the root of the trouble is in the enormous production in this country.

In London financial circles, interest now is focussed primarily on the gold situation, the belief there being that we are destined to lose considerable of the precious metal on balance over the next little while. British financial and banking interests are of the opinion that we are preparing for substantial shipments to Switzerland in addition to making ready for heavy remittances to Paris against large French credit on balance here. London, too, expects to lose a goodly quantity of gold to Paris within the next few weeks as the French government completes its preparations for meeting certain December maturities. This perhaps explains the decision of the Bank of England to hold its discount rate at 5½ per cent in spite of the ease in open market rates there.

THE situation in the stock market may not be entirely a normal one during the final month of the year, for the reason that prevailing conditions are strongly in contrast with those ruling at this time the last few years. Under prevailing circumstances, with the market having been severely liquidated, there will be much greater occasion for selling to establish "losses for tax purposes" than was the case at any time in the last four or five years. Such selling may be expected to play a considerable part in directing price movements during the new month, but as one trader remarked while discussing the subject, "the market has already established all the losses I care to take into account so far as 1928 taxes are concerned."

Houses of issue and distributing organizations are looking forward to revival of activity on a large scale after the turn of the year. It is the belief in such circles that the huge plans for expansion put forth by industrial and railway leaders as a means of warding off industrial depression will call for a substantial amount of new financing. Public utilities and the railways alone plan construction and improvements entailing an outlay of between two and one-half and three billions. Bond dealers expect that a major portion of such requirements will be provided for by the sale of senior securities. The current year will go down in financial history as one of the "leanest" experienced by dealers in new bond issues, due to the popular demand created for junior securities by the rampant bull stock market which held sway until the early part of October.

A SEMI-ANNUAL dividend of 87½ cents a share was ordered by Baldwin Locomotive directors, thus inaugurating dividends on the split-up shares on the basis of $1.75 a share annually. The old stock of $100 par value, which was split up on a 4-for-1 basis several months ago, the new shares being without par value, had been on a $7 annual dividend basis since 1920. Thus the rate now inaugurated on the new shares is equivalent to the disbursement that had been maintained heretofore on the old stock.

With local and London bankers discussing the prospects for gold exports from New York, the foreign exchange market was watched closely yesterday, as activities were resumed there after Thursday's bank holiday. Sterling and other leading European currencies were in fairly brisk demand, showing some measure of strength, particularly where rates rule close to the gold point. French and Belgian francs were a shade higher, and Swiss francs, which were watched with particular interest, because of London's intimations that we might ship gold in that direction early, also were notably strong, along with Dutch guilders.

PITT-DUKES STICK TO ELECTIVE PLAN

WITH the football season of 1929 practically a thing of the past, the captaincy question again confronts the colleges, and many coaches and athletic councils throughout the country are wrestling with the problem as to whether it would be more advisable to fall in with the growing custom of having the field leaders appointed by the coaches or to string along with the old system of letting the players name their choice for the position.

John Dreshar.

Indications are that the idea of appointing captains for the season, or from game to game, instead of electing them by vote of the letter men, will be in wider favor than ever. At least five of the teams in the Big Ten Conference will have "appointed" captains, Illinois having just dropped into line with Ohio State, Indiana, Minneapolis and Purdue, and a number of additional big schools in other parts of the country also adopt the new plan. The objection to the elective system is that sometimes the players are swayed in their selections by fraternity politics and that the man best fitted for the post is not chosen. There have been cases in which the choice failed to make the team. Though the position is largely an honorary one, the coaches prefer to have natural leaders holding the title.

IN PITTSBURGH, however, Carnegie Tech will again be the only big school to appoint a football captain. The Skibos adopted that method a year ago, when John Dreshar was appointed to succeed Howard Harpster, the last leader elected by the Plaid. Coach Steffen will continue the policy this year, but whether Dreshar, who has another season to go, will be named again or the title will be bestowed upon a teammate has not been announced.

Both Pitt and Duquesne University will again have their captains named by vote of the players. There will be 12 seniors on the Pitt squad for 1930, but the majority of them were substitutes this year and it is thought the choice will lie among Eddie Baker, Charley Tully, Josh Williams and Whitey Walinchus. As only two regulars will be lost by the Dukes, Elmer Layden's boys will have a number of seniors from among whom to pick next year's captain to succeed Buff Donnelli, who held the post two seasons.

THE unusual degree of confidence that Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox is placing in his new manager, Donie Bush, is shown by the fact that he will send the former Pirate leader to the minor league convention in Chattanooga next week as the sole representative of the Chicago club.

Art Shires.

Bush will be in complete charge of the White Sox affairs at the meeting, and will be empowered to make any deal possible that he thinks will add strength to the team.

INCIDENTALLY, Bush has just had a long heart-to-heart talk with Art Shires, the Sox first baseman who was in hot water during nearly all of last season. Donie is more emphatic than ever in declaring that he will not trade Shires unless he is offered material of greater value for him, and is confident that he will not have any trouble with the player if the latter is retained. The Sox pilot is not going to interfere with Shires' plans to appear as a professional fighter during the winter, and has given him permission to go ahead with his first scheduled bout, arranged for December 9 under the promotion of Jim Mullen, of Chicago. Shires' opponent has not been announced.

PERHAPS you think it's an easy matter for a fight promoter who has one good boxer under contract for a show to step out and get an acceptable opponent for him. John L. Hernon, manager of Motor Square Garden, can quickly undeceive you by relating his experiences in trying to get some one to meet Tommy Freeman in the main bout at the East End arena next Monday night.

Jack Manley, of Wilkes-Barre, was finally signed to face Freeman, but before he clinched the match Manager Hernon expended more than $200 in telephone calls in vain attempts to get an opponent for Freeman. He sought the services of no fewer than 18 fighters, but all declined, for various reasons.

IT SEEMS that few battlers around the country are overly desirous of hooking up with Freeman. The latter is considered one of the outstanding contenders for the welterweight title. In his last five fights he has knocked out four of his opponents.

Manley is only 21 years old, but has a record of 80 fights behind him and has never been knocked out. Joe Netro, of Syracuse, veteran handler of fighters, says he is speaking in all sincerity when he expresses the opinion that Manley will give Freeman plenty of trouble.

John L. Hernon.

TO LEARN that making satisfactory ring matches these days is no easy job, look over the following list of fighters who were asked to meet Freeman here Monday night: Joe Dundee, offered $1,500 with the privilege of 25 per cent of the house, never answered; Clyde Hull, not available; Jackie Brady, bad hand; Billy Angelo, about to undergo operation; Young Ketchel, bad eye; Bucky Lawless, bad eye; Tony Vaccarelli, injured; My Sullivan, resting up a while; Billy Light, fighting Jackie Fields that night; Pete Meyer, returning to the coast; Sergt. Sammy Baker, booked until after Christmas; Vincent Hambright, insisted that Freeman make weight; Vince Dundee, fighting in Chicago for Jack Dempsey; Nick Testo, not available; Marty Collins, taking month's rest; Dick Ramies, fighting December 9 and at Cleveland Christmas show, and not permitted to take this bout before Cleveland show; Joe Reno, accepted and then suffered split lip, Wednesday night; Johnny Roberts, booked to fight in Detroit last night.

ITALIAN boys who have been shining so brilliantly in college football this season, that Luigi Passarelli, professor of Italian at the University of Arkansas has found it possible to pick from seven schools an all-Italian team that looks strong enough on paper to cope with all comers.

The selections follow: Ends, St. Romaniello, Colgate, and Zerini, Holy Cross; tackles, DiMeolo, Pitt, and Morelli, Boston College; guards, Cordovano, Georgetown, and Cunella, Fordham; center, Siano, Fordham; quarterback, Carideo, Notre Dame; halfbacks, Savoldi, Notre Dame, and Donnelli, Duquesne, or Scalzi, Georgetown; fullback, Macaluso, Colgate.

BOSTON'S ICE CHAMPS PLAY AT GARDEN

By CARL W. SHATTO.

The hockey club regarded by many critics as the most powerful ever assembled in the history of the ice sport will meet one which has revamped its lineup in an effort to "get going" when the world champion Boston Bruins oppose the Pirate puckmen at Duquesne Garden tonight.

Late last March the Bruins lost a game, then finished their regular schedule with a succession of victories and proceeded to sweep through the Stanley Cup playoffs for the world title without losing a single game. They started the new campaign by annexing four straight decisions, and it was not until last Tuesday, when their badly battered defense ace, Eddie Shore, sought the shelter of the sidelines, that they again tasted defeat. Although trailing the New York Rangers by one point in the American Group standings, the Bruins are the real leaders, for they have played two less games than have the New Yorkers.

Many managers would be satisfied to send a world championship club into a new campaign without any additions or replacements, but Art Ross, pilot of the Hub machine, is not one of these. Thompson in the nets, Shore and Hitchman at defense, Carson at center and Galbraith and Oliver at the wings are the boys who won the title for Boston last season, and Ross still has these huskies—and more! Art Gagne, who used to do his scoring for Les Canadiens, is the most notable addition to the Bruin machine, with Martin Barry and Bob Taylor supplying the new blood d helping to fill out Ross' third front line.

MILKS AT CENTER

In an effort to guarantee Boston the customary stiff fight that the Pirates ever have given the Bruins, Manager Frank Frederickson has arranged to make several shifts in the Buc lineup. The most important of the changes involves Frederickson himself, for he has decided to transfer himself to left wing and put Hib Milks back at center in the starting front line. Milks was the Bucs' regular center until Frederickson came here last season, and the Corsair pilot also has had experience as a wing. The revamped trio has performed well in practice.

Herb Drury's broken hand, which will keep him out of the lineup for about four weeks, has necessitated a change in the second front line. Jerry Lowrey filled Herb's shoes at center in the Canadiens game last Tuesday, but Frederickson has decided to return Lowrey to his old position, left wing, and test Archie Briden at center tonight. Briden played center for the Philadelphia Arrows last year.

REN MANNERS SIGNED

The contemplated change in makeup of the third front line will be of a radical nature in that a new star will be introduced. Ren

NITTANY LION GRIDDERS HERE IN HOSPITAL

Tom Evans, right halfback, and John Livezey, reserve halfback, of the Penn State College eleven, are patients in the Allegheny General Hospital, where they were taken last Wednesday night o the eve of the Pitt-State Thanksgiving Day game.

Coach Hugo Bezdek withheld announcement of his players' confinement here feeling that it would lessen interest in the game and have a bad psychological effect on his team.

Evans is suffering from an injured leg, it was reported, an X-ray of his hip having been taken yesterday. He also is afflicted with a bad cold.

Livezey has suffered from an infected knee, which was lanced last Wednesday night.

Early this morning both players were reported to be resting easily. They listened in on the Pitt-State game in their rooms via radio.

Dr. O. C. Gaub, attending physician, is said to believe they will be kept here for several days at least.

NAVY BATTLES DARTMOUTH IN PHILLY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Philadelphia is the scene today of another outstanding football battle for Dartmouth and Navy match power and skill on Franklin Field. Dartmouth fills the place on the Navy schedule formerly occupied by the Army.

With the services of Special Delivery Al Marsters lost to them because of injuries, Dartmouth does not loom as a strong favorite to take the measure of the Midshipmen. Marsters is here with the Big Green squad from the New Hampshire hills and, his back encased in a special brace, will watch the game from the sidelines.

The Dartmouth eleven which has been here for two days, worked out for a short time yesterday. Conceding that Dartmouth has a fine line and some hard running backs, the critics contend that Marsters will be missed and Navy will probably be at the top of its game for this contest.

The Navy squad, accompanied by the famous Navy band and about 2,000 Midshipmen, reached Philadelphia shortly before noon. The team was reported in excellent condition and primed to end its season with a victory.

70,000 TO SEE BATTLE IN NEW YORK

and provide added entertainment between the halves.

Notre Dame enters today's contest on the long end of 5 to 2 wagering, and justly so. The Irish have rambled through the opposition afforded by Wisconsin, Indiana, Carnegie, and Georgia Tech, Drake, Southern California and Navy. They haven't been beaten and they haven't been tied. Carnegie held 'em to 7-0, which was the best any of them could do, save U. S. C., which bowed only by a 13-12 count.

I have a suspicion that Army is going to shoot the works tomorrow, and shoot them in a manner closely resembling the plan of attack employed by Carnegie Tech against New York University Thursday. Notre Dame is looking for a defensive team in the Army today, while Army, from several bits of information I've picked up, is going to give the Irish both barrels with a wow of an aerial attack and by trying to work the great Cagle through the line and away on his sensational dashes.

Army has been just another ball club this fall, the record of the Cadets being very ordinary. Harvard was tied 20-20, and the games with Yale and Illinois lost.

LINEUPS SET

There has been a lot of "hee" and a lot of "haw" in the play of the Cadets this fall. They just can't seem to click.

Coach Jones gave out the following starting lineup yesterday afternoon following the final workout at the New York Athletic Club, Travers Island: Carl Mark and Messinger, ends; Perry and Price, tackles; Humber and Hissinger, guards; Miller or Lazar, center, and Carver, O'Keefe, Cagle and Murrell in the backfield.

You know how silly it is to figure out a starting Notre Dame lineup. It is hardly likely that the Rambler shock troops will be able to get very far against the primed soldiers, so the Notre Dame regulars, with Connor and Colrick at the wings; Twomey and Donaghue at tackles; Captain Law and Cannon at the guards; Nash at center and Carideo, Brill, Elder and Mullins are certain to do a lot of campaigning on the cold turf of Yankee Stadium this afternoon.

The stars will be making their final all-America bids in this game, which adds just a bit more fuel to the flames of enthusiasm. Jack Cannon, the crack guard of the Irish, and Carideo, smart and efficient quarterback, are right up among 'em when it comes to all-America possibilities. And it will be the final eastern splurge of the redhaired Cagle.

KICKOFF AT 1:30

The kickoff is slated for 1:30, Eastern standard time. The corps of Cadets will detrain at Highbridge, just outside the stadium, at 12:20 and will make their entry into the grounds promptly at one. Special trains bearing the soldier boys will arrive in the morning from West Point. The three specials from Chicago, bearing the followers of the Irish, steamed in this morning, adding strength to the already hefty contingent of N. D., followers who have been seeping into the city all week.

Knute Rockne, the great coach of the Irish, is not here. The serious infection in his legs has become so bad that he cannot be moved, and he will sit in at the game via the radio. The absence of Rockne lends the only sad touch to the spectacle.

Notre Dame also will play minus the services of its crack center, Tim Moynihan, who suffered a broken ankle in the U. S. C. game and is confined to a hospital in South Bend.

BLINDED, HANS 'RESIGNS' IN EIGHTH

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor

The best club bout of the season here so far and the biggest upset of the season was dished out simultaneously before a packed house in the Moose Temple arena last night, when Tony Malco, of Soho, making his first appearance as a main-eventer, not only checked the winning streak of Hans Roberts, the sensational German welterweight, but scored a technical knockout in bout in the eighth round. They were booked for 10 rounds.

In his two most recent starts in the Moose ring prior to last night, Roberts, a big favorite with the fans, had administered drubbings to Young Rudy, of Charleroi, and Dominick Profio, of Cecil. He also had beaten Young Joe Walcott, of Washington, Pa., and Marty Simmons, of Wilkinsburg, there, and was virtually signed for an important bout at Motor Square Garden when he ran into his first snag in Malco, who now has completed a run of 18 consecutive bouts without a defeat and appears headed for a front rank position among the local boxers.

ROBERTS IS BLINDED

Roberts was blinded from cuts over both eyes, suffered in the seventh round, and signaled his seconds that he could not see shortly after the eighth round began, and his manager, Johnny Deutsch, climbed through the ropes with a towel as a token of defeat, after the manner of "resigning" in the European rings. Hans also was bleeding badly from the mouth and his body was crimson from the terrific beating he had received there from the pounding fists of the phlegmatic Italian, who plodded his way at an even pace to victory, just as he has in his other battles.

While it lasted, the bout was one of the most grueling put on in a local ring in years. Fully 80 per cent of the fighting was done at close quarters, where both men concentrated on hammering the body. Early it was apparent that it was to be a test of physical fitness, with the better "faker" surviving. Hans, who had outlasted all of his other opponents, wilted first and once Malco found him slipping he wasted no time in pressing his advantage and speeding up the finish. A right to the mouth which caught Roberts coming in in the seventh round split the German's lips and sent him bounding across the ring into the ropes and he came off spitting big gobs of gore. A few moments later both eyes were cut and he went to his corner in sorry shape. The eighth round was a mere formality.

TOM LOSES FORFEIT

Roberts carried the opening round on his forcing tactics, but Malco outfought him in the next three rounds, crammed full of such hard slugging that the fans were up cheering throughout. Hans did better in the next two rounds, holding his own in the fifth and winning the sixth, and then paid the toll of the merciless pace in the seventh and eighth.

Bad blood was in evidence on both sides as a result of Malco's failures to make the stipulated weight of 145 pounds at 3 p. m. He scaled in at 147 against Robert's 142¾ and Roberts' manager insisted that he take off the two extra pounds. He worked off a quarter of a pound and then donned his clothes and left the gym, Deutsch claiming his forfeit of $50.

Ken Hargraves, Negro, of New Kensington, outpunched Young Corsey, of Canton, O., in the semi-final, but the judges disagreed and the referee's vote was for a draw. Judge Frank Brown voted for Hargraves and Judge Frank Ferris for Corsey. Hargraves weighed 132 pounds and Corsey 131¾. It was an interesting battle throughout.

KEISER A NOVICE

Gus Keiser, of Cumberland, Md., brother of Fay Keiser, a one-time tough middleweight and light-heavyweight, proved to be little more than a clown and a novice and was stopped in the first round by Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, in the second bout. He was down for counts of five, nine, nine and then down again before the referee called a halt and also fell down once as he missed a wild right swing. He couldn't take Smackey's left in the body and went down every time it connected. He weighed 135 pounds and Smackey 137¼.

Monte Sirko, of Soho, 131¼, bested Zivic Anthony, Negro, of the Hill, 131, in the six-round opener, a terrible thing to watch. Sirko's posturing and general ineffectiveness against his undersized foe were ludicrous at times. Anthony fought earnestly, but couldn't get anywhere against his opponent's height and reach and waiting tactics.

Buck McTiernan and Mickey Solmen were announced as the headliners for next week.

Between Rounds

From Buffalo comes high praises for Jack Manley, Wilkes-Barre and Scranton welterweight, who boxes Tommy Freeman of Erie, in the windup at Motor Square Garden Monday night. He has boxed in Buffalo several times and gone over big. Among his opponents have been Henry Andrews, Johnny Hayes, Canada Jack, Gene Cardi, Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Harry Fuller, Bucky Lawless and Bruce Flowers. He will be making his first start under his new manager, Joe Nerio, of Syracuse, in the Freeman bout. Nerio recently purchased his release from Billy Ames.

Jim McGirr is casting about for a substitute opponent for Tug Phillips against Joe Trippe in his main bout next Thursday night. Tug was matched for a return battle with Trippe but, when he was stopped by Vincent Hambright, of Cincinnati last Wednesday night, McGirr dropped him as a card.

Maxie Rosenbloom, who claims that decision awarded to Jimmy Slattery over him at Buffalo last Monday night was a home town verdict, boxes Leo Williams again at the Olympic A. C., in New York tonight. Harry Shankey and Frankie Neve meet in the main bout of an armory show in New York.

The bosses of George Godfrey and Jimmy Bivins have been invoked in Pennsylvania for their alleged fake bout in Boston recently. Joey Walsh, local bantam, is scheduled with the pick through Madison Square Garden. Eddie Brandon, of the Hall, is set down for talking back to a referee at McKeesport and Davy Adelman is on the rocks indefinitely for his bout showing against Jackie Rodgers at the Garden last Monday night.

Harry Fuller and Johnny Burke, middleweights, have been matched to box the main bout at the clubs Bowie, New Castle, one week from Monday night. T. S. Carpenter and Romeo Parelli do the honors there next Monday.

WINDSOR ON MANDELL CARD

Johnny Windsor, local middleweight who fought a draw with Ernesto Sagues, in a windup at Palm Beach, Fla., last Tuesday, has been signed to box an opponent to be selected in the semi-final on the Sammy Mandell-Marcel Quintero bout at Miami, December 10.

Beaty Andrews of Erie, will be one of the attractions on the card to be staged in Toronto, Ont., with Jimmy Hall, in the Canadian lightweight elimination tournament at Toronto Monday night.

Jackie Rodgers, local Negro bantam, weight, is matched for two bouts next week. On Monday night he boxes Carl Cavell, of Canton, O., in a return battle in the windup of the opening indoor show at Johnston Park, New Brighton, while on Friday night he tackles Tommy Paul, of Buffalo, in one of the bouts on a card of six rounders in Buffalo.

TOM MALCO

Rugged welterweight boxer, of Soho, who, fighting his first main bout, upset the dope at Moose Temple last night when he registered a technical knockout victory over Hans Roberts, the German sensation, in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round battle. It was Roberts' first defeat in Pittsburgh. He recently defeated Young Rudy and Dominick Profio in the Moose ring.

WARNER'S NEW SYSTEM TRIED

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(INS.)—Using the new system of point scoring invented by Glenn (Pop) Warner, coach of Stanford University, a football game between Long Island University and Brooklyn C. C. N. Y. was played yesterday afternoon. Long Island won, 22 to 11.

Pop Warner was one of the spectators, being here to scout the Army-Notre Dame today.

The new scoring system included one point for every first down made by either team, six points for a touchdown and no kick after touchdown. First downs made through penalties provide no points. Also there is no kick-off in the second half.

The first point under the new system was awarded Miller, of B. C. C., when he broke away to the 24-yard mark. At the end of the first period the score was tied at nine points apiece, with no touchdowns scored.

Long Island scored a touchdown in the second quarter and at half time led, 18 to 11. Brooklyn started the second half with the ball on Long Island's four-yard line, where it was when the second period ended.

The score at the end of the third period was: Long Island, 19; Brooklyn, 11. Brooklyn did not score a point in the second half and Long Island did not score any touchdowns.

Fight Results

At Moose Temple—Tom Malco won by technical knockout over Hans Roberts, 8 rounds; Ken Hargraves and Young Corsey drew (referee's decision), 6 rounds; Johnny Smackey won by technical knockout over Gus Keiser, 1 round; Monte Sirko defeated Zivic Anthony, 6 rounds.

At New York—Al Singer knocked out (technical) Pete Nebo, 4 rounds; Sammy Fuller defeated Johnny Farr, 10 rounds; Lou Massey and Sammy Dorfman drew, 10 rounds.

At Chicago—Jerry (Tuffy) Griffith defeated Pauline Uzcudun, 10 rounds; Hein Ahrens defeated Salvatore Ruggirello, 10 rounds; Jimmy Lundy and Gaston Le Claire drew, 6 rounds; Hein Domgargen knocked out Ed Huitgren, 4 rounds; Larry Downey knocked out (technical) Larry Cravatte, 3 rounds.

At Kansas City—Steve Smith defeated Cowboy Eddie Anderson, 10 rounds; Al Reynolds knocked out Jack Costello, 1 round; Joe Williams knocked out George Dixon, 2 rounds.

At Detroit—Leo Lomski defeated Charley Belanger, 10 rounds.

At Boston—Andy Callahan defeated Jake Zemansky, 10 rounds; Art Flynn defeated Babe McGorgary, 10 rounds.

At Tampa, Fla.—Manuel Quintero defeated Rodrigues Saguero, 10 rounds.

At Los Angeles—Frankie Klick defeated Ricardo Fernandez, 10 rounds.

At Kalamazoo, Mich.—Herman Perlick defeated Ray Riker, 10 rounds.

At Oshkosh, Wis.—Frankie Burns and Joe Kubiac drew, 10 rounds; Frankie Hughes defeated Johnny Panek, 6 rounds.

At Milwaukee—Tait Littman knocked out Chester Bush, 3 rounds; Franklyn Cheek defeated Willie Pellgrini, 8 rounds.

ALL-STAR BIG TEN TEAM NAMED

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Russell Bergherm, Northwestern's workhorse backfield star, is placed at fullback on the 1929 all-Western Conference football team, picked for the Associated Press by nine Big Ten coaches; and to place him there, the coaches elected to switch Branko Nagurski, one of Minnesota's greatest stars, from fullback to tackle.

The first team, as selected, follows:

Milton Erickson, Northwestern, center.

Henry Anderson, Northwestern, right guard.

Elmer Sleight, Purdue, right tackle.

Robert Tanner, Minnesota, right end.

Glenn Harmeson, Purdue, quarterback.

Russell Bergherm, Northwestern, fullback.

Second Team—Ends: Baker, Northwestern, and Wolgast, Illinois, and Westra, Iowa; guards: Poe, Michigan, and Parks, Wisconsin; center, Kawal, Illinois; quarterback, Holdman, Ohio State; halfbacks, Pharmar, Minnesota, and Hal Rebholz, Wisconsin; fullback, Gembis, Michigan.

STAGG REFUSES OPINION

Amos Alonzo Stagg, 67-year-old coach of the University of Chicago eleven, adhered to his policy of not naming players for "all-teams," saying that he felt qualified only to select a team from the squad with which he worked each during the season.

Bergherm, a tall, powerful player, was the key man in Northwestern's offensive scheme, doing the punting, passing and a great share of th running. Coach Dick Hanley probably would have had a difficult time without him, following the injury which took Hank Bruder from the squad. Bruder had done the punting and passing, but Bergherm stepped into the breach and handled both jobs so well as to be largely responsible for Northwestern's victories over Illinois and Ohio State.

Glenn Harmeson, one of the four riveters who played a big part in giving Purdue its first Big Ten football title, was an almost unanimous choice for quarterback. Harmeson passed and ran and was ranked as a superior defensive back.

Capt. Willis Glassgow, of Iowa, and Ralph (Pest) Welch, of Purdue, were long choices for the halfback positions. Glassgow, playing through almost the whole season with an iron mask to protect a shattered cheekbone, probably was unsurpassed as a ball carrier, and with his ability also to pass and kick, was ranked as the man to watch when opponents tackled Iowa. Defensively, Glassgow left little to be desired.

WELCH THREAT

Welch did not carry the ball as often as last season, but was always a ground-gaining threat. His defensive work and blocking was invaluable in the Purdue drive to the championship. Sacrificing opportunities to carry the ball, he crashed out ahead of Harmeson and Yunevich, starting them toward long gains.

With the exception of the ends, the line jobs gave the pickers trouble. Wesley Fesler, of Ohio State, and Bob Tanner, of Minnesota, were the class of the wingmen and were paired by almost every coach. Fesler, a 1928 selection, was the pick of the offensive ends, and his defensive work was good enough to bear scrutiny. Although closely watched, Fesler took passes from Holman all season, and his alert play was a factor in making Ohio State look like a contender until the season was nearly finished.

Tanner dominated the ends in defensive play and was a sure pass receiver. He was fast down under kicks, and his deadly tackling kept opposing backs away from his side of the line. Although handicapped by an uncertain ankle all season, Tanner never failed to turn in a better than good performance.

SLEIGHT FAST

Shifted about to patch up holes in a team that lacked reserve power to make it great, Nagurski stood out, with Elmer (Red) Sleight, of Purdue, as the pick of a number of fine tackles. Possessed of tremendous power and deadly tackling ability, Nagurski played a great game at tackle and found time to drop back to fullback to score a pair of touchdowns that gave Minnesota victory over Wisconsin. He was the fastest man on the Gopher squad, and Coach Spears characterized him as a player who rarely made a mistake in judgment, either as a back or a lineman.

Fred Roberts and Capt. Henry Anderson, of Northwestern, received the guard assignments over a powerful field. Roberts was not the biggest lineman in the league, but he looked it in action. He was the best balanced guard in the Big Ten, according to the coaches, being equally capable on offense and defense.

Anderson was a battling type who charged hard and certainly, and was fast enough to fit in well in interference. He tackled well and was a fine blocker when called out to run ahead of Bergherm and the other Northwestern backs.

ERICKSON CENTER

The place at center was a tight battle between Mickey Erickson, of Northwestern, and Ed Kawal, of Illinois. Erickson received the verdict by one vote, chiefly due to his great work against Illinois. He was a smart defensive player, calling enemy formation for his mates, and in four important games, he intercepted forward passes at critical moments. Boyard, of Michigan, and Barrett, of Ohio State, were ranked close to the two leaders.

Bells, Taylors In Pairs On Cub Roster

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The Cubs will have two Taylors and a brace of Bells, when they go to Catalina for training next spring.

Lester Bell, third baseman purchased from Boston, is not strange to Chicago, but George Bell, pitcher, obtained from Mobile, is new. Zach Taylor, who did most of the catching last season, will have company in Danny Taylor, an outfielder recalled from the Reading club of the International League, a Cub farm.

Pittsburgh soccer fans will have to do a little traveling this afternoon to see their favorite sport. Not one game is scheduled in the city proper, the Crafton-Lewis District League game being the nearest to watch.

At McKeesport the National Tube team will meet the Celtics and this game should be worth while. The Celtics have a real cup-fighting ball club and should extend the Tubers.

The German Sport Club will meet the Jeannette Rovers. In the matter of ability there is little comparison between the clubs, but the Sport outfit is liable to get very excited and lose a valuable ball game. If the Germans concentrate on winning the ball game there is nothing to it, and Jeannette should be beaten easily.

Down Beaver Falls way Sewickley will have a chance to show its stuff, and Midland, with one of the best soccer teams ever around the Beaver Valley district, will meet Ambridge.

Manners, lanky stalwart who helped the Philadelphia Company team to win the local amateur league title last season, has been working out with the Bucs this week, and signed a Pirate contract last night. He will be at center in the third front line with Bud Jarvis and Cliff Barton, who will be at the wings.

Harold Darragh is the only Pirate other than Drury who is not in top condition. Darragh started the new season with a couple of broken ribs, and he had his taped side badly bruised in the fight in Montreal Tuesday. He has been compelled to forego any practice this week, but he expects to be ready for action tonight.

CLOSE GAME LIKELY

The Pittsburgh-Boston competition dates back many years, and is one of the oldest in hockey. Games between teams representing these two cities ever have been savage, close affairs, and since the pro league was extended to the States honors are about even. The Bruins may be world champions to some clubs, but to the Pirates they are just another team, and in the fray tonight it is not likely that they will be much better than an even-money choice. The probable lineup:

PIRATES.	POS.	BRUINS.
Miller	G	Thompson
Smith	R.D.	Shore
MacKinnon	L.D.	Hitchman
Milks	C.	Carson
Darragh	R.W.	Galbraith

Shires Becomes Three-Sport Star

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Charles Arthur Shires, the Chicago White Sox impetuous first baseman, has become a three-sport man.

Charles Arthur (The Great), already has signed to do fist fighting for gain, on one of Promoter Jim Mullen's cards at White City, and has decided to go in for basketball, a game at which he says he is very good. He plans to play guard for a Chicago semi-pro team.

SUN SELECTS PARKINSON, DONCHESS

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The New York Sun today named its 1929 All-America eleven, an alternate eleven and 100 players with All-America rating. The Sun experts inclined to the opinion that Glassgow, of Iowa, was the outstanding back of the year and Cannon, of Notre Dame, the outstanding lineman.

The first team gets the Sun's watches, awarded annually. The other players receive medals. The Middle West places five men on the first team, the East four, the Southwest one, and the West coast one. The first and second teams:

First Team		Second Team
Schoonover, Ark.	L.E.	Tappaan, So Cal
Nagurski, Minn.	L.T.	Hinrtington, C'gate

ALL BIG SIX TEAM NAMED

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Selections for the All-Big Six football team of 1929, announced last night, found the honors well distributed and no unanimous choices among the Conference coaches, athletic directors and sports writers canvassed by the Associated Press.

Missouri captured three places on the first team and two places each went to Nebraska, the Kansas Aggies, Oklahoma and Kansas. Finishing at the bottom of the Conference standing, Iowa State received no recognition on either the first or second elevens named.

Although winning the Conference championship, Nebraska gave way to Missouri in the first team rankings, but took four positions on the second team, including the captaincy.

Only Tom Churchill, Oklahoma end, and Clair Sloan, Nebraska back, are repeaters from last season. Raymond Richards, Nebraska tackle, and John Waldorf, Missouri back, rose from second team places last year to the first eleven.

Sloan and James Bausch, Kansas sophomore back, by their brilliant play, made the first team, despite injuries which kept them on the sidelines half the season.

Eight of the 11 men on the all-star team have played their last intercollegiate football. Bausch and Atkeson are sophomores; Smith is a junior. The selections:

First Team		Second Team
Hursley, Mo.	L.E.	Hokuf, Neb.
Richards, Neb.	L.T.	Schopflin, Kan.
Atkeson, Kan.	L.G.	Roster, Neb.
Smith, Mo.	C.	F. Bausch, Kan.
Bauman, Kan. A.R.	R.G.	Gentry, Okla.
Tackwell, Kan. A.R.	T.	Brondstone, Neb.
Churchill, Okla.	R.E.	Towler, Kan. A.
Waldorf, Mo. (c)	Q.B.	Nigro, Kan. A.
J. Bausch, Kan.	L.H.	Farley, Neb. (c)
Orfordella, Okla.	R.H.	Wiggins, Kan. A.
Sloan, Neb.	F.B.	Cox, Kan.

TWO WEST PENN GAMES TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN.

Two high-class attractions are offered the followers of the West Penn League tonight, the Ray Schneiders opposing Edgewood at Edgewood, while the Young Men's Hebrew Association clashes with the smooth-working Penn Five at the Y. M. H. A. floor.

The Bellefielders won the Institutional League and A. A. U. championship last winter, and is eager to make a good showing in the West Penn League. Although beaten in their first league game by the South Side Falcons last Monday, the Y. M. H. A. quintet is confident it will take the measure of the Sharpsburgers tonight.

The Ray Schneiders, picked as one of the favorites to win the league title, are expected to experience no trouble in taking a decision over Edgewood.

Madison Square Signs Chocolate

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. — Kid Chocolate, undefeated Cuban featherweight, yesterday joined the East's big subsidy of sock. In other words, he tied himself up to one of those three-fight contracts drafted by the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

The Kid still has one or two contracts to fulfill at the smaller clubs, but when he discharges these minor obligations he will be strictly a big timer.

His first fight under Garden auspices in all probability will be with Battling Battalino and for the world's featherweight title, the latter part of January.

Chocolate is going back to Havana, December 21, two days after his fight with Dominick Petrone at the New York Coliseum. He has practically agreed to fight Andre Routis for 10 rounds in Havana on January 15. Soon after that date he will return to fill his Garden engagement.

BASKETBALL RESULTS

CENTRAL LEAGUE.

I. K. S. 50; Joseph Horne 18.

METROPOLITAN LEAGUE.

Penn Cadets 23; St. Andrews 14.
Mt. Washington Triangles 35; St. Paul 32.

WEST PENN LEAGUE.

Community 28; Penn 25.

Record?

SONNY YOUNG

Football fans particularly interested in the feats of New River State College, of Montgomery, W. Va., request "world record" recognition for Sonny Young, New River's fleet halfback, who turned in 80-yard touchdown gallops in three consecutive games. On November 11, he ran 80 yards to score against Salem, and he repeated this feat against Morehead and Broaddus in the next two games.

PENN DROPS PENN STATE

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Five new opponents, University of Virginia, Wisconsin, Kansas University, Notre Dame and Georgia Tech, appear on the 1930 gridiron schedule of the University of Pennsylvania, made public last night by Sydney E. Hutchinson, chairman of the football committee.

Pennsylvania State College and Columbia, old rivals of the Red and Blue, are among those dropped for next fall's campaign. Of this year's opponents only Swarthmore, Lehigh, Cornell and Navy are retained.

The Navy contest will be played after the annual Cornell classic on Thanksgiving Day. Heretofore, Cornell has been the last on the Pennsylvania schedule.

With the exception of Wisconsin all nine contests on the schedule will be played at Franklin Field. The agreement with Georgia Tech also calls for a game here in 1931. The schedule for 1930:

October 4, Swarthmore; October 11—University of Virginia; October 18—University of Wisconsin; October 25—Lehigh; November 1—Kansas University; November 8—Notre Dame; November 15—Georgia Tech; November 27—Cornell; December 6—Navy.

GENEVA GAME CANCELED

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 30.—The Geneva College football season was declared ended here last night with the news of the cancellation of the game scheduled today at Luna Park, Cleveland, with John Carroll University. The Forest City school, through the Rev. E. J. Bracken, director of athletics, canceled the contest late yesterday due to freezing temperatures and a six-inch covering of snow which made grid competition intolerable.

Geneva was scheduled to depart for Cleveland early this morning, but the cancellation ended such plans and Mack Flenniken's proteges were ready to call it a year, albeit a rather disastrous one for the Covenanters.

Billy Burke Leads Berkeley Golf Play

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Shooting a brilliant 69, one under par, for the difficult Berkeley Country Club course, Billy Burke, of Westport, Conn., yesterday led the field with a 140 at the end of the second round of the 72-hole $5,000 Berkeley open golf championship.

One stroke behind Burke came Johnny Perilli, Feather River (Cal.) professional, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago. Each had cards of 71-70—141.

In the 143 class was Willard Hutchinson, Chicago, with 72-71. John Rouse, Chicago, added a 76 to his 68 for a total of 144. Ed Dudley, Concordville, Pa., turned in 73, giving him 71-73—144.

Horton Smith, Joplin (Mo.) entrant and pre-tournament favorite, took a place in the 145 station with rounds of 74-71. Craig Wood, Belleville, N. J., posted 75-70—145.

STREET STARTS BUILDING CARDS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

With a rich heritage was left Gabby Street by Willie McKechnie! True, the Wilkinsburg laddie seems to have feathered his own nest with a four-year contract even as he snubbed the exclusive Cards to mingle with the democratic Braves, yet there is little basis for comparison as between the skill of the two clubs.

And old-fashioned Gabby already is taking advantage of his opportunity. The former star catcher has made two significant moves in the past few days—he acquired Sparky Adams from the Pirates without letting loose of a player and followed this move by hauling in the sometime refractory Flint Rhem, a sharpshooter who has just about as much stuff as Dazzy Vance or Pat Malone.

"More sinned against the sinning," perhaps would apply to Rhem. Flint is hardly a lily white, but many another boy of the diamond has had a joust with John Barleycorn and without having the experience broadcast on the loud speakers. Rhem might have been handled better in view of his youthfulness; in any event, his habits did not suit the St. Louis owners and he was "railroaded" out of the league.

PITCHING ONLY NEED

Now it would seem the Cardinals had a hold on the youngster all the while, and it would not be surprising if he were to be a winner under the Street regime. Flint is a giant in stature and besides his speed he owns one of the best hooks in the league.

Street may be able to show the fans an offensive capable of swapping punches with the Cubs while at the same time sporting a better defensive and a smart ball club all the way around.

Jim Bottomley, Chick Hafey, Frank Frisch, Wallie Roettger, Taylor Douthit, Ernie Orsatti, Andy High, Jimmy Wilson, and one or two others make up a combination that should be close to the top in collective power. All the team needs is a little better than fair pitching to be a flag factor.

CHANCE FOR SPARKY

There is a good chance for Sparky Adams to break into the daily battle array. The midget infielder was not a success in Pittsburgh; he may be in a different stride in new pastures. Adams, by the way, is like the majority of athletes as regards encouragement; if he is benched for bad play he is likely to lose his confidence.

Adams may not be able to make the grade as a regular in St. Louis, but if Street wants to play out the string on Sparky he will find the pat on the back as the only method for him.

In the event that Sparky is a Redbird first-stringer, the speed of the team will be enhanced a bit, for Adams is a good baserunner. He might cause Manager Street to take the reliable Douthit off the leadoff position in order to get more value out of the centerfielder's punches. Sparky is a good leadoff batter.

Chillysauce

Foxy Pop Warner
Sat in the corner
Hungry for football pie.
He hooked with his thumb
The Golden Rear plum
And said, "What a smart boy am I."

Pop has straightened out the Tournament of Roses tangle like Luke Barnett sets a visitor right. It's a grand mess.

Sing a song of football, pocketful of rye,
Four and twenty students looking rather sly;
Soon the half was ended and corks began to pop—
When prohibition comes, by-gosh, this thing will have to stop.

Tom Davies sat in the press box Thursday as his alma mater trimmed the Nittany Lions. Tom enjoyed the doings of Tom Parkinson, Toby of McKees Rocks and their buddies.

Davies with his family—Tom is the proud papa of two little girls—will start for Los Angeles by auto early this week. The former Panther ace who now tutors at Swarthmore University, suffered from sinus trouble and he thinks the jaunt to California will tone him up again.

Somebody told Dr. Quailey he was getting stout and the doctor became so mad he beat the ends down on the punts as he officiated in the Duke's Waynesburg game.

Irish McIlveen and ye scribe had pleasant baseball discussion on the eve of the Pitt-State game, while stars of the grid in years gone by discussed football. In the party were Bob Higgins, Tom Davies, Zeke Wissinger, Dr. Quailey, Dutch Herman, Pete Mauthe, Casey Jones, Harry Robb and others.

McIlveen is one of the most versatile athletes ever to leave State. Lefty was a big-league baseball player after starring on the grid and diamond in college. Now he is to break "90" on the links, and he's a southpaw swinger.

All-Stars to Meet Community Eleven

Followers of independent football will have an interesting battle to watch tomorrow afternoon, when the Oakland All-Stars meet the Oakland Community gridders in a benefit game.

With Happy Butler, Mike Butler and Doc Quailey in the All-Stars' lineup, there is going to be lots of interest in the game. Quailey will play quarterback.

TRIANGLES, CADETS WIN

Mt. Washington Triangles defeated the St. Paul Lutherans, 35 to 22, and the Penn Cadets whipped the St. Andrew's Lyceum, 23 to 14, in Metropolitan League games last night. The Triangle-Lutheran lineup:

Triangles—35.		St. Paul—22.
F. Meidler	F	McMurtry
C. Meidler	F	Snyder
E. Meidler	C	Maier

AL SINGER STOPS NEBO

GRIFFITH WINS OVER PAULINO UZCUDUN

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—The pride of the Bronx, sleek, black-haired Al Singer, clinched his right to a place in the front rank of the lightweight warriors last night with an impressive technical knockout over Pete Nebo, rugged Seminole Indian from Key West, Fla., in the fourth round of the scheduled 10-round feature engagement at Madison Square Garden.

Never before knocked out in years of rugged milling, Nebo, a courageous, charging warrior from the Everglades was a little more than a sparring partner in the hands of the popular Jewish boy. Singer rattled left hooks off his head and he never stopped coming forward for more, slashed home solid rights when the opportunity offered, and rarely was forced to take more than a slight body cuffing occasionally at close quarters.

Singer seemed in no hurry to cut loose with a finishing rally until Nebo, cut about the lips and becoming more desperate with every charge, winged over a pair of solid clouts to the head in the fourth round. Singer whipped his right back to the Indian's chin in a straight line and Nebo sagged at the knees.

Two thudding left hooks scrambled Nebo's muddled senses completely and he stumbled backward into a neutral corner, while Singer followed him, pouring leather into the Indian's features. Helpless, his arm failing to his sides, eyes closed, Nebo was so wedged in the corner that he seemed unable to fall. Referee Danny Ridge stepped in and stopped the punching exhibition after two minutes and 22 seconds of the fourth.

In a 10-round semi-final, put on after the main bout, Sammy Fuller, Boston junior-lightweight, made his Garden debut by winning the decision from Johnny Farr, chunky Cleveland gladiator, in a rough but featureless match. Fuller weighed 130¼, Farr 130½.

Lew Massey, of Philadelphia, fought a fast draw with Sammy Dorfman, of New York, in another 10-round bout. Dorfman weighed 131½ pounds, Massey 127.

TUFFY GRIFFITH WINS

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Jerry (Tuffy) Griffith defeated Paulino Uzcudun in a savage 10-round bout at the Chicago Stadium last night, getting the decision of the referee and two judges.

The first three rounds were whirlwinds of action with Griffith spearing Paulino with left hooks to the head. In the second Paulino jarred Griffith with a solid left hook to the chin that knocked Tuffy into the ropes.

Griffith bounced rights and lefts off Paulino's iron jaw apparently without even fazing him during the fourth and fifth rounds. In the sixth, Griffith drove three left hooks to the jaw and crossed his right twice solidly with Paulino shaking his head and walking in for more.

Uzcudun found the Iowa youth tougher than he anticipated, and charged in ruthlessly in the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds. Griffith was punching cleaner, however, and scored smartly with both hands to head and body, with Paulino doing considerable missing with his right hand shots to head and left hook to jaw. Paulino hooked a left to the jaw in the ninth that sent Griffith to the ropes.

PAULINO RALLIES

The tenth was savagely fought with Paulino desperately trying to stage a rally that would win the fight. But Griffith outscored him.

Heinie Mueller, the newest German heavyweight made his American debut with an impressive one-sided victory over Salvatore Ruggirello, a towering Italian giant, in the 10-round semi-final. Mueller weighing 188¾ pounds and Ruggirello, scaling 203¼.

Jimmy Lundy, Los Angeles lightweight, and Gaston Le Cadre, of France, boxed six rounds to a draw in the second bout. Heinie Domgargen, German middleweight, made his American debut with a knockout victory over Ed Hultgren, a Swedish importation, in the fourth round. Domgargen weighed 156¼ and Hultgren 160. In the opening bout Larry Johnson, Chicago Negro lightweight, scored a technical knockout over Larry Creighton, New York Negro, in the fifth round.

SMITH TOPS ANDERSON

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Steve Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., came back last night to take a close newspaper decision from Cowboy Eddie Anderson, Casper, Wyo., in 10 rounds here last night. Al Friedman, Boston heavyweight, knocked out Jack Costello, of Chicago, in the first round.

LEO LOMSKI VICTOR

DETROIT, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Leo Lomski, of Aberdeen, Wash., pounded out a 10-round decision over Charley Belanger, of Winnipeg, Canadian light-heavyweight champion, here last night. Under the point system of scoring each round, Referee Al Day, awarded seven rounds to Lomski and three to Belanger. The total points awarded were 47 for Lomski and 40 for Belanger. Lomski weighed 172 and Belanger 174¾.

ZERAMBY BATTERED

Boston, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Andy Callahan, slugging Lawrence lightweight, annexed his thirty-ninth consecutive ring victory by giving Jake Zeramby, of Lynn, a terrific battering here last night in the 10-round feature bout at the Boston Garden. Each scaled 135 pounds. Art Flynn, also of Lawrence, outpointed Babe McGorgary, of Oklahoma, in another 10-rounder.

QUINTERO WINS

TAMPA, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Young Manuel Quintero, 139, of Tampa, won a 10-round decision over Relampago Saguero, of Cuba, 140½, here last night.

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)

Long's Sport Comment

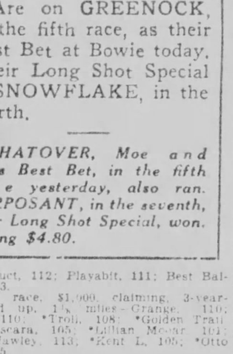
University football game for the purpose of seeing his own proposed method playing the gridiron game tried out for the first time.

Warner's new system of scoring credits the usual six points for each touchdown, but allows no try for the extra point after touchdown. Each first down is worth one point, but penalties are not counted, even though they make first down. There is no kickoff at the start of the second half, the ball being put in play where it was when the first half ended, one change that the game surely needs.



Frank Taberski.

WITH the arrival of cold weather cue sports are coming in for their innings. The first big event of the new season is scheduled to open in Detroit one week from next Monday night, when the foremost pocket billiardists will meet in competition for the world championship at that style of play. The dope is that Frank Taberski will have a tough job on his hands to retain his title, as Ralph Greenleaf and other entrants, including a new contestant in the person of Onofrio Lauri, the Eastern champion, are showing form that presages strong opposition.

THE balls to be used in this tournament, by the way, will be one-sixteenth of an inch smaller than those used in the past. The National Billard Association of America has reduced the diameter to that extent.

Speaking of cueists, one of the world's greatest, Johnny Layton, three-cushion champion, was put out of commission temporarily by an automobile accident the other day while en route from Sedalia, Mo., to Chicago. He suffered a broken finger on his right hand and two fractured ribs. He had been scheduled to meet Welker Cochran in a 600-point match at three cushions in New York next week.

DISTRICT TEAMS PRAISED BY HARPSTER

By HOWARD HARPSTER,
(All-America Quarterback, 1928, at Carnegie Tech in 1928.)

Howard Harpster

Football, the premier American sport, has become so universally popular in the United States that today it is hard to find a single college which isn't represented by a gridiron team. The sport has spread to all sections of the country and fine teams are to be found now in every direction.

Formerly, the best brand of football was played in the East, but in recent years the Middle West, the South and the Far West have come to the front so that at the present time it is impossible to say that any one section stands out more prominently than the others. The fact that the all-star teams that are selected at the close of each season are composed of players from all parts of the United States is only added proof of the equality of each section's strength.

WEST PENNSYLVANIA LEADS

In the old days when a person spoke of football he referred to Yale, Harvard or Princeton, but today he must include Tulane, Army, Stanford, Notre Dame, Georgia Tech, Southern California, Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, New York University, Purdue, Illinois and any number of other equally brilliant elevens. No longer is any one team supreme. They all take a good licking now and then.

After making a survey of the different sections it occurs to me that it would be difficult to find any locality where better football is played than in our own Western Pennsylvania district. I don't contend that Pennsylvania's football is superior to that of other sections, but I believe it is every bit as good.

The five big teams of the Western Pennsylvania district include Penn State, Wash.-Jeff., West Virginia, University of Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech. And in the past year or two Duquesne University has come forward with teams which have gained very favorable recognition. These teams are strong every year and play a smart, hard, intelligent brand of football.

In recent years Nebraska, Ohio State, Notre Dame, Detroit, Lafayette, Georgetown, Bucknell, Syracuse, University of Pennsylvania and many other nationally-known teams have fallen victims of the Western Pennsylvania teams.

In 1926, Carnegie Tech startled the football world by defeating Notre Dame and keeping her from what offered to be a certain national championship. That season, Carnegie Tech, Wash-Jeff, Penn State and University of Pittsburgh all were represented by strong teams.

The following year, the University of Pittsburgh had the outstanding team of the country, going through the entire regular season without a defeat. Representing the East in the Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Pitt was nosed out by Stanford, 7-6. Wash-Jeff also boasted a good season.

PITT MAY BE CHAMPION

Last fall, Carnegie was among the topnotchers of the country and lost only its last game of the season to New York University. West Virginia and Pitt were the other strong teams of the district.

For the season that has just been completed, Pitt, Penn State, Wash-Jeff and Duquesne have the best records. The 1929 Pitt team is regarded as one of the very best teams of the year and has sewed up the Eastern championship. If the Panther squad should receive the invitation to play again in the Roses tournament a national championship may even be given the Pittsburgh team, which would speak for itself as to the brand of football played in the Pennsylvania district.

850 Pay $85, Honor Muldoon on Birthday

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Celebrities from all walks of life paid tribute last night to William Muldoon, aged solid man of sport, at a testimonial banquet in honor of his eighty-fifth birthday. There were 850 guests who paid $85 apiece to gather and sing the praises of the veteran member of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Speeches likewise were limited to 85 words each. In a somewhat longer speech of gratitude Muldoon thanked the celebrants for their thoughtfulness not only to himself, but also to the charities which benefited from the banquet subscriptions.

Wagner Opera to Feature Radio Bills Tonight

By DARRELL A. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor.

ACT two of Wagner's opera of tragic love, "Die Walkuere," will be put on the air tonight from the stage of the new Chicago Civic Opera House.

The famous "Bruenhalde Battle Cry" will be included. "Die Walkuere," based on an old Norse myth, deals with the love affair of Siegmund and Sieglinde who later turn out to be brother and sister. KDKA will be the Pittsburgh station at 10 p. m.

Celebrities will speak at the Notre Dame banquet to be broadcast through KDKA at 8:30. Lou Gehrig, Ty Cobb and John McGraw will attend.

Two singers who perform much alike and who we understand, are quite frequent correspondents, will be heard on the air within two hours of each other. Virginia Harmon, the Pittsburgh soprano, will contribute three cute numbers to Pickering Playtime, WJAS, at 7:30, followed at 9:30 by the peppy Jessica Dragonette as guest artist with the Gillette Blades over KDKA.

Philanthropist Kills Self During Reunion

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—AP—John B. Stetson, 53, prominent manufacturer and philanthropist of Germantown, died at his home here yesterday. It became known last night. He shot himself through the head in his bathroom while a family reunion was under way. He was head of the firm of John B. Stetson, Inc., one of the country's largest manufacturers of hats and hardware. He was a director in several banks.

THE COMEBACK DANDY

FROM ... Brooks Atkinson, the New York Times critic comes the ... story about the dramatic critic who once went out of his journalistic province and called a producer names in the paper. There was a great to-do about it and the critic's boss asked him to apologize to the offended producer, in his column.

The bitter critic apologized in this manner: "I called the gentleman a liar. It is true and he can punctuate it any way he likes."

CAPSULE CRITICISM

Entered for our Crisp Cracks from Critical Cusses Dept.: Alexander Woollcott's sub-title on a review of a show starring Odette Myrtil, viz.: "Odette, Where Is the Song?" and Heywood Broun's flip quip about the author of a new play: "He talks like a book with the pages torn out."

HEHEHEH!

Ann Pennington says she overheard it on the pavement between acts of a new play:

First Critic—"What do you think of the show?"

Second Critic—"I asked you first!"

A FORM OF CRITICISM

SPEAKING of those horrid old mean critics, at a recent First-Night Percy Hammond (now touring the world) turned to the smart alec in front of him and grumbled: "Golly what a stupid show. It's a wonder the audience doesn't hiss it!"

"You can't hiss and yawn at the same time," was the retort.

IMAGINE

From Edward Dean Sullivan's book, "Sold Out" (Vanguard Press), comes this stirring paragraph: A customer's man of one of the largest brokerage houses in New York was on jury duty during the three worst days of the panic. His customers were being wiped out for millions; his company was involved in the greatest test of its 50 years of existence, and he was called upon to listen attentively to a case involving $88.

EPIGRAMS

Charles G. Shaw, who recently deserted Broadway for London, is a bachelor. The following are some of the reasons why: The most successful lover, nine times out of 10, is the most successful liar . . . In any affair of the heart the greatest error a woman can commit is in allowing the man to realize that she loves him before he realizes that he loves her . . . A man is far more attracted to the girl who confesses she knows few men than to the one who is forever boasting of her numerous acquaintances . . . The minute a conversation between a man and woman grows impersonal, likewise does it grow uninteresting . . . Marriage is Love's hangover.

BRAVO!

WILLARD KEEFE says that Harry Rosenthal, whose sensational success in "June Moon" is now well known, has been annoyed by people who keep accusing him of being ritzy. The other night a pill approached Rosenthal and chirped: "So you're getting high-hat, huh?"

"Lissen, you!" thundered the fed-up actor. "If I were high-hat you'd be the first guy I'd snub!"

INCIDENTALLY

Rosenthal's aggravations recall the description of a well-known Broadway snob:

"You wouldn't know him any more. He's the type who gets dizzy from lookin' down on people."

FOR NORA:

Without so much as a by-your-leave,
I'm wearing my heart upon my sleeve
To mock the monkeys who won't believe
That I've found a face that haunts me.

So hang this this sign where the

the archlight plays,
In the hideaways and the bright cafes
On boulevards and in alleyways
I've found a Woman Who Wants Me.

—Duncan Underhill.

PEOPLE I COULD CHOKE

GIRLS you don't know who tell Edgar Selwyn, the producer, that the reason you blackballed his show, "Other Men's Wives" (which closes this week) was over "a personal reason" wonder why all the other lads panned it? Also, People who spend a nickel to call you when you're busiest, when a letter costing two cents would be just as unimportant. Restaurant owners who sell sandwiches as thin as a Broadway friendship. . . Persons who argue that it is time a new word for "whoopee" was invented (the answer to which is "All right. For instance?")

THINGS TO WORRY ABOUT

"No man who has hung around Broadway for more than five years," says Damon Runyon, "can truthfully say he has more than three friends."

Verriwell, sir. Name yours.

AND——

Incidentally, too many sentimentalists and other gullible persons really believe "friends" are assets. We found out long ago that "friends" are the ones who ask for favors, theater passes, baseball tickets, good write-ups—and when you refuse them, they either give you Dirty Looks or a piece of their alleged minds.

So far as we are concerned Friends are not important. After all, all you really need are six of them to serve as pall-bearers and if there are not six pall-bearers at your funeral how will you know?

(Copyright, 1929, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

SON DENIED MOTHER

Judge Richard W. Martin handed down an order in Common Pleas Court after a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus refusing for the second time to grant Mrs. Marie Krupp, of Cleveland, O., the custody of her son, Lawrence Krupp, Jr. The child was continued in the custody of Mrs. Jennie Mitchell, of 420 East Lacock street, North Side.

Mrs. Krupp left the child in the custody of Mrs. Mitchell in July, 1926, and attempted to regain custody in January last through a writ of habeas corpus, which was denied.

A second action was initiated recently by Mrs. Krupp, who averred that she and her husband had been reconciled after a separation and had a suitable home for their son in Cleveland. Mrs. Mitchell contended that her home was a more proper place for the boy.

New Revue Monday In Silver Slipper

A complete new revue will be presented at Billy King's Silver Slipper, in the Kenyon Theater Building, beginning Monday. Nat Rodgers, master of ceremonies; Aleene Denniston, personality blues singer, and Nora Lewis, featured dancer, continue to head the show. George Weber and his orchestra, with Con Buckley as vocal soloist, furnish the music for dancing.

Says Spouse Left, Sues for Divorce

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Coll, 420 Noble street, filed suit in Common Pleas Court, asking a divorce from John A. Coll, of Chicago. They were married November 21, 1906, and Coll deserted her without just cause in January, 1917, the suit alleged.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

COLONEL MAPLE GIVES "HYENAS" TONGUE LASHING

Fails to Meet Beauty; Leaves Dining Room in Disgust

"Queen of Sin" That Fires Ruth Willmore, the Michigan Beauty, has arrived in the Hawkinsville dining room on the arm of her uncle, the Corrupt Judge. This is a record of "Princess of Sin" by Col. Dice Maple, Indiana reformer, author of "Society's Mouth to Hide."

READER, I was present in that Dining Room and I never beheld a more beautiful creature than Ruth Willmore as she came down the aisle that December night, as innocent as a new born babe. There was a babble of voices as Society gasped; however, their talk is "chaff," as Society has fewer brains to the square inch than any class of "Things" that ever infest the earth.

(Ed. Note — Well said, Colonel Maple! That's telling it to them!)

I did not obtain an introduction to Ruth Willmore that night, but to my certain knowledge she was introduced to twenty-three human hyenas, who parade as "men."

I got up and left the Dining Room in disgust as I was—

BUT IT WAS WORTH A DOLLAR, EH, SHORTY?

(Lamar, Mo., Democrat)

.....Mrs. Grider was firm and proceeded to unhitch the team but each time she would drop a tug, Shorty would promptly attach it back to the single tree. This kept up for some time, Mrs. Grider unhitching and Shorty hitching and at last, Shorty's patience became exhausted and he pushed Mrs. Grider away and for his ungallantry he was hauled before Judge Bowser and when he told the circumstances, was fined one dollar.

Independence of All Nations, Not Isolation From Any Nation, Is Our Goal

Prime Minister MacDonald recently made a notable utterance at a meeting in the House of Commons at which the guest of honor was Mr. Kellogg, President Coolidge's secretary of state.

Speaking of the attitude of the leaders in political life whom he talked with during his recent visit to this country the Prime Minister said:

"They certainly are not going to co-operate with us as allies bound by formal ties. They certainly are not going to commit themselves to European policy and mix themselves in European messes. No President of the United States is going to go back upon their wise traditional policy of keeping out of European messes.

"It is perfectly evident at the same time that wherever and whenever there is a humane flag flying over the world the thought and heart of America will be there. We have never been able to say the United States has failed in support of any great human cause."

By this timely tribute to that American character in foregn affairs which it was Washington's dream that his people should develop, the Prime Minister gives convincing proof that his understanding of traditional American policy is quickened by a keen appreciation of the traditional American spirit.

Independence of all nations and not isolation from any nation was the goal of Washington's policy.

Whenever and wherever in the world the American people have had a duty to perform they have not shirked and they will not shirk.

What they have always done and what they are firmly resolved always to do is to be the keeper of their own conscience and to preserve untrammeled their own freedom of action.

That is why the United States refused membership in the League of Nations. And that is why the United States ought to refuse membership in the league's so-called World Court.

Not because this country is unwilling to co-operate in common causes, but because the American people are determined to keep themselves free "from political connection with every other country."

All this Ramsay MacDonald apparently understands and has had the wisdom and the courage to endorse.

As a matter of fact, Ramsay Mac Donald understands the traditions of the United States and the sentiment of its people much better than some of our own public men.

The American people may well hope that by his spontaneous tribute to straight Americanism Ramsay MacDonald has lighted "a candle of understanding" in the hearts of all English-speaking people "which shall not be put out" either by misunderstanding among themselves or by the misrepresentation of others.

No $6,000,000 Gift to Railways Company Now

Among public works mentioned for construction as soon as possible, especially for the purpose of expanding employment, is the downtown subway, for which $6,000,000 was voted a number of years ago. There is no doubt that construction of an underground route would serve two purposes—giving work to labor and taking much traffic off the streets.

But, and there is a very significant "but" in the case, the public will want to be assured that the six millions—or more—it will spend will not be an outright gift to the Pittsburgh Railways Company. If the city can come to an agreement with the railways company that is equitable, and can find a legal way to put the subway where it should be, it will be all right to go ahead with this project, and not otherwise.

It must be remembered that there is only one possible user for such underground route at present—the railways company. While that situation prevails the idea of making a good bargain, financially, rather than looking to making more dollars by more rapid movement of its cars through the downtown district, might be the preferred company attitude. In fact, judging from its shortsighted policy relative to stimulating its bus business, and at the same time giving the public a square deal, by having reasonable bus fares, many believe the company would want to give the city very little for the use of its $6,000,000 underground route.

This matter should be settled satisfactorily before starting work on the subway as one of the means of creating more employment.

Welfare Fund Treasury Full, Thanks to Public

With the Welfare Fund treasury assured to be a full coffer for 1930 as a result of the drive for $1,168,000 having passed the goal set as the requirement for the charitable activities of the 31 member organizations of the fund, these societies face the future with promise that their humanitarian work it not to be hampered for lack of money.

The result of the campaign should be gratifying to the generous people of the county as well as to organizations and the nearly 8,000 workers who made the solicitation. The response to the appeal is a tribute to the officers of both the Welfare Fund and its member societies, a deserved testimonial of the confidence in which the public holds them.

The Welfare Fund is more than an experiment now and it is hoped that when the next annual appeal for funds is made, its membership will include all worthy organizations devoted to charity and uplift.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The psychological effect of light on emotions is emphasized by the flushed eagerness of crowds roaming Broadway after dark. During the day Broadway's expression is one of studied calm. Indeed, a suggestion of boredom.

But after 7 p. m. when the street becomes a huge spurt of electrical fire, the spirit is skylarking. Everybody seems to relax. It only lacks the shower of confetti and the din of noise makers to make a Mardi Gras celebration.

This sudden prankishness is especially noticeable among the army of visitors who throng here. Ladies who typify the essence of primness back home are likely to turn coy and indulge a sly and flirtatious wink as they hurry along—amazed and blushing at their audacity.

Broadway, donning its cap and bells for the evening, is dominated solely by a spirit of fun. Strangers often stop to chat and everybody in amiable transience brushes shoulders. It is the same odd light heartedness that often inspires tourists in Paris to throw hats in the air for no reason whatever.

The splash of yellow the world knows as the White Way seems to have a mellowing effect all along the line. I have noticed that traffic officers are inclined to unbend, perhaps wave or smile. Shop keepers and clerks are a little more gracious.

From 7 p. m. until midnight the celebrated street becomes an adventure. Pedestrians do not shin-kick and elbow-jab through crowds. Even the hard boiled natives yield to the hoop-la—visit the quick photo parlors, the jewelry auctions and even make excursions in yap wagons.

Frequently after the Broadway nightfall a taxi load of city youngsters cruises down Broadway singing and yelling at pedestrians and otherwise performing in the manner of the horn blowing hay riders who—touched by moonlight — jog through Main street.

The most crowded corner on Broadway after night fall is at the Forty-fourth street site of the Criterion Theater, where seven crossing cops are needed to keep pedestrians moving. And even then they coagulate.

A European visitor thinks Ocean Parkway in Brooklyn expresses more of a homelike atmosphere than any other section in the greater city. It is the widest metropolitan avenue and runs from a fringe of a business section to the sea. It is lined with rows of pleasant double houses setting back in the yard and the sidewalks are alive with children.

A variant of the "dumb waiter" gag, which has enlivened many cafes, is the gangster hoax. Several friends take the victim out for dinner. By pre-arrangement a glum, hard faced fellow sits scowling at a nearby table. He sips at a highball and never takes his eyes off the unsuspecting guest.

After a time others appear to notice the constant watch and speak of it. This espionage goes on relentlessly during the meal, while the victim grows a little more fidgety all the while. There is something creepy about a fixed gaze to any innocent person.

Finally, the pseudo-gangster comes over to the table and growls to the now thoroughly frightened guest: "Where's my brother Ed?" And he adds: "You bumped him off and it is your turn." A fake fight is started and almost invariably the poor victim sneaks out. On the sidewalk a gang, in on the joke, is waiting to give him the razz.

They were talking of a young spender known for joy riding activities. But it was agreed he was always the gentleman. "He is gallant, all right," observed H. N. Swanson, the collegiate magazine editor. "He always precedes the lady through the wind shield."

Beneath the Surface

"Bugs" Baer Says:

College Football

THIS week marks the correct end of college football as played in stadiums and the weekly news reels.

"Bugs" Baer

The investigation by Carnegie Foundation failed to prove that our November crop of amateurs was influenced by the farm subsidy.

Only the scandal developed. During the financial slump in Wall street, our own college had to let three players go until call money got lower.

We must admit that college football is brutal if you are forced to get your tickets off a speculator.

We hoped to be one of the animals in raccoon coats who pipe Army play Notre Dame. We have had great sympathy for Army ever since we got that exemption blank.

We believe that college football is the only real amateurish sport left, even though it is a tough way to earn a hospital chart.

The Carnegie Foundation claimed that colleges had extended their retail zones and that most players think Alma Mater is the name of a bank.

We didn't notice the Foundation squawking that the A. E. F. was getting its board and tuition free. If a college athlete can earn his way through the dormitories by slugging 11 strangers according to rules and regulations, let him do it.

Why doesn't Carnegie Foundation get up a backfield and show the boys how to play the game?

This business of proselyting players isn't so easy. Last year we scouted a young fellow playing quarter-back on one of the teams in Arkansas.

"How would you like to go to college?" we asked him.

"You don't look so bright yourself," he said.

Then he called for a tackle play through the 50-cent seats.

ALL IN ONE BOAT

By Herbert Kaufman

NEIGHBOR HOOVER and the folks have been figuring how agriculture can best meet local and federal responsibilities.

Sitting around a figurative store-stove, with conversational whittling knives, instead of trading arguments and votes with Senate committees, seems the preferable way to iron out such differences of opinion as exist between economic and official groups.

The farmers think that a little help in state road building and easier credit terms will do much to improve the outlook, provided Congress establishes their tariff parity with industry, and Dr. Legge's Golden Soothing Syrup continues to alleviate glut-ache and market indigestion.

But Mr. Hoover might well have taken the occasion to stress the necessity of FURTHER diversification on the range and grange.

Most of the troubles from which food raising has lately suffered originate in single cropping.

AMERICAN acreage inclines to follow lines of least resistance.

It prefers to bear wheat, which demands the slightest cultivation, engages the minimum of effort and enables one to sit in the porch rocking chair half the months of the year, swap grouches and sing songs of hate at Wall Street, to the accompaniment of Radio programs.

Meanwhile Argentina and the Sascatchewan and the Antipodes are ALSO seeding grain and DOLCE FAR NIENTING.

So that we usually have more breadstuffs sprouting about the earth than consumption ordered.

Consequently, the law of supply and demand is able to fix prices to its own satisfaction, which leaves the staple specialist on the short end of the profit limb.

Until that situation mends, agriculture must pay the piper.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul was lately in the same fix. It overproduced MILEAGE and didn't find a prompt enough OUTLET for it.

THE system couldn't diversify traffic as fast as overhead required. There weren't sufficient towns along the route to sustain needed accommodation trains—not enough short hauls or contributing feeders.

The powers-that-were chose the wrong promotion hour. But development has since crowded its freight fleets with tonnage and the right of way with communities and plowed lands. So the project which was lately a failure, is now making the grade.

The department store splits its activities into as many sorts of stock as possible.

Merchants diversify sources of income to reduce the risk of misjudging seasonal selections and spending trends.

The tire manufacturer diversifies. Goodyear is building airships, household utilities, rubber shoes, belting and heavens knows what not, instead of pinning dividend faiths EXCLUSIVELY on automobile outlet.

WHEN the manufacturer is over-inventoried, he's lucky to get fifty cents on the dollar for unabsorbed goods.

Surplus is simply a penalty for miscalculation. And there's no method, except commonsense, individually applied, to correct errors of judgment in the FACTORY or on the FARM.

When a railroad over-estimates the shipping possibilities of territory, it lands in receivership. Its securities drop from par to fractional quotations.

Mismanagement exacts pounds of flesh from all balance sheets, and half the farmer's difficulties are the fruits of bad management.

Farming, and no other business, can be made to PAY unless there are HEADS as well as HANDS working in the fields.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

IN THE same sort of way it may be that the government receives continual intimations from the chest and belly, that all goes well with the kidneys, or that there is a slight unrest in the stomach that may presage more serious trouble, and so on.

In addition to our accurately-analyzable sensations there are vague feelings that are at present imperfectly understood, feelings of vigor, appetite, discomfort, restlessness, weariness, oppression, and so on, that lead up to and are evidently related to emotional states. It may be that such feelings are to a large extent due to impulses from our viscera.

H. G. Wells

SMELL AND TASTE

Smell and taste are the chemical senses—that is to say, the stimulating agents in each case are not physical influences, such as temperature, pressure or light, but chemical substances which act because of their molecular structure.

The mechanism of smell and taste are fundamentally alike. In both cases the essential elements are cells, sensitive to particular substances, and which dispatch impulses to the brain when those substances are present.

In both cases, the stimulating substance has to be dissolved in water before it is effective; thus, although even a weak tincture of quinine has a powerful taste, dry quinine powder, which dissolves slowly and sparingly in saliva, has hardly any taste at all, and similarly odorous substances have to dissolve in the moisture covering the nasal mucous membrane before they evoke any sensation of smell.

The nostrils lead into two triangular cavities which are broken up and made labyrinthine by the scroll-like turbinal bones. The special cells that perceive odorous substances are found at the upper end of these cavities, and on the thin partition that divides the right nasal cavity from the left.

Owing to the complicated structure of the nasal cavities, inspired air does not generally blow over the olfactory membranes; if it did so, it would tend to clog them with its suspended dust, and to dry their moisture. The lower part of the nose is swept by this rhythmic gale while in the upper regions the air is comparatively still.

The organs responsible for the sense of taste are the "taste-buds," egg-shaped clusters of cells distributed over the tongue and soft palate in the process usually called "tasting."

The organs of taste sensu stricto play a part which is as limited as that played by the sense-organs of the skin in "feeling." There are only four kinds of pure taste sensations: Sweet, sour, bitter and salt. Any particular taste-bud is specialized to respond to one only of these four tastes.

HEARING

Sound consists of rhythmical pulsations of the air, and there is no evidence whatever that such pulsations can act directly on living protoplasm.

We find that the stimulus which excites the auditory cells is not a sound-stimulus but a touch-stimulus, for the ear is an elaborate machine so constructed that whenever sound-pulsations fall upon it sensitive cells are touched.

The organ of hearing consists of three parts—the outer visible ear, the middle ear with its ear-drum, and the inner ear.

The inner ear is the true sense-organ, for it is here that the vibrations cause the excitation of sensory-cells and the initiation of nervous impulses.

The outer and middle ears are structures which collect sound vibrations and transmit them to the inner ear, making it possible for that elaborate and fragile device to lie safely embedded in the bone of the skull.

Most mammals are provided with a natural ear-trumpet in the external ear, a hollow cone which can be turned about to face the direction from which sounds are coming, and which therefore makes feeble sounds more distinctly audible.

From this ear-trumpet a short tube leads to the ear-drum, the boundary separating the outer and middle ears. In man this amplifying apparatus is poorly developed; the external ear is a mere flap of no acoustic importance and the power of moving it, except in a few gifted individuals, is absent.

The tube leading from this reduced ear-trumpet to the ear-drum is provided with hairs and wax-secreting cells that have a filtering and protecting function similar to that of the hairs and mucus-secreting cells of the nose.

STEVE can't understand why people don't like him.

Popularity means a lot to Steve. He's a salesman and no one ever worked harder to get himself liked than he . . . or with less results. It's a mystery. He possesses and exercises all the qualifications that the Success Books advocate. He's good looking, well dressed . . . bright, alert, energetic . . . always beaming and bustling . . . a live wire, with a rattling good line. Yet, he leaves people cold. What's worse, if he tries to press them, they are apt to get sore.

Even when he drops business it's the same. Some men, not half as smart or agreeable as Steve, are a riot wherever they go. He can't understand it. They're careless in dress and manner. They say incredibly silly things. They don't seem to give a hang what happens. Yet everyone welcomes them with cheers, while, no matter how hard Steve tries to win them over, folks remain aloof with him.

Of course, Steve senses their indifference in a second. He sees them grow restless in spite of his animated performance. They behave as if they were looking at an act and getting badly bored. And there, if he but knew it, is the answer to his riddle.

FOR STEVE IS JUST PUTTING ON AN ACT.

His mind stays on an invisible stage while he patters his lines.

THE PERSON BEFORE HIM IS ALWAYS AUDIENCE AND STEVE NEVER BECOMES PART OF THE AUDIENCE.

He gives his audience the speech and the gesture which he thinks he should give them, but he never gives the audience HIMSELF.

Steve remains as unreal as any actor to his audience. The listener may become temporarily interested in Steve's lines but he never becomes interested in Steve, himself.

If Steve could come down from his stage and flop in a seat beside his audience and grin n' borrow a cigaret n' act regular, they'd love him . . . for then he'd be one of them. And his very carelessness and silliness would be dear to them for it would be part of their own carelessness and silliness. But as long as he stays on the stage, all dressed up and talking smart, Steve remains a show.

Steve could put himself across to his audience and gain the popularity he longs for, if he'd use his imagination, instead of a lot of technique.

FOR IMAGINATION BRIDGES THE GAP BETWEEN LIVES.

Technique tells Steve what to say to a person. . . .

BUT IMAGINATION WOULD HELP STEVE BE THAT PERSON. . . .

Imagination would throw open the door into that other person's spirit. . . .would make him feel what that other person was feeling. . . .would actually make Steve a part of that other person. . . .

AND THEN THAT PERSON WOULD LIKE STEVE AS HE WANTS TO BE LIKED, FOR THERE WOULD BE A ONENESS BETWEEN THEM.

But Steve misses all that—

People are PROSPECTS, to Steve. . . .not PERSONS.

And, unconsciously, they know it and resent it.

That's why Steve isn't popular.

Perhaps you're unpopular, too. Maybe that's why.
